El Dorado High School
1651 N. Valencia
Placentia, California
Volume Nineteen
1984-1985

El Dorado mascot, the Golden hawk, appears center court on the floor of the gym. This painting was first done this year when the gym was renovated.

Amanda Pemberton sits alone during lunch and catches up on her reading. Amanda was in the ED choir and also participated actively in the French Club.

Before athletic events, spirit posters, such as this one, appeared on campus. These posters were designed to get the athletes and students involved and excited about the upcoming games.

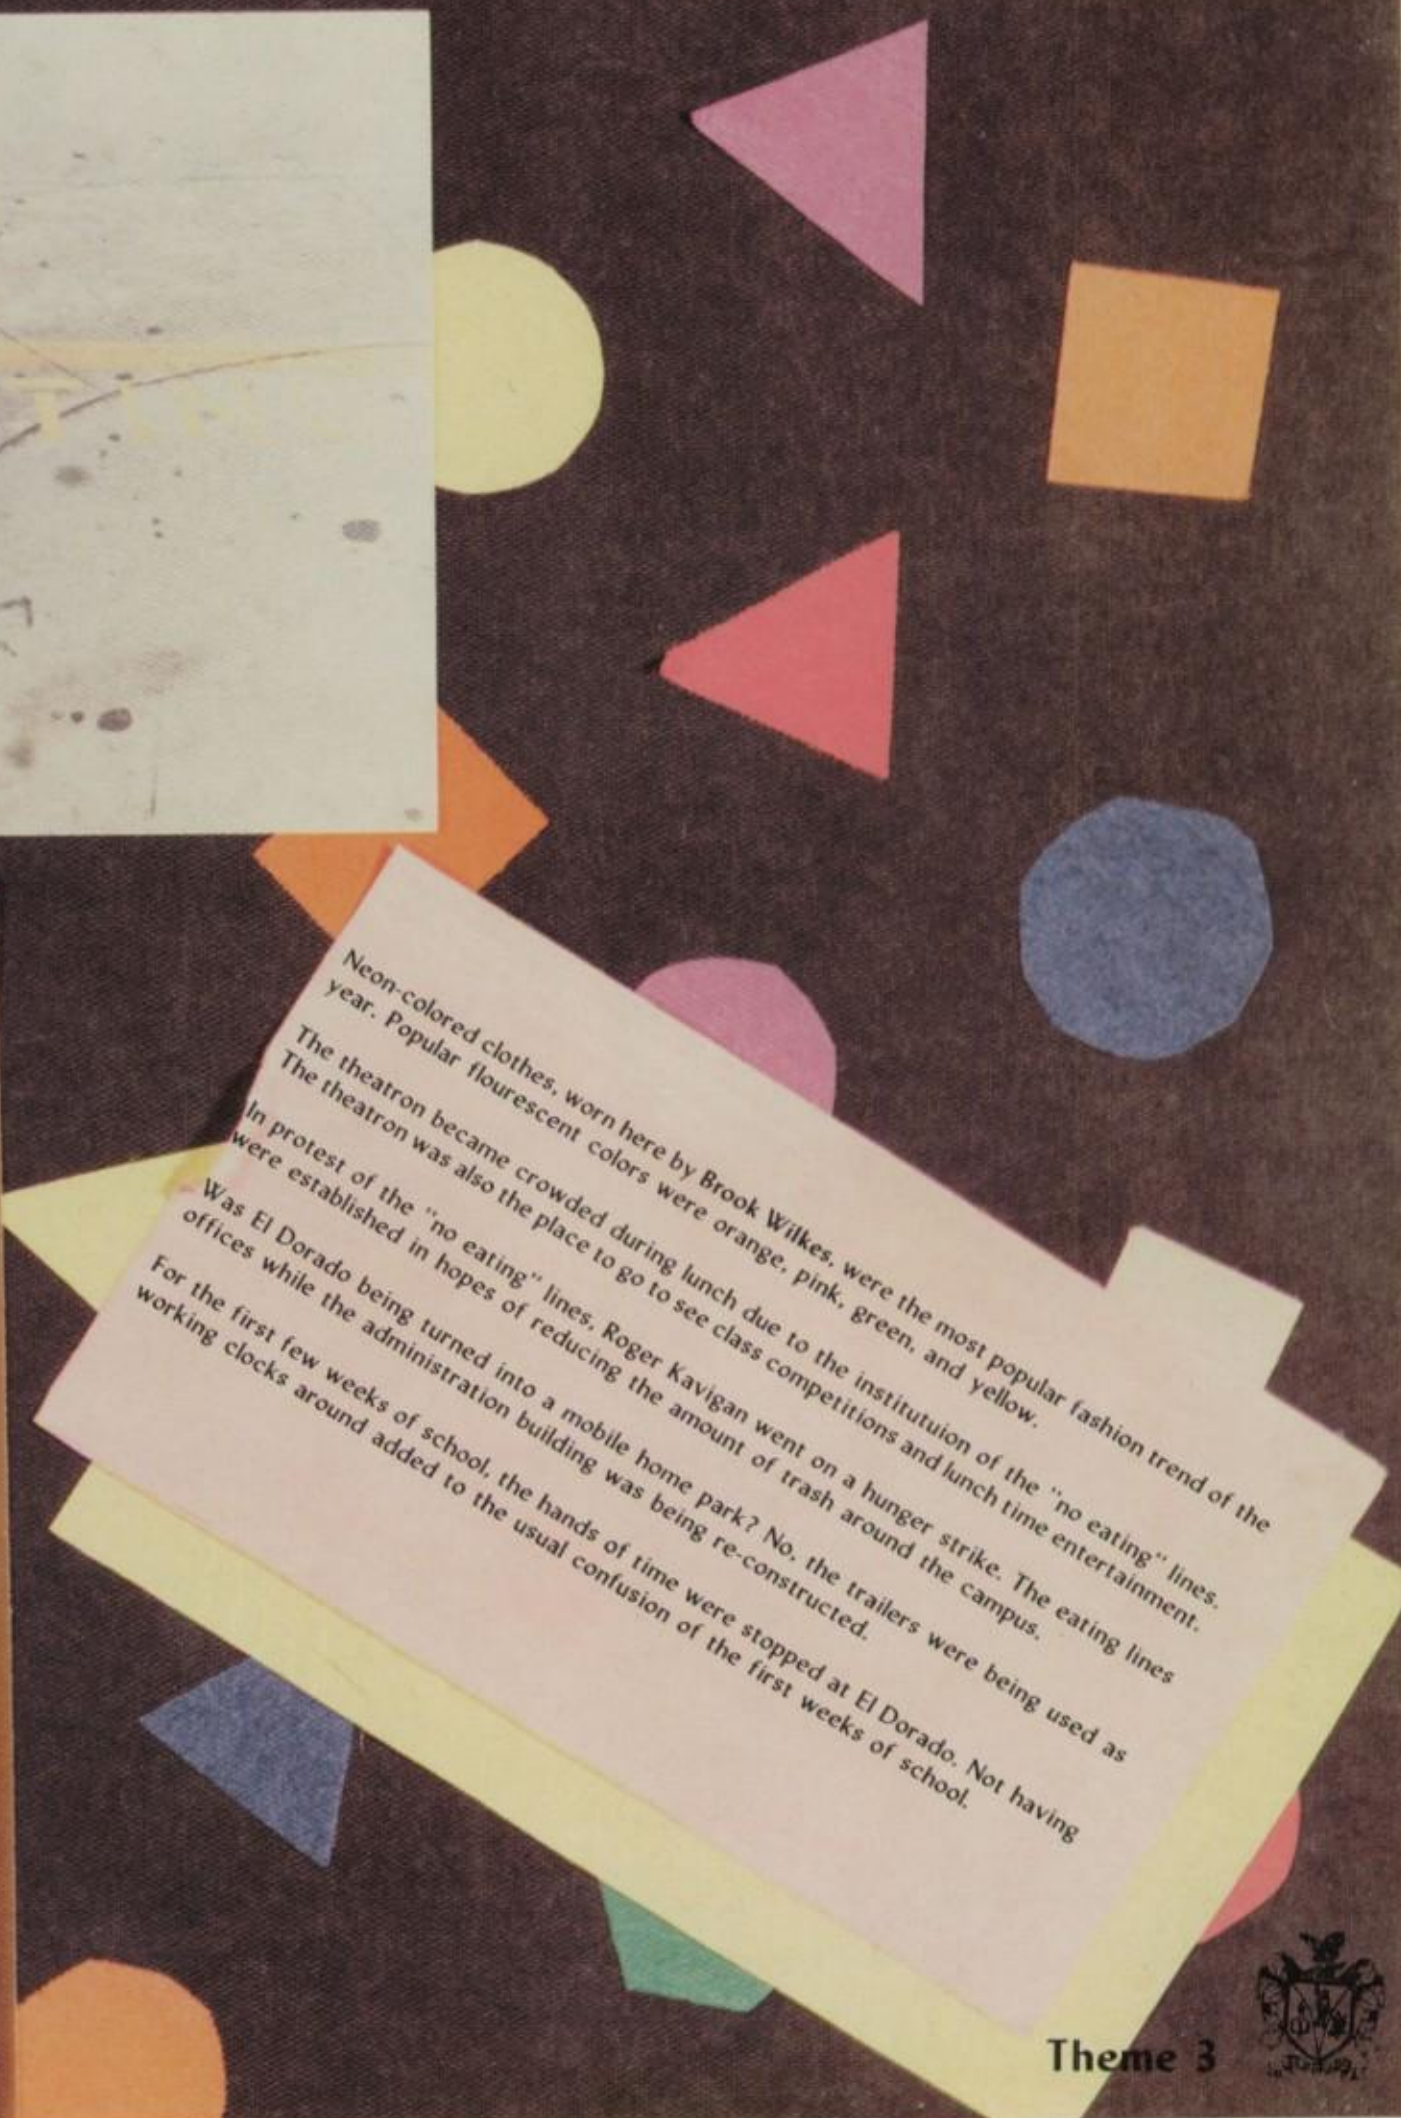

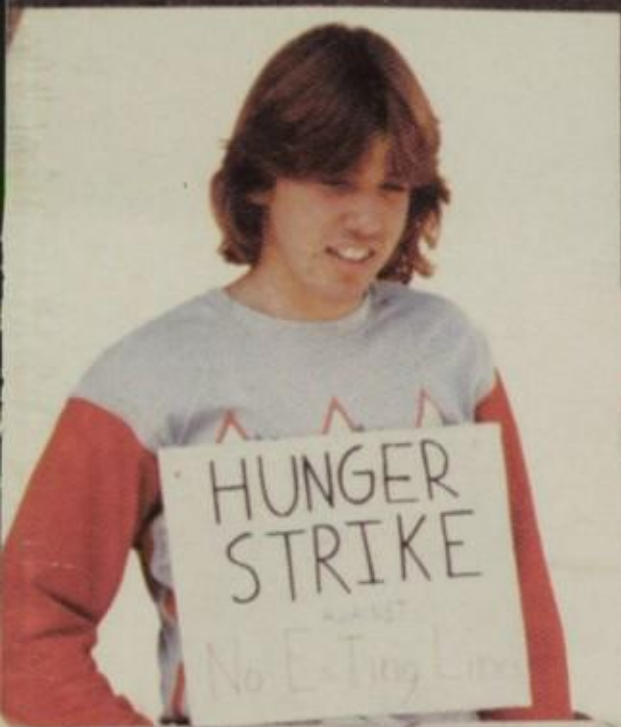

Changes

Rumors of El Dorado being turned into a mobile home park spread rapidly as the El Dorado portable administration was seen working out of portable trailers on the first day of school. As students found their way past the construction of new offices and new theatron, they were greeted by large yellow lines proclaiming there would be no eating. What? We can't eat at school? Well, we could, but only in designated areas. The five minute bell rings, not sounding quite like it used to, and students push through the crowded locker cages and head for their first class. Signs hung in each room to show that a different schedule would be used on Tuesday and Thursday (which later changed to Monday and Wednesday) in order to have a class called "academic enrichment". What? You mean we have to remember two schedules? All through the day, clocks were watched and the hands never moved, announcements never were waited for but the intercoms never came on, the phones never buzzed but the teacher's walkie talkies did. From the moment the alarm clock rang for the first day of school, to the last tardy bell of the year, we knew it was a time for

Changes

Neon-colored clothes, worn here by Brook Wilkes, were the most popular fashion trend of the year. Popular fluorescent colors were orange, pink, green, and yellow.

The theatron became crowded during lunch due to the institution of the "no eating" lines. The theatron was also the place to go to see class competitions and lunch time entertainment. The theatron was established in hopes of reducing the amount of trash around the campus.

In protest of the "no eating" lines, Roger Kavigan went on a hunger strike. The eating lines were established in hopes of reducing the amount of trash around the campus. Was El Dorado being turned into a mobile home park? No, the trailers were being used as offices while the administration building was being re-constructed. For the first few weeks of school, the hands of time were stopped at El Dorado. Not having working clocks around added to the usual confusion of the first weeks of school.

Singing the Alma Mater, Juniors show their school pride. Pledging the Alma Mater has been a tradition since the school opened in 1965.

At the Hello dance, Kristin Ladner, Scott Fairfield, and Kim Arnold dance to the sounds played by a well-liked D.J. Students usually enjoy the music that is played at dances.

Melissa Arnold, in her fashionable neon attire, discusses life with her friend. Wearing bright colored clothing and talking with friends were a popular past time this year.

Principal Jerry Jertberg ponders over the changes that occurred during the school year. He wondered if the renovations of the 700 and Administration Buildings would be completed by the end of the school year.

Kevin Barbee, Russ Hughes, and Will Philips discuss the "no eating" lines over lunch. Russ doesn't like the lines because it causes him to be tardy to his third period.

Changes

Some things never change. Fearful freshmen on the first day of school, seniors throwing their caps into the air on the day of their graduation, excuses for that late homework assignment or for the tardy to first period because you slept in too late, the excitement of finally getting off those awful braces, and finally getting contacts in place of glasses, excitement over receiving the long-awaited drivers license, the relief felt when the long-awaited date is finally made, football games and dances on Friday nights and seniors finally catching the dreaded senioritis. Most of all, students will always find new ways to entertain themselves. Although the surroundings will continue to change, the students will always create the experiences.

Fun in The Sun

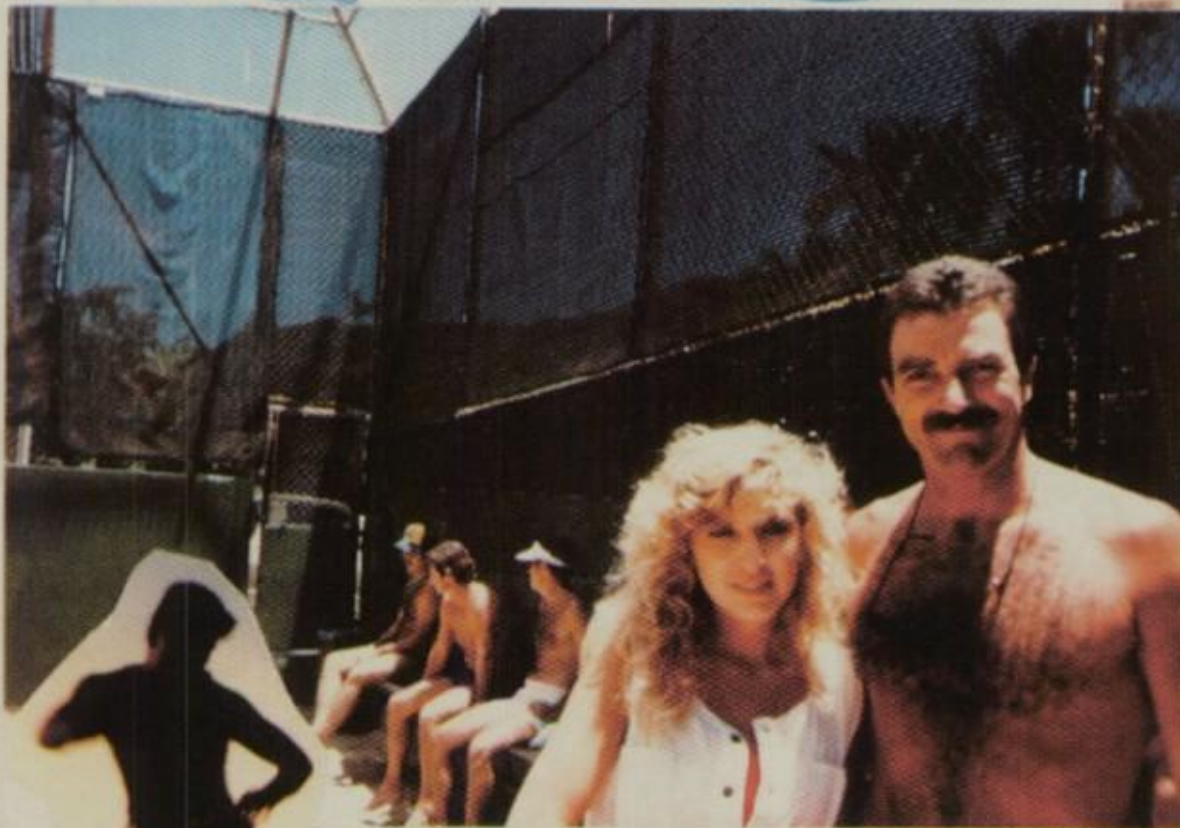

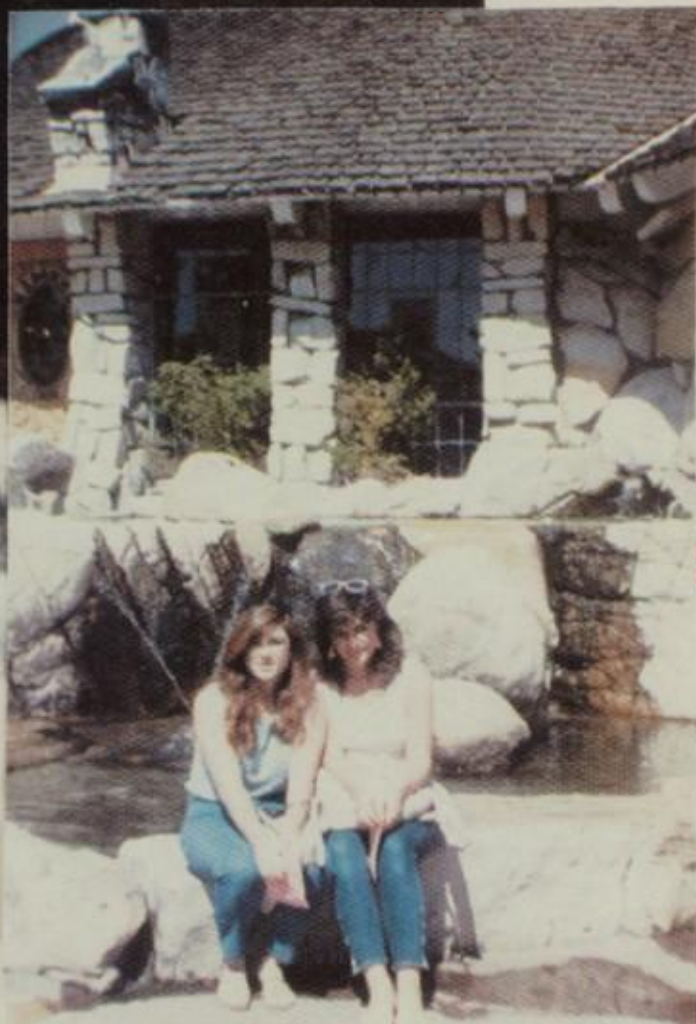

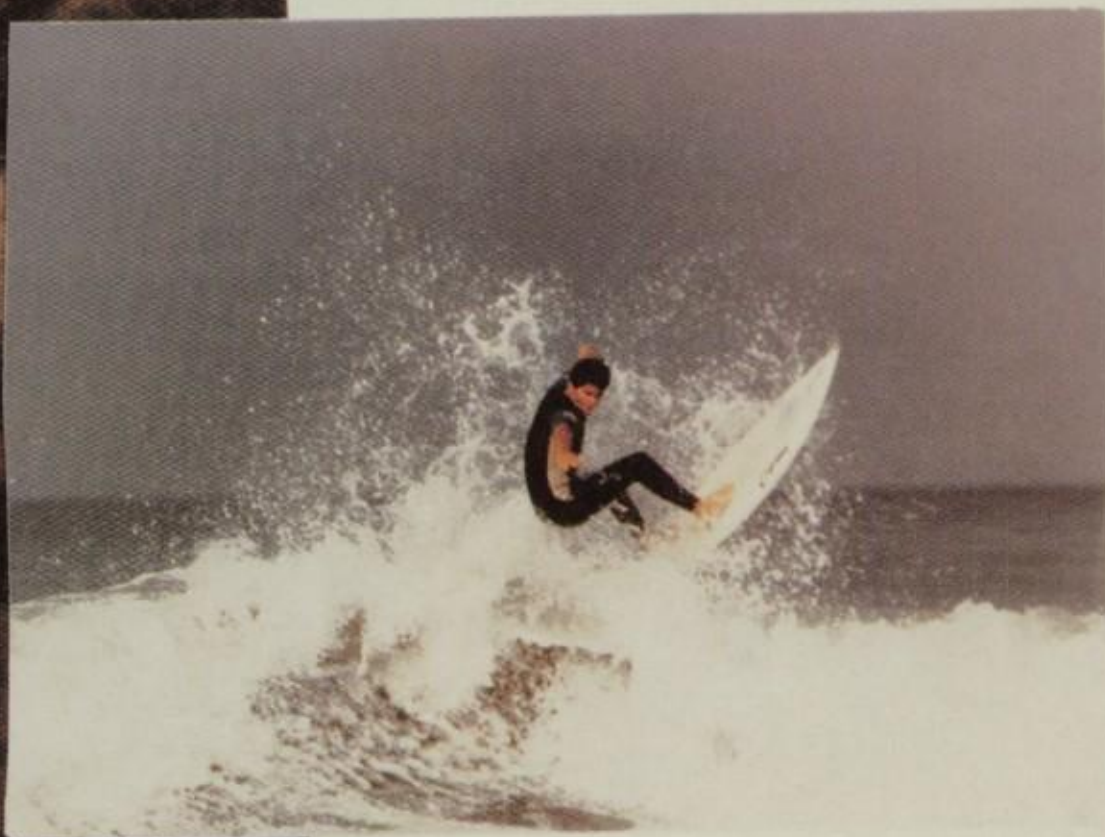

Imagine a time when there was no homework, no tardy bells, no teachers, no pressure. Was it heaven? Or was it summer? A time that was filled with concerts, movies, beaches, work, travel, sleep, or no sleep, however you chose.

The students of El Dorado never gave up finding new ways to spend their summer of '84. Mitch Miya played golf two times a week and took the bus to the beach. While Jaime Wallburg could have been found in Big Dunes, Nevada, riding motorcycles in the desert and Jessica Lawson was on Orcas Island for three weeks in the family condo.

Another popular form of summer fun came by way of the many near by amusement parks. Jason Bone went "scamming" and dancing at Knott's Berry Farm with his friends, John Kwilman and Tom Atkins. Jason Terando was sleeping because it was too hot.

Summer vacation is a time to be remembered and enjoyed throughout the high school years.

It's a dream come true for Bonnie Fetter as she poses with Tom Selleck. Bonnie met Tom Selleck not once, but three times on her trip to Hawaii over the summer.

Enjoying the California summer means enjoying the beach. Here the sun sets on the beautiful coast of San Diego.

Having been surfing for nearly four years, Mike Genera shows how he has accomplished both ability and style.

Tracey Lombardo and Crystal Casanova pose in front of the famous Madonna Inn. Over the summer the two girls took a trip up the coast and visited such cities as San Louis Obispo and Solvang.

1984 Olympics

We Love L.A.

1984 OLYMPICS - WE LOVE L.A.

What do thirteen Hawks have to do with Baron Pierre de Theodosius? How were the Golden Hawks called by the Olympic Organizing Committee?

The Olympic Games thread their way through more than 33 centuries. The games came to serve as a temporary truce between warring factions of Greece, with participants enjoying safe passage through enemy territories and back. Originally, prizes were simple olive wreaths. But as rewards increased in value, the Games became corrupted. Finally, in 393 A.D., the Emperor Theodosius declared the end of the Olympic Games. The rebirth of the Olympic Games were held in Athens on April 6, 1896.

Since then, the games have been held every four years with the exception of 1916, 1940, and 1944. In 1984, Los Angeles was selected as the site of the XXIII rd Olympiad Celebration, where American's goose pimples and old-fashioned patriotism blossomed. Los Angeles was festooned with flags, flowers on lamp posts, banners on the buses, singing in the streets, and music in the heart, a city awash with the costumes and customs of every culture on the planet and the envy of every capitol on it.

The 1984 Modern Olympic Games not only occurred in our own backyard, but many of our own hawks participated. These participants included twelve students from the classes of 1985 and 1986 which are: Kristen Dodd, Beth-Ann Driscoll, Carol Facione, Susan Janicki, Linda LaBorde, Tracy Lester, LeeAnn Miner, Michelle Morey, Anne Pateman, Jennifer Shecter, David Stow, and Donna Snyder.

John Mykkanen, a 1984 El Dorado graduate and member of the U.S. Swim Team, won a silver medal in the 800 meter freestyle. David Stow participated in the Opening Ceremony of the Games. By using his gymnastic skills, Dave played a part in history as a fiddler. 150 people tried out while only 48 lucky people made it. Dodd, Driscoll, Facione, Janicki, LaBorde, Lester, Miner, Morey, Pateman, Shecter, and Snyder were volunteers in both the Opening and Closing Ceremonies. These eleven were part of the Tall Flag Squad that numbered 288. Try-outs were held for high schools all over California in March. Practices began in May and continued up to the ceremonies. "It took alot of time and dedication, but I loved every minute of it — meeting people from all over the world was an experience I would never trade. I will always have an overwhelming feeling about the ceremonies," stated Michelle Morey. Jennifer Shecter commented, "I was really sad when it was over, but the memories will last forever."

El Dorado participants in the Olympic Ceremonies pose in their official participant tee-shirts. These shirts were made for participants only.

Standing proudly in his uniform, Dave Stow models for his mom. Dave practiced 5 days a week beginning July 5.

Being called the new Nadia, Mary Lou Retton captivated gymnastic audiences with her dazzling performances. Her perfect 10 on the vault brought her a gold medal.

The spectacular card trick in the Opening ceremonies will never be forgotten. A record number, 144 nations, participated in the games.

The excited Olympic athletes march proudly into the Coliseum as they are introduced. 615 Americans represented the U.S. in the games.

U.S. Olympic athlete, Steve Lundquist, eagerly awaits the Opening Ceremonies. Lundquist won 3 medals in swimming events.

Olympic Tall Flag members take a break before performing before 2 ½ billion people. The girls met at school every morning to car pool to El Segundo High or the Coliseum.

Olympic boxer, Henry Tilman, wears his well earned gold medal.

The mysterious torch lighter Rafer Johnson, displays the torch to the anxious Coliseum crowd. Johnson won a gold medal in 1960 in the decathlon.

The elaborate Opening Ceremonies sparked the beginning of the XIIIrd Olympiad.

Almost Paradise

A frog jumping contest, the Newlywed game, Sweet talking Gal contest, and a semi-formal dance all had one thing in common. They were Homecoming activities that took place during the traditional spirit week.

As expected, the seniors won 4 out of 6 events. Scott Fairfield and Gene Tjoa were in charge of preparation for the week of activities and created many of the new ideas, such as the Newlywed game and the Ugly Foot contest. "New traditions have been started and in future years others will be able to build on them," replied Scott.

An exciting end to the festivities of Homecoming week was the semi-formal dance. "Festive atmosphere with lights, balloons, and good music to dance to," said Jana Florentine about the dance. The music was provided by Surge.

That night will hold many memories for all the students who attended. The overall impression of the evening was extremely positive from the many people who went to the dance. "Almost Paradise" dance was the work of the Senior Class Council.

In the Lake El Dorado races, Mike Tillman pushed Laura Woodruff to the finish line to bring the sophomores in third place. The seniors were the overall winners.

A crowd gathered to watch senior, Mike McClosky jump his frog. The frog jumping contest was one of the new ideas for spirit week.

Queen Colleen O'Higgins and King Roger Behle danced together for the special song dedicated to the court. Both students are active in school activities.

In The Spotlight

Friday, October 26 was the night of the Homecoming game against the Pacifica Mariners. During the first quarter, Pacifica took the lead on an 8 yard scoring run following an intercepted pass. The Hawks came back going 77 yards in 8 plays with Ricco throwing a 24 yard touchdown pass to Brian Galvin. After an 80 yard drive with an 8 yard pass, Pacifica led at half-time 14-7. In the fourth quarter, Pacifica kicked a 26 yard field goal to make the score 17-7. After scoring on an 18 yard pass to Rusty Moore, the Hawks got beat out by the clock with a final score of 17-13.

Football was not the only form of entertainment that night. The crowd anxiously awaited the half-time ceremonies where the Homecoming Queen would be crowned. A parade of cars brought the court center stage where they were announced. The 1984-85 Homecoming Court was, Kari Probst, freshman princess, Sandra Fukushima, sophomore princess, Mika Christy, junior princess, Jennifer Jones, and Jenni White, Senior princesses. Roger Behle was our King and Colleen O'Higgins was crowned our Queen.

After being crowned the 1984-85 Homecoming Queen, Colleen O'Higgins was all smiles. Returning to pass down her crown, our 1983-84 Queen Kelly Dresser gives her best wishes to our new Queen.

Taking a quick break from the game, starters Rusty Moore, #21, wide receiver and Todd Holt #31, tailback, watch the action from the sidelines.

Outrunning the Pacifica defense, senior Frank Ricco gains some yardage for the team. Ricco was a first year quarterback on the varsity team.

Preparing the offense for action, quarterback Frank Ricco yells out the next series of plays.

Excitement filled the air during half-time as the court was escorted by center stage to await the announcement of the queen.

Seniors David O'Brien, John Bell, John Kwilman, Chris Ames, Jeff Monaghan, Ken Kaldenbach, and Brian Flatley sit at their regular hangout to eat lunch. Most students "brown-bag-it" instead of waiting in the long lunch lines. On December 2, the senior lunch line went into effect.

Laura Kinley puts in a little extra time on her homework. A lot of seniors got out of school at lunch, so break was the only time to socialize, or work on homework.

Building supplies could be found everywhere during the first few weeks of school. The new office was finally finished November 5. The counseling offices were also moved from the library to the new, bigger office at the front of the school.

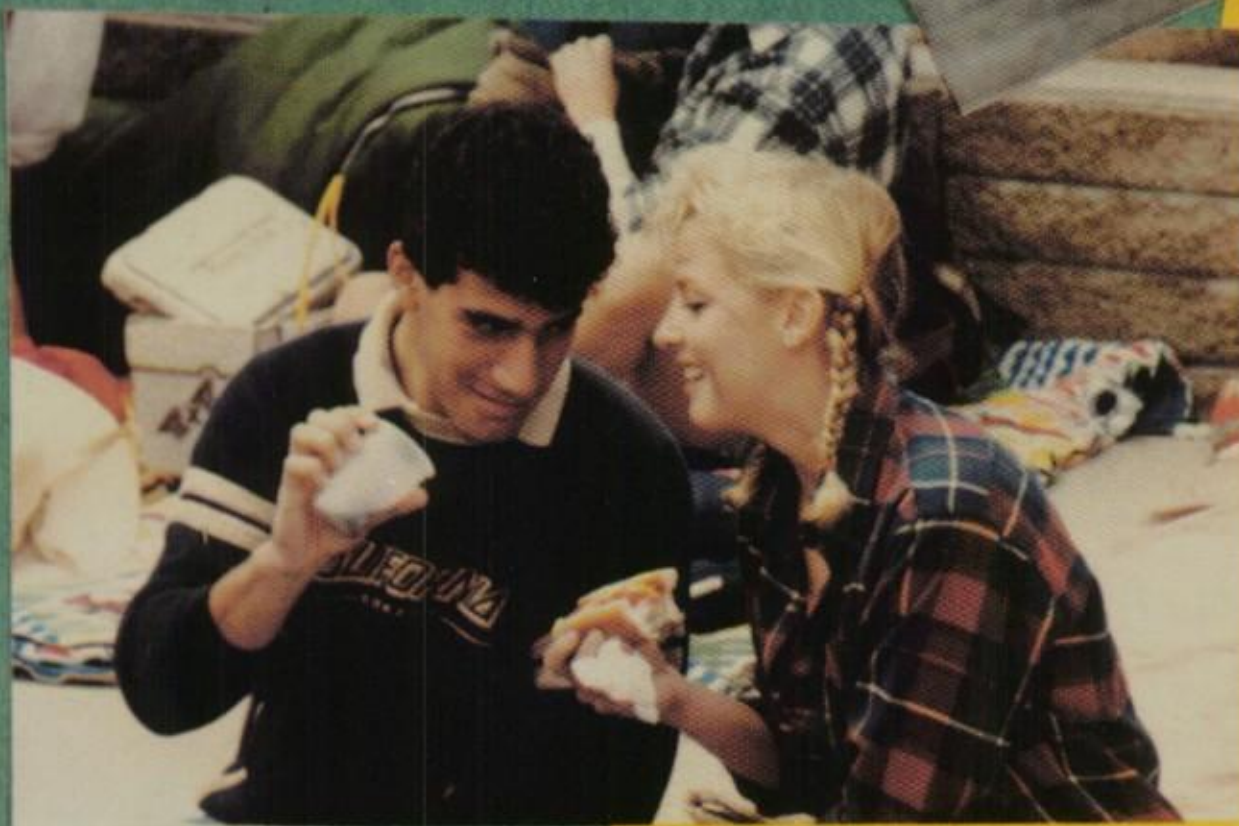

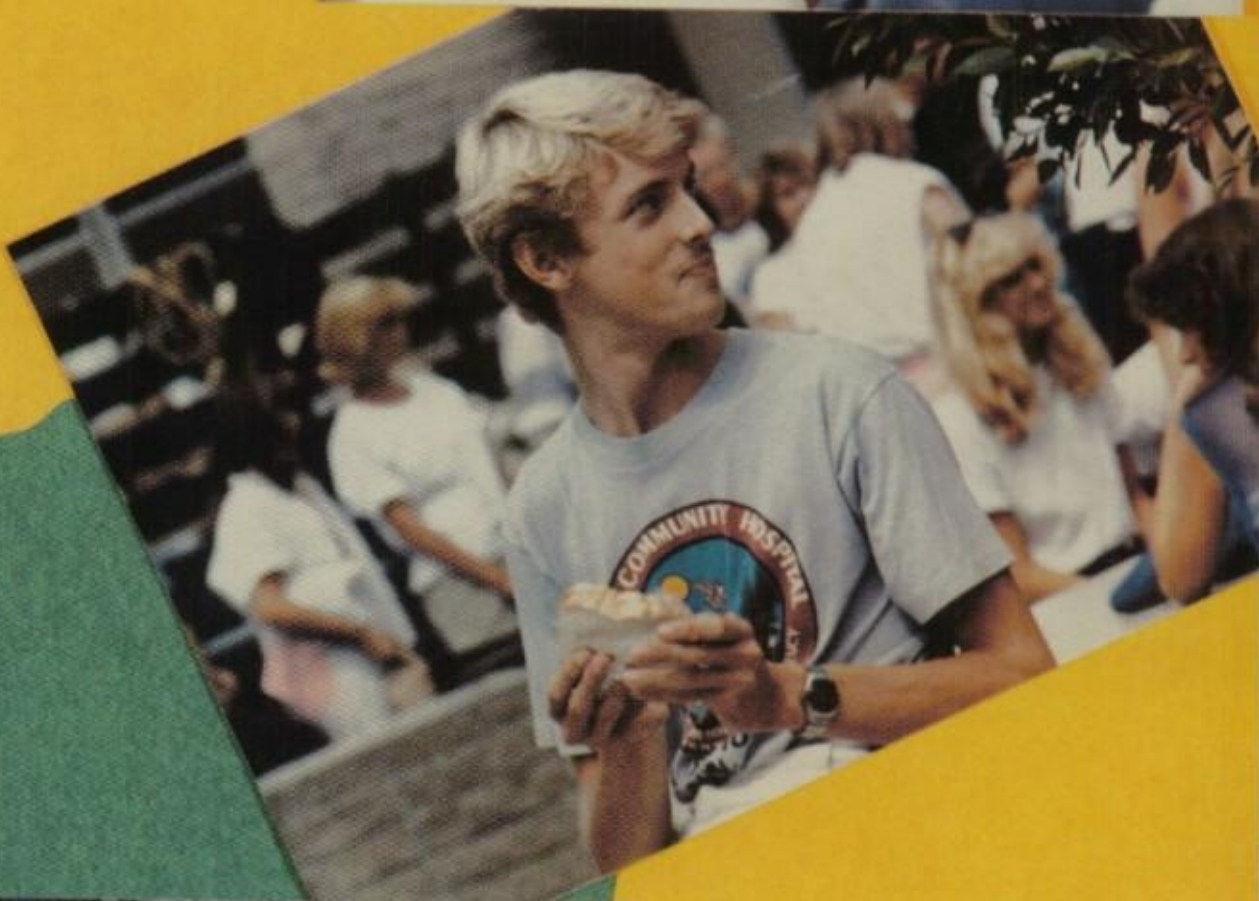

Seniors

Waves of Yesterday Tides of Tomorrow.

The ocean-the mystery it holds, the depths which are unexplored, and the thrill of conquering its vastness-represents our future. As an underclassman, the times in high school are calm and silent. As our junior year rolls around we begin to feel the pull towards an unknown shore, the undercurrent of indecision. Our senior year comes like an unexpected wave crashing down, drowning us with career choices, college applications, and SAT scores. We struggle to survive the overwhelming pressure. Finally the commotion dies down. As we drift back into the immense ocean, we all take different paths, moving at our pace towards the sun whose ray's shine the light toward our future.

Staring at the line for the hot dogs, which were sold on camping day, Brian Hoogerbrugge wondered if he should have bought one instead of his sandwich.

Kim Hardy and Bobby Cohen shared a hot dog together on camping day. Camping day is a traditional senior quad activity.

Senior, Tori Tomazic watched the activities that took place on camping day. Tori is a member of the girls varsity swim team and has gone to CIF.

Friends, Lynnette Ignacek and Carol Rathburn exchange small talk as they walk to class together. At other times Lynnette can be found on the soccer field or throwing the shot put while Carol can be found preparing for an upcoming dance performance.

Wow! Steve Beard already has a V-8. Steve played defensive back on the varsity football team for 2 years.

Jamie Braam was an active member in beach day. He along with many other seniors brought lawn chairs, beach towels, and bought snow cones.

Striving For Changes

Your senior year in high school should be the best it can be. That's the goal this year's senior class officers strived for. Led by this year's President Holly Piper, the council was very enthusiastic as well as productive. "We've established new senior privileges, such as a senior lunch line, as well as bring back old traditions like 'Seniors Only' in the senior quad, senior parking, senior dress up days and activities; I think we've done a good job of it," states Commissioner of Publicity Susan Geer. Chris Saito, Vice President, was the only guy on the council. "I had a good time. We all got along really well together and we got a lot accomplished." The hard work and dedication put forth by this year's council definitely paid off. The last year of high school for the year of 85 will never be forgotten.

Camping Day was one of the many activities this year's senior class officers sponsored. Students from all grades packed into the senior quad to buy hot dogs and cokes for $1, the money going to senior grad night. The senior class officers are from left to right: commissioner of publicity Susan Geer, secretary Jennifer Jones, president Holly Piper, vice president Chris Saito, and treasurer Tracy Tastad.

Feelings On Being A Senior

Wendi Bevan: "I'm ready for the real world."

Joe Dentino: "It feels like it's been too long, but I have to admit it's been pretty good most of the time."

Mike Smith: "It's great to be a senior, but I wish that I could play football."

Susan Sweet: "It is sort of a mixed emotion of happiness and relief, but it also brings a lot of fear and frustration."

Stephen Walker: "I feel like it's my last year before parole. I will finally be able to go free!"

Tina Contreras: "I can't wait to graduate and go to college."

Julie Lee: "It seems like it was just yesterday when I walked into El Dorado as a freshman adoring Craig Rutledge. Now I'm leaving El Dorado still adoring Craig Rutledge."

Tracey Tastad: "Senior year is well worth the wait!"

David Hintz: "Your perspective of the school changes 180 degrees from your freshman year."

Seniors Libby Kingseed and Jana Florentine eat lunch together in the senior quad. This year's seniors are serious in upholding the tradition of the SENIORS ONLY quad. Members of the volleyball team, Libby and Jana wore their volleyball outfits on game days.

Lugging his backpack, Chris Crow makes his way to class. Backpacks are a popular item with students because they hold numerous books and reduce the number of trips taken to lockers.

Disneyland, for most students at El Dorado, was a place to go for enjoyment. This was true for senior Wally Jester, so much so that he decided to make his career there.

"As a kid I always dreamed of working at Disneyland, but I was not really serious until I took an ROP class there at the end of my junior year. Everyone I worked with was so nice, and the people visiting were so happy, that it made the whole environment pleasant."

Wally started out as seasonal help and plans to eventually become a supervisor of one of the seven different lands.

Since his job is seasonal, Wally has time to keep up his school work and enjoy his hobbies which include: computers, playing raquetball, and golfing.

Although Wally knows there is a lot of money in the computer field he does not want to become a programmer because. "Sitting in front of a computer all day can become boring. At Disneyland I get to meet people from all over the world."

Planning On The Future

As we all know, the decision of what to do after high school can be a tough one. There are many things to choose from. Do you go to college or do you go right out into the working world? When asked what their plans for the future were, these seniors replied,

Kevin Ryder- "Enjoy life to the fullest!"

Greg Reynolds- "I'm not sure yet."

Steve Beard- "Be a successful businessman."

Sam Pope- "Study physics."

Ed Turhune- "Do something in the music field."

Greg Christy- "Be filthy rich."

Willie Wright- "Become a child psychologist."

Mike Adamson- "Become a computer technician."

Scott Fairfield- "I want to be a stunt man."

Todd Gilpin- "Go to college."

Cliff Alvarez- "Be a cop and bust every kid that drinks!"

Kevin Ryder gets amused as he watches Todd Holt chase underclassmen out of the senior quad on beach day.

Renouncing The World

What do most students do on a Friday or Saturday night? Party, go out with friends? How about local churches, The Vineyard, or The Door. What for? Concerts, "Christian Rock" concerts. Seniors Todd Alexander and Richard Howerth spend a good part of their weekend visiting these places to see bands such as Undercover, Altar Boys, and The Lifesavers. Todd and Rich both say that they listen to this music because "it has a more positive message than the average song on the radio." Todd strongly feels that "music has a definite influence on the way you act and feel." Although they both enjoy mainly New Wave music they sometimes listen to Heavy Metal groups such as Stryper and Resurrection Band. Rich feels that even though he sometimes gets strange looks at school that he can't let that bother him and sometimes will even draw attention to himself by dancing or singing in the halls.

Besides their music they both enjoy dancing, church, surfing, and meeting new people.

Surfs Up?

Seniors relaxing in their shorts and sunglasses catch some rays on Senior Beach Day.

Newport Beach, Huntington Beach, or Balboa, no - El Dorado's own senior quad. That's where the sun's rays were shining on Friday, September 21. The senior class dressed for a casual but relaxing day in their flowered shirts, shorts, and sunglasses. As the beach crowd lounged on their beachchairs, blankets, and towels, radios played the popular tunes of today such as: "Girls Just Want To Have Fun", "What's Love", "Rebel Yell", "Hard Habit To Break", and "Chaka Khan". "It was fun tossing and throwing the beachball around", said Linda Laborde. Vicky Whan and Willie Wright added, "It was neat to see the whole senior class participating and showing their class spirit." Snow cones were sold to refresh the sun bathing students. Freshmen were cooled off not by the roaring surf but by senior water bottles spraying them as they passed the senior quad. "I wish there could be more days just as fun as that day was", said Jenni White.

A Hawk In Hawks Clothing

Energetic, intelligent, and talented, that's El Dorado's own Jennifer Jones. You might have seen her out on the football field cheering on our Hawks as mascot. Jennifer said that she really enjoyed being mascot. "I loved to put little smiles on the kids, and getting the crowd involved in the game." Jennifer also represented the senior class as secretary. "It was hard, but fun. It was neat to be part of making the senior class great!" Outside of school Jennifer worked at Pacific Sunwear as a sales clerk, and her Saturdays were spent at Japanese school. She plans to continue to learn about the language and culture of the Japanese. Jennifer enjoys meeting people, dancing, art, sewing her own clothes, and eating cheese pizza. She said her dream car is a convertible Austin Healy Sprite, Mark 3. After graduation Jennifer plans to go to college and become a language interpreter.

The last class of the day for seniors has arrived, and the final bell has rung marking the end of four years of growing and learning at El Dorado. Friendships, excitement, enthusiasm, success, embarrassment and pain are all memories of high school that will linger on, never to be forgotten.

I will never forget:

SUSAN JANICKI: "When I was a freshman and the band won 2nd in the All Western Band Review and ranked 6th in the state!"

JEANINE SAMSEL: "When I was a freshman trying out for the soccer team, I was staring at Todd Waterman while running a green and ran right into the backstop!"

GORDEN BRINDELL: "When the phosphorous experiment blew up in chemistry and there was smoke everywhere."

JON PETRILLO: "Being first in line for Ms. Ervin's office and hearing "next"."

LYNNETTE IGNACEK: "Acting crazy at football games and having picnics on the grass at lunch — Frogs rule!"

AMY DUKES: "My freshman year when I was selling Christmas ornaments for choir around my neighborhood, and was bitten by a dog."

I'll Never Forget...

Student council, theater, acting, best friend and horses are just a few words used to describe the life of Christy Jimmerson.

Theater and acting play a large role in Christy's life. "I'm not sure about college, mainly because acting is a full time job. Theater takes a lot of time and study," proclaims Christy. She has won a scholarship by SRO (Standing Room Only) at Fullerton. She is also attending New York with SRO during Christmas. "We will see Broadway plays and the whole jazz."

Christy has received three awards for her portrayal of Miss Hanigan in Annie. Macy of California presented her with two, one for highest achievement and another for Best Supporting Actress, while El Dorado presented her the award for Best Actress. "Some people think it's an overnight success. You have to be born with the ability naturally. It's hard to put out the exact concept of acting," Christy reveals.

Despite her busy schedule, Christy always finds time for her special friend Danny Gray. "He keeps me in line with the Lord and acting." Christy's special interests are reading the Bible, her family, her horses, and collecting roses.

When asked what her goal in life is, Christy replied, "I would like to win an Academy Award before I die."

"I have a lot of fun doing what I enjoy best. I hope it shall continue on," says Christy Jimmerson.

Campers Camp At Camp Quad

Tents, fishing poles, sleeping bags, and a barbeque were just a few of the necessities that could be seen. "The many that flocked to this campsite were greeted with burnt hotdogs and warm coke," stated senior Rob Wojcik.

Besides having great food these fearless campers also told many tall tales which had occurred throughout the day. "Many seniors had to hike their way through the rough terrain to get to this campsite," stated senior Michelle Paoletti. "But it was worth all the effort."

"The day was such a success that no one wanted to go home" stated senior Gracie Stolfi. But when all was said and done the campers packed their gear up and headed back home to the smog.

A Future Primadiva

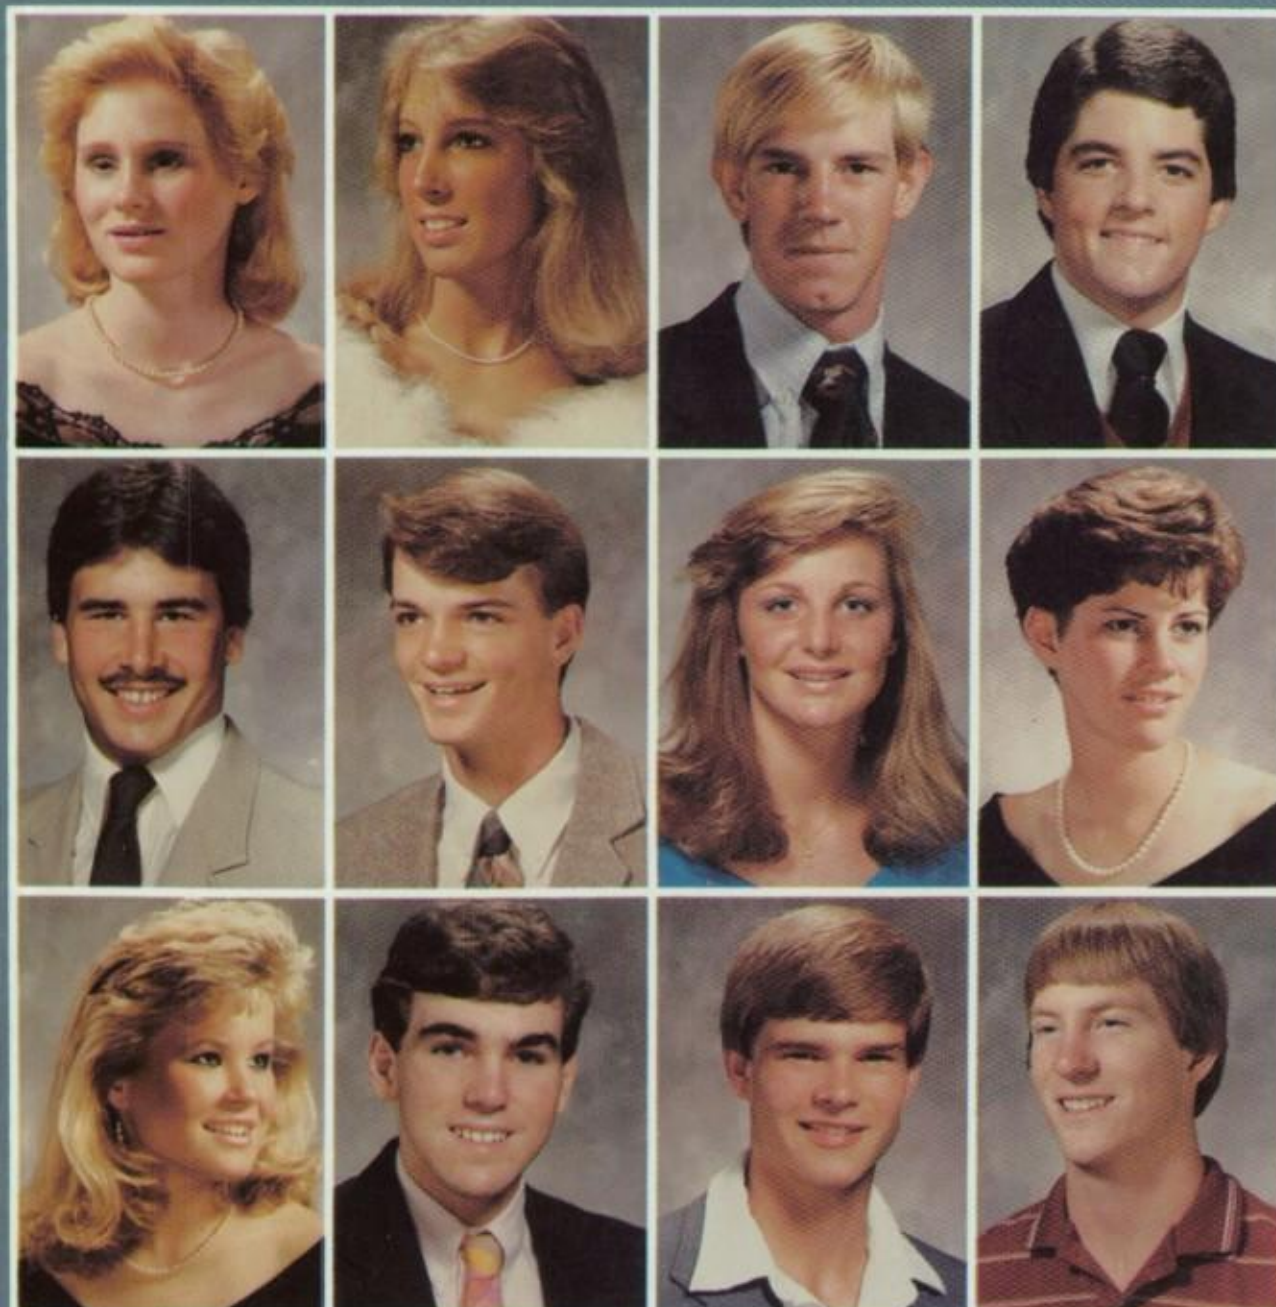

A FUTURE PRIMADIVA

El Dorado has had many talented students, but Chris North has risen above them all. Chris was one of El Dorado's most outstanding vocalists. She's won many awards outside school for her singing and also from our own choir department. Last summer, she won three awards at the Southern Youth Music Festival, and also got a chance to perform with professionals in the children's play Treasure Island. The play was performed on the ship Pilgrim II at Dana Point Harbor. Chris portrayed the part of Honey Dew, the pirate wench. This role has been her most favorite. "I really enjoyed doing this production because it was creative. I liked the director and I enjoyed working with professionals; the money wasn't bad either," commented Chris.

To add to her talents, Chris has taken 6 years of piano and 3 years of violin. She also enjoys ceramics, reading the Bible, and listening to classical and contemporary Christian music. "Classical music evokes a feeling in me I just can't get from other types of music," she explains.

In the future, Chris would like to be accepted at San Francisco Music Conservatory. But, her secret dream is to perform as Lady Macbeth or become a "Primadiva."

Chris North is caught in one of her pensive moments. Another favorite past time that Chris enjoys is back-packing in the High Sierras.

Oh My Guinnes!

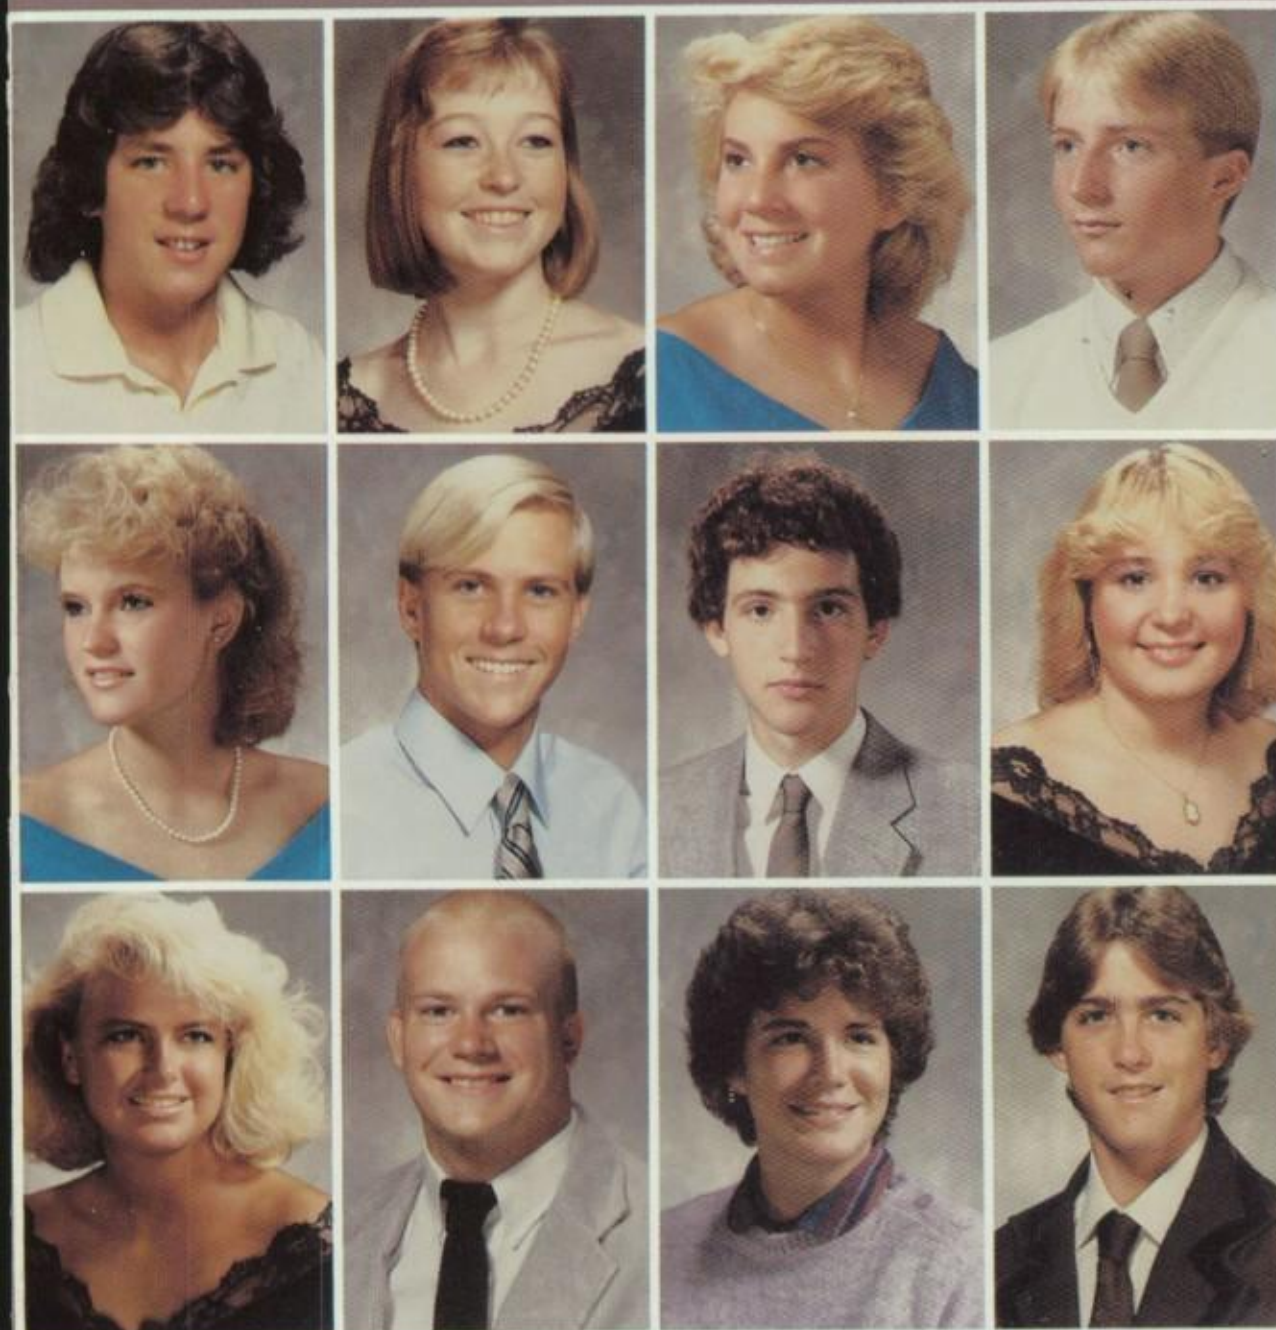

"It takes me fifteen to twenty minutes to spike my hair. The longer it gets, the more time it takes," reveals Shawn McGuinness.

Shawn McGuinness was often referred to as a "Billy Idol look-alike" because his attitudes and style of dress mimicked those of English rocker Billy Idol. Shawn was always seen wearing his leather jacket, jeans, and short, black, leather boots. He wore his hair spiked.

Shawn said he imitated Billy Idol because, "I like his style of dress and attitudes toward modern society." Billy Idol's attitude was that everything is a crock and nothing is to be taken too seriously. Shawn strongly believed that everyone has a right to be who they are.

For recreation, Shawn has enjoyed snow skiing for many years. He has been skiing in Washington, Idaho, Colorado, Utah, and the local spots in California. Shawn has also enjoyed motorcycling in the desert on his RMI25 Suzuki.

On Your Mark-Get Set-Go!

Don't blink! By the time you open your eyes Michelle Banks will have won another race. Winning, however, isn't something new for Michelle. She ran Varsity Track all four years and each time making it to C.I.F.

Why run? "When I don't run I go crazy!" replied Michelle, who has run since fifth grade. Being one of the five fastest California girls in the 440 is another reason.

Although track practices take up a big portion of her day, Michelle still finds time to hold down a job as a salesperson at Miller's Outpost. Michelle also maintained the grades to be a member of N.H.S., in which she was an officer with the title "Service Chairman".

For the future Michelle would like to continue running if she can find a balance of school and track. As for the '88 Olympics, Michelle considers them a "Fantasy goal". "If I believe in myself and trust in God, I can accomplish anything I set my mind to."

Two of the many sides of Michelle Banks. At track practice she displays a high intensity. Life isn't all serious as she laughs through lunch.

Work Experience-Key To Future

If you have a job, why not work for school credit? The work experience program gives high school seniors the chance to do just that. The program runs under the guidance of career counselor Mr. Dick Nycum. "The purpose of work experience is to help the student adjust to the world of work and get credit for it" stated Nycum. Senior Paul Darnbrough agrees, "Since I have the job and spend time at it why not earn something else besides money."

The program may help students gain practical knowledge in a skill or help them with the advancement of future career plans. They also gain incentive knowing that they get school credit. "I enjoy the program and it helps me for the future by just doing my normal job. It isn't that hard and the credits aren't bad either," stated Darnbrough.

Paul Darnbrough relaxes before a hard day at work. The work experience program allows students like Paul to receive credit while doing their jobs.

Chad Mitchell and Dori Dowdell think about the future over lunch.

Dedicated, innovative, and spirited are just a few of the qualities this years ASD Student Council possessed. Attending 7:00 morning meetings, organizing such events as Homecoming, Big Brother/Big Sister, the Homecoming assembly, and sponsoring various football games were just some of the activities they were involved in. Rob Ramos, this years ASD President, especially liked the authority he was given. "I like to direct student council meetings. I also like always knowing whats going on with the entire school." Libby Kingseed, an active member in El Dorado's student government was this years Commisioner of Pep. She was the key to all of our school assemblies, informing us of activities and getting us involved. "I'd ger nervous when I first got out in front of everyone, but after a few minutes I'd relax and have a great time." The council agreed that they all got along reasonably well. As always there were conflicting ideas and opinions but they always came to some sort of compromise.

The Difference Is...

Awarding the winner of the "Ugly foot contest", ASD Treasurer Gene Tjoo presents Jimmy Mansfield with a certificate and a ribbon. Gene frequently announces and describes these competitions to the student body.

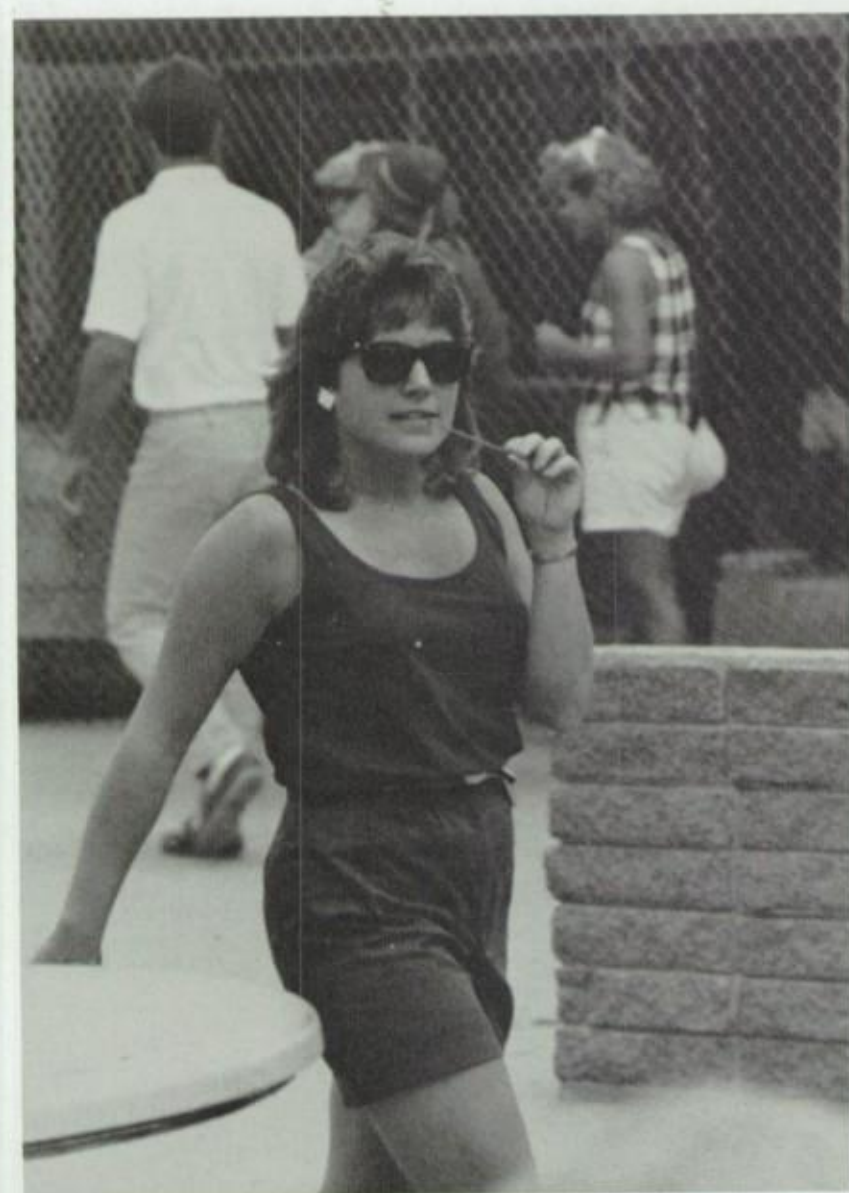

Spending time eating lunch with her little sister, Jenni White, ASD Secretary frequently sits in the theatron. Jenni has been an active member of student council throughout her years in high school.

Taking a break from her hectic schedule, Senior Class President, Holly Piper absorbs the sunshine on a stroll thru the senior quad.

Having been involved in student council for three years, Rob Ramos, this years ASD President, keeps striving to make El Dorado the best.

Juniors Kelly Sharp and LeAnne Wunsh are discussing how nutritious Cheetos can be. The vending machines contained mainly chips and candy bars.

Trying to make himself comfortable, John Collier enjoys the privilege of sitting on the Senior Quad wall.

Academic Enrichment was one of the required classes for the first quarter of the year. It was established because of the state requirement to extend class time 15 minutes per day and to provide a better opportunity for teaching improved study habits.

Juniors are traditionally a class that is just coming to be individualistic. They've been at El Dorado long enough to know its inner workings but not long enough to really be in charge. To be led to this individualized state it takes strong leadership. That is one quality the junior class council definitely had, with President Wayne Su, Vice-president Brad Queen, Secretary Liz Perez, Treasurer Jimmy Peng, and Commissioner of Publicity Michelle Casias to lead the way.

"We work on everything that has to do with the junior class," stated President Wayne Su. The activities the class were involved in included pie auctions, sending flower grams, painting curbs, and the biggest activity of them all, putting on Prom. "Prom is our biggest money maker and our most popular event," commented Treasurer Jimmy Peng. All of these events raised money for senior activities next year.

How did the leaders feel about being on student council? "I feel privileged to be on student council," stated Wayne Su. Commissioner of Publicity Michelle Casias agrees, "Though its a lot of work and it takes time, I still like getting involved." Only one more year to go for the juniors and with attitudes like that the senior year should be exciting for the class of '86.

Sixth "Wo" Man

The N.B.A. is filled with top sixth men such as Bobby Jones and Michael Cooper. A sixth man not only fills the shoes of a starter but must add a spark to a teams attack. Jenni Bishop is the sixth "wo"man for the girls Varsity basketball team. This was her second year playing Varsity basketball. "My best asset to the team is my defense," said Jenni. "I like making steals."

Jenni had a dual role. Against shorter teams she got a chance to start. Her best game was starting against Pacifica. "My passing was good which triggered some of our players," she replied. Jenni finished the game with six points, her average, as the Hawks won.

"Basketball is the most challenging part of my day." It isn't the only part of her day through. She plays the trumpet in the marching band. Jenni is the third chair, first trumpet section, which is equivalent to the third best trumpet player. She hopes to move up to the number one chair next year. "The trumpet is something fun for today."

As for the future, "Ten years from now I see myself as a successful business woman."

Punk: Music With Meaning

Often stereotyped as violent or immoral, Punk Rock is not what it appears to be.

"Often people see punkers as violent, but we just are rebelling against the social standards of our society and war," commented junior John Douglas. "We just don't like being violent, we enjoy the look as well as the music," replied John. When asked if there is a message in punk music Lisa Apalategui replied, "Why have war when everyone can be united; that is basic message."

With such an understanding of punk, these individuals know what they are talking about. Sure it might just be a fad, but it's not to be overlooked. There is something to be gained from this music, whether it be an understanding, or the times or just the style of the music.

John Douglas is not a violent and immoral punk, he just dresses to fit the music.

Besides his hobbies of surfing and skateboarding, Mike also enjoys painting, "because it enables me too express myself in a different manner."

With such a talent and a planned future, there is no question that Mike has the will and desire to succeed in the future.

Your junior year of high school is often said to be your longest year. Juniors are no longer the center of constant criticism from the seniors and are not quite seniors yet. In their junior year people usually take all of their required courses and end up with a full schedule. When asked what they were looking forward to about their senior year these juniors replied:

Greg Clark- "Being CIF water polo champs."
John Harmon- "Trashcanning the freshmen".
Steve Eric- "Getting out of school after lunch".
Sue Choate- "Ruling the underclassmen".
Sean Page- "Graduating".

Marching To The Right Beat

F.C.F.D.F.F.A+. Oh someone finally got an A. Good job Pat! This is not an unfamiliar story to junior Pat Houston. Pat has been getting A's all the way through high school. In fact, he has not received anything less than an A in a class in the three years he has gone to El Dorado. He has taken all honor classes and has a GPA of over 4.0.

Besides schoolwork Pat is also good at playing the drums. "I have been on El Dorado's drum line since I was a freshman." This past year Pat was selected to be a section leader of the drum line. As section leader he led the drum line to a first place finish in the California Band Review.

On weekends Pat enjoys going out with his friends from the drum line. "I like to take my dad's '69 Camero out on weekends whenever he lets me use it." Pat also enjoys skiing and playing tennis. But when he really wants to relax he always goes straight to his drums.

"... We Just Listen To A Different Kind Of Music"

What do juniors Chris Gapik, Jolynn Butler, and Julie Casdorff have in common? Music and a style called Heavy Metal. These Heavy Metalers were often seen wearing leather and long hair that's cropped on top. They could be found on the weekends at parties, concerts or just cruising around.

When asked what they liked about the music Julie said, "I like the sound of the bass, the guitar," while Jolynn said, "You can get wild to it," and all agreed by saying, "I like it because it's different."

How do parents react to Heavy Metal? "My dad doesn't mind because he likes it," said Julie. Jolynn and Chris said their families put up with it because there are more than one Heavy Metaler in the family.

The Heavy Metalers felt that people treat them differently and they don't like that aspect. "I'm not different. I'm just me," Julie commented. What do they think? "We're not dirt, we just listen to a different kind of music."

Wearing the heavy metal look are Chris Gapik, Julie Casdorff, and Jolynn Butler. "I dress more casually at school," said Jolynn.

Julie, Jolynn and Chris like music groups such as The Doors, Metalica, and Judas Priest.

Future Paramedic

Keeping busy has never been a problem for junior Todd Jackson. Todd was a member of the J.V. wrestling and football teams his freshman and sophomore years and played fullback and defensive end on the varsity football team his junior year.

When he's not playing school sports, Todd can be found surfing at Newport or Trestles with his friends Rob Sporrer, Brett Clark, and Mike Genera. If not on the waves, Todd is on the slopes snow skiing, a sport he's been practicing for eight years.

Todd drives a blue V.W. bug and on weekends he likes to go to the movies with friends. He keeps a 3.0-3.5 grade point average and his favorite class is physiology. "It's easy for me," he said.

Todd wants to be a paramedic to help people but when asked what his goal is he said, "To be rich. I'm not going to just be a paramedic. I'm going to be rich, too."

Clear Cut Goals

Sponsoring the Valentine's Day dance, selling basketball concessions, painting curbs, and handing out flyers for the Brea Theater Department are just a few of the activities that the Sophomore Class Cabinet has been involved in this year. In addition, the cabinet sponsored a Sophomore Appreciation Day on December 21st. On this day, each sophomore received a Christmas card from the members of the cabinet. Craig Olson, Sophomore Class President, commented on the idea, "The Appreciation Day was important because the students felt like someone out there recognized them and appreciated them."

One of the goals that the cabinet established was to raise $600 by the end of the school year. This money would be the down payment for Prom, which the sophomore class will sponsor next year. It was planned that the money would be raised by selling flower grams, selling basketball concessions, and sponsoring dances.

The Sophomore Class Cabinet consists of Craig Olson as President, Joan Pesl as Vice President, Mandy Webb as Commissioner of Publicity, Sharri Weisenberg as Secretary, and Stephanie Manley as Treasurer.

The Sophomore Class Cabinet is as follows: Joan Pesl, Vice President, Craig Olson, President, Sharri Weisenberg, Secretary, Mandy Webb, Commissioner of Publicity, and Stephanie Manley, Treasurer.

Painting signs to alert fellow sophomores of upcoming events is one of the responsibilities of cabinet members. Stephanie Manley, Mandy Webb, and Sharri Weisenberg design signs for the Valentine's Day dance.

Cabinet members take active roles in the planning and presenting of school assemblies. In the Christmas assembly, Craig Olson represented the sophomore class while dancing to disco music of the 1970's.

The Bonds Of Friendship

Ten years is a long time, but Susan Gordon and Angela Bakken have managed to remain best friends for that long. Susan and Angela live down the street from each other and went to kindergarten together. They enjoy the same music, style of clothes, and look for the same qualities in people for friends. Although they are similar in many ways, Susan and Angela have many obvious differences. Angela enjoys sports. She plays on the tennis team and has played soccer for six years. Susan does not enjoy participating in sports as much as Angela does, but she enjoys being a spectator. Their plans after high school are different, also. Susan plans to go into business while Angela is interested in pre-med.

Angela likes Susan because, "She is always there for me when I need to talk with someone." Susan commented on the friendship, "I'm happy that we've remained friends for so long."

Wearing sailor hats at Knott's Berry Farm are Susan Gordon and Angela Bakken. In their spare time, Susan and Angela enjoy waterskiing and going to the beach.

Involvement With . . .

Meet a student council member, cheerleader and an energetic member of the community. Active, Mandy Webb states, "Being a cheerleader, working with student council, and getting involved is what makes high school the best years." As a cheerleader, Mandy participated on freshmen cheer and varsity cheer. "It's great to be a cheerleader, because I get to go to all the games. The crowd gets involved, you become closer to the squad, meet new people, and best of all, you go to camp." Besides getting involved on campus, Mandy also does many things outside of school. "I'm involved with Young Life and Campaigners. Both these groups consist of learning more about my religion and of the Bible. We sing songs and enjoy ourselves. I'm with my peers so I can learn more being together with them. I also am able to speak openly and feel confident," she stated. Mandy also likes to spend time with herself. "I enjoy artwork. Drawing people is something that interests me very much. With my ability I will be an interior decorator or a fashion designer," she predicted. One thing Mandy will remember about her sophomore year is the time she went skiing. "I love to ski. I have gone only twice and enjoyed both times. My only trouble is I can't seem to stop," she commented. Of course the best thing about school is friends. "Michelle Braginton and Kerri Carson are two of my best friends. They are open, trustworthy, and fun to be with." They are everything a person could want in friends," she concluded.

Meeting new people and getting involved is what Mandy Webb does best. Mandy is a cheerleader and serves on student Council.

I Love El Dorado . . .

As the school bell rings, over 1600 students move in separate directions. Each has a separate life, one that is different from any other. Of these students, one leads a life which has its own unique pattern. Sophomore Leslie Anderson, for the past 12 years, has spent most of her weekends at either Snow Summit or Mammoth. "I like everything about skiing, it's the one thing that makes me different." Everytime I go down a hill, I feel like I have accomplished something," commented Leslie. Besides winter sports she also likes the summer. "My favorite season is summer because there's no school and there's a lot of things to do. I love to water ski and go to the beach," she pointed out. As another activity outside of school, Leslie takes voice lessons. She has been taking voice lessons for the past two years. "I like taking voice lessons because my teacher is great. She has inspired me in many ways." Even though Leslie has many outside activities, she also enjoys school ones. "I like to go to school activities. My favorite is the football games because everyone goes and has a good time," she commented and concluded. "I love El Dorado because most of the people are really outgoing. I hope the rest of my high school years are as good as this one!"

Comfortable But Enthusiastic

No pressure and no hassles is the best way to describe life as a sophomore. As a tenth grader there is no more running to class or panic when the locker doesn't open.

By the time a kid has reached his second year of high school, he has found his place in the school environment. This is what has made being a sophomore so comfortable.

A sophomore tended to show a lot of school spirit and enthusiasm about the different activities that took place on campus. In class competitions they always came in second, right after the seniors, who were always the most spirited.

As a student has gone through his sophomore year he has made many changes and has grown up quite a bit. But they never seem to lose their childish quality, they just don't expose it as much as freshmen do.

Tara Villavicencio is distracted from her conversation by breakdancing in the theatron. Many activities took place during lunch for entertainment.

An Angel's Son

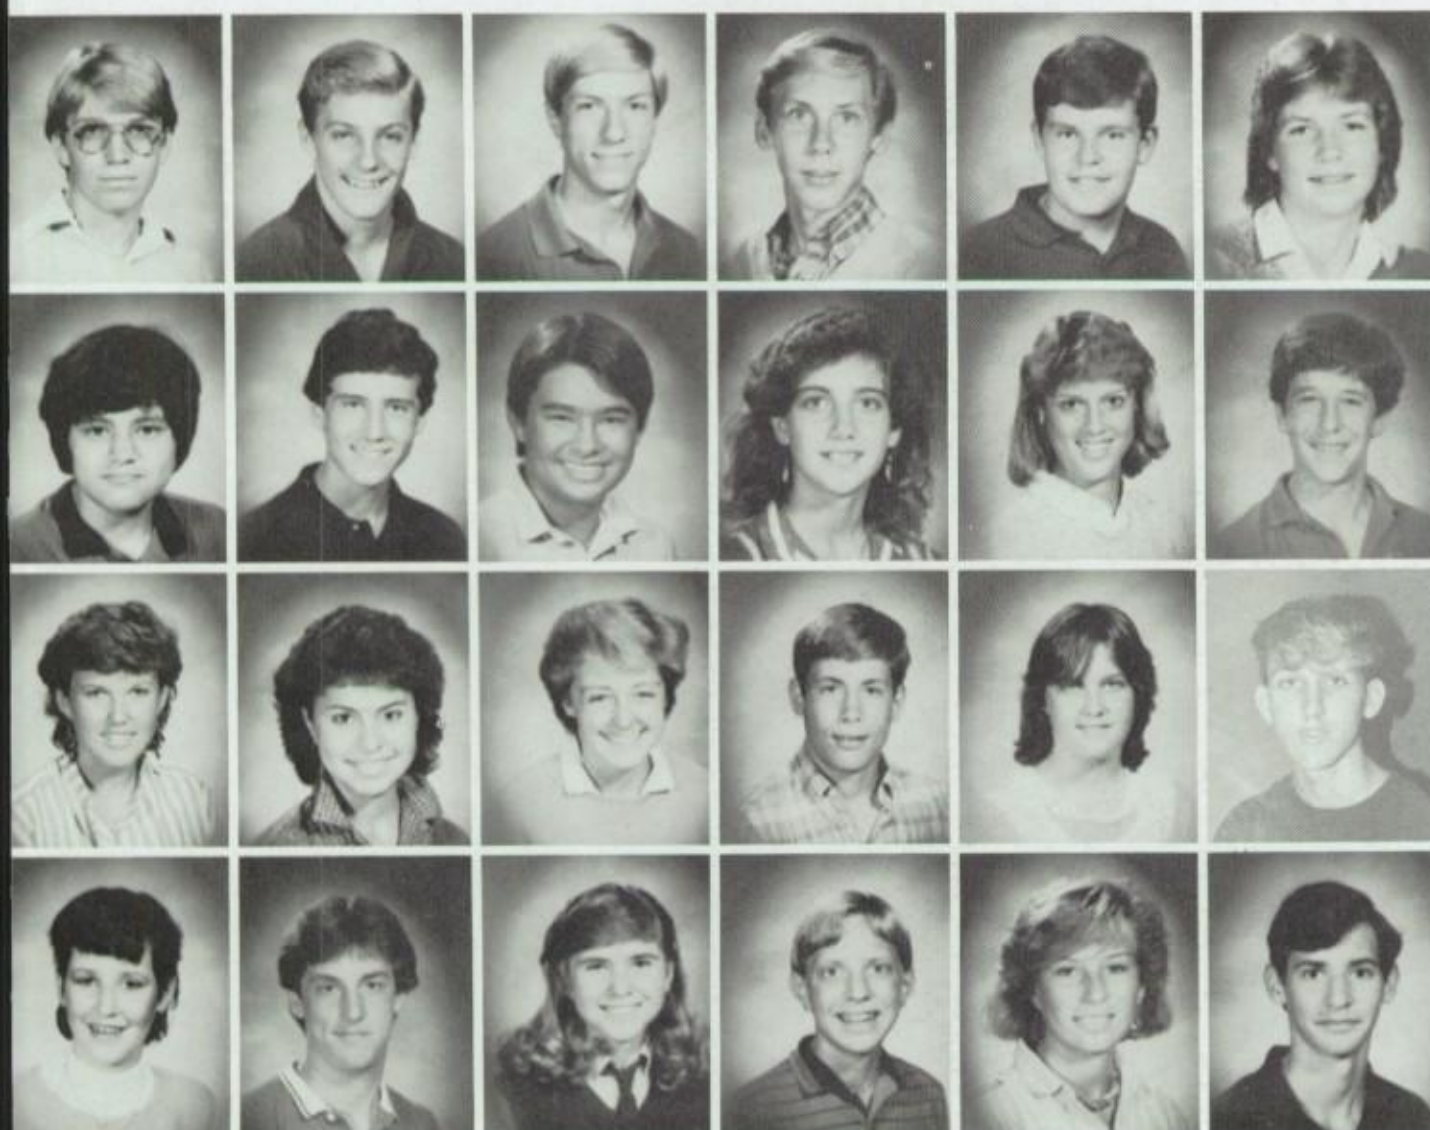

His dad is the starting catcher for the California Angel's Baseball team. Rod Carew came to watch him play basketball. People always ask him for tickets. He has gone to many different cities on road trips.

Bret Boone, despite his well-known dad, tried to be just a normal new student at E.D. He hung out with his friends and got involved in sports. Bret was in the starting five of the JV basketball team and averaged 10 points a game. He also plays baseball. "I like both basketball and baseball, but I feel I'm better at baseball," said Bret. He has played baseball for 9 years. His dad got him into his first little league.

Bret came here from New Jersey, where he had lived for the past 8 years. "My family came to California every summer so we could be near my dad, and this year we decided to stay here," replied Bret.

He has had to get used to his dad being away a lot. Most boys have their dads home every night, but then most boys don't have a dad who is a professional baseball player. "I have gone on some road trips with my dad, but the best was when we went to Hawaii."

Brett Boone, new to El Dorado after moving from New Jersey, made many new friends and was involved in basketball and baseball.

A Class With Class!

"You're not a freshman anymore, but you're not an upperclassman either, so your teachers don't expect a lot out of you. It is a time to grow up." Shannon Rathbun is giving her opinion on just what exactly a sophomore is. The sophomore class is probably the most overlooked and unnoticed class on campus. You don't get the attention that goes with being a freshman, and you're not a big junior that has become an upperclassman, and you certainly lack the authority and prestige that the seniors obtain. So what's left? Sophomores are special, not because of what they do, but because of who they are. Your sophomore year is like a year for changing; you get your drivers license and with that comes a lot of responsibility. It's a time to reflect on the past, and a time to make goals and to look toward the future. "I look forward to being one of the upperclassmen and being able to participate in water-polo CIF finals," commented Mike Maclear.

Todd Pope and Meredith Cline turn just in time to catch the camera. Meredith is involved in many sports, and Todd is planning a trip to Mexico over Easter vacation with his church.

Successful Sophomore

Many students felt that getting involved in activities was the key to success in high school.

But with all the demands that school places on students today, it's hard to believe that anybody can find time to participate in extra-curricular activities. Sophomore Steve Froning has definitely found the secret. As a freshman, he played on the basketball, football, and tennis teams. This year he played basketball, water-polo, and he swam. Although Steve has been playing basketball for over six years, his favorite sport of the year was water-polo. "It was great for my first year playing," commented Steve. "We were 21 and 1 overall and we won league."

With all the time Steve spends in sports and keeping his grades up to a B average, he finds little time to relax and have fun. "I spend my weekends going out with my friends and going to parties," stated Froning. "I also enjoy doing yardwork and gardening around my house."

Steve Froning takes time to relax and enjoy his lunch. Steve spends most of his time playing sports throughout the year.

Freshmen Andy Flint, Duane DeVecchio, Kevin Biller, and Keith Kish enjoy eating lunch together in the theatron. Since the "no eating" lines were established, students didn't have much of a choice to where they would eat lunch. Most students crowded into the theatron bleachers.

How would you like to smash a pie in one of your "favorite" teacher's faces? It was easy during the El Dorado pie auction. Students bid on pies and the highest bidder got to do the throwing. "I liked watching the pie throwing because it was a good way to get back at your teachers," said David Phelps.

Requirements to graduate from high school are getting tougher and tougher every year. The class of 1988 will have to take 20 credits or two years of science, plus the regular requirements.

Leadership For The Future

The purpose of student council is to lead. So with this in mind the freshmen student council served this purpose accordingly. President Julie Morris, Vice-President Michelle King, Treasurer Tom Crisp, Secretary Tina Zummo, and Commissioner of Publicity Dennis Shea, led the way. "Student Council gives us a chance to get involved and meet different people," stated president Julie Morris. Some ways of involvement were to have fund raisers such as putting on a fashion show, selling class T-shirts and sending "greeny grams." They met and worked with other people by working with other class cabinets. They planned a dance with the sophomores and coordinated the Big Brother-Little Sister activities with the seniors.

What do these officers get out of all this? Vice-president Michelle King states, "It is neat in the fact that you get to know what is going on behind the scenes and I like getting involved." Treasurer Tom Crisp agrees, "I enjoyed it and I will run for office again."

Freshmen hang around in groups to avoid getting canned!

Being a freshman can be one of the hardest things to go through in high school, but getting involved can help make the transition from junior high a lot easier. That is exactly what Brent Lantz did. Brent has been playing the drums for over four years and is on the EDHS drumline. "I enjoy playing," comments Brent. "I plan on continuing for a long time." Along with being a drummer, Brent plans on joining the water polo and swim teams.

Other of Brent's hobbies include bike riding, skateboarding, going to the beach, and being with friends. As far as school and academics go, there could be some improvements. "Being a freshman isn't as bad as it's made out to be," says Brent. "I like the people, but not the work."

While sitting with his friends, Brent Lantz smiles at the surprise treat that he found in his lunch today.

Freshmen Phobia

Being a freshman is something everyone has to face during high school. Although age is the only difference, freshmen are judged more critically than the upperclassmen because freshmen don't know what to expect and those who are no longer freshmen, like the chance to tease them as freshmen always are. Probably the biggest fear a freshman has would be the first day of school. Worries about getting trash canned, forgetting the locker combination, or getting lost, enter the minds of all 9th graders. When asked about her first day of high school, Jill Dinnebier replied, "I was excited and a little scared." "Surprise" was what Shelly Piper felt. She added, "It wasn't even as bad as I thought it would be." Dave Coley, on the other hand, was just plain embarrassed. "Everyone just stared and gave me dirty looks."

Deven Kelly wonders what Tiffany Laubie finds so amusing. The theatron is the most common place for freshmen to eat lunch.

Well On Her Way

Some people believe that getting involved and meeting a lot of different people is a top survival requirement in order to make it through high school happily. If this is true, then freshman Michelle Weisenberg is well on her way. As a freshman, Michelle is taking all required classes such as World History, math and English. She is also taking an art class as her elective. After school, Michelle can usually be found on the soccer field because she is on the Jr. Varsity team. "I really like soccer a lot and I've been playing for 10 years." Michelle is also involved in the Big Brother/Little Sister program and she says of her Big Brother Roger Behle, "He's nice." Some of Michelle's hobbies include playing soccer, going to parties on the weekends with friends, water skiing and going to the beach.

If You Think Your Seeing Double...

You don't have to blink twice, if you think you're seeing double, because you are. You're probably looking at Sarrelle and Sarrette Stowe. They came to El Dorado as freshmen after attending South High. Both girls were involved in the M.E.S.A. and also B.S.U.P. programs at their former school. Sarrelle stated that she and her sister are like the odd couple. Sarrelle has a messy but comfortable room and loves junk food. Sarrette, on the other hand, is neat and loves mexican food. Sarrelle and Sarrette agreed that being twins isn't much fun. Even though they may appear to be alike, they are definitely individuals in their behavior and beliefs.

The sisters Stowe don't look like the odd couple. Odd or not they made El Dorado a more unique school.

Making The Switch

Arriving to El Dorado from a catholic school, Jenni Garcia stated, "I wasn't sure about coming to a new school but when I got here, I realized I was going to have a blast."

Jenni enjoys her schedule. "Spanish with Mr. Tebay is my favorite class, because he makes it fun while you learn," commented Jenni.

With a 3.4 grade point average Jenni is without a doubt a super student. Schoolwork is a big part of her life, but Jenni is not a one sided girl. She participates on the girls varsity cross country and track team.

Although Jenni can be seen sitting in the library or running, she also enjoys her weekends.

"I like to go dancing and bum around with my friends," said Jenni. Having a good attitude is a big part of her success in high school, and she has certainly gotten herself off to a good start.

Jennifer Garcia enjoys her time spent on the El Dorado campus.

Fiendishly Treated Freshmen

A commonly asked question among freshmen is ... Why are they treated differently by the rest of the school? The most obvious reason they are treated so fiendishly is the fact that they are "Freshmen" and that in itself is a good reason. But how do freshmen think they should be treated? Here are some responses to that question.

Steve Kidder "Like a king, cause we are the future of this school!"
 Tamie Herron "Like the low man on the totem pole, but yet still treated fairly."
 Teboho Nteso "We should be treated as overgrown eighth graders."
 Maureen Connelly "We should be treated just the same as everybody else."
 Brad Berson "Treated just like we are because if you deserve to be harassed, it will come. If you don't deserve it, it won't."
 Nicole Eyre "Like tourists at Disneyland because it's a trip to a new place."

Take Each Day As It Comes

The philosophy Shelley Piper uses to tackle life. Corny? Her accomplishments prove not.

She came to El Dorado after capturing the Iron Woman Award at Tuffree and started where she left off. She has played volleyball and soccer and ran track. As a freshman, she started at center-forward on the varsity soccer team. "I found it challenging" said Shelley.

Her interests aren't limited to just sports, she also enjoys music. Her taste varies from Depeche Mode to Prince. Shelley also finds time to do aerobics and dance.

How is it having an older sister at the school? "I like having a sister who is a senior when I'm a freshman. We get along well." Since Holly, her sister, is the Senior Class President, "She keeps me updated on activities, gives me money for lunch and drives me everywhere".

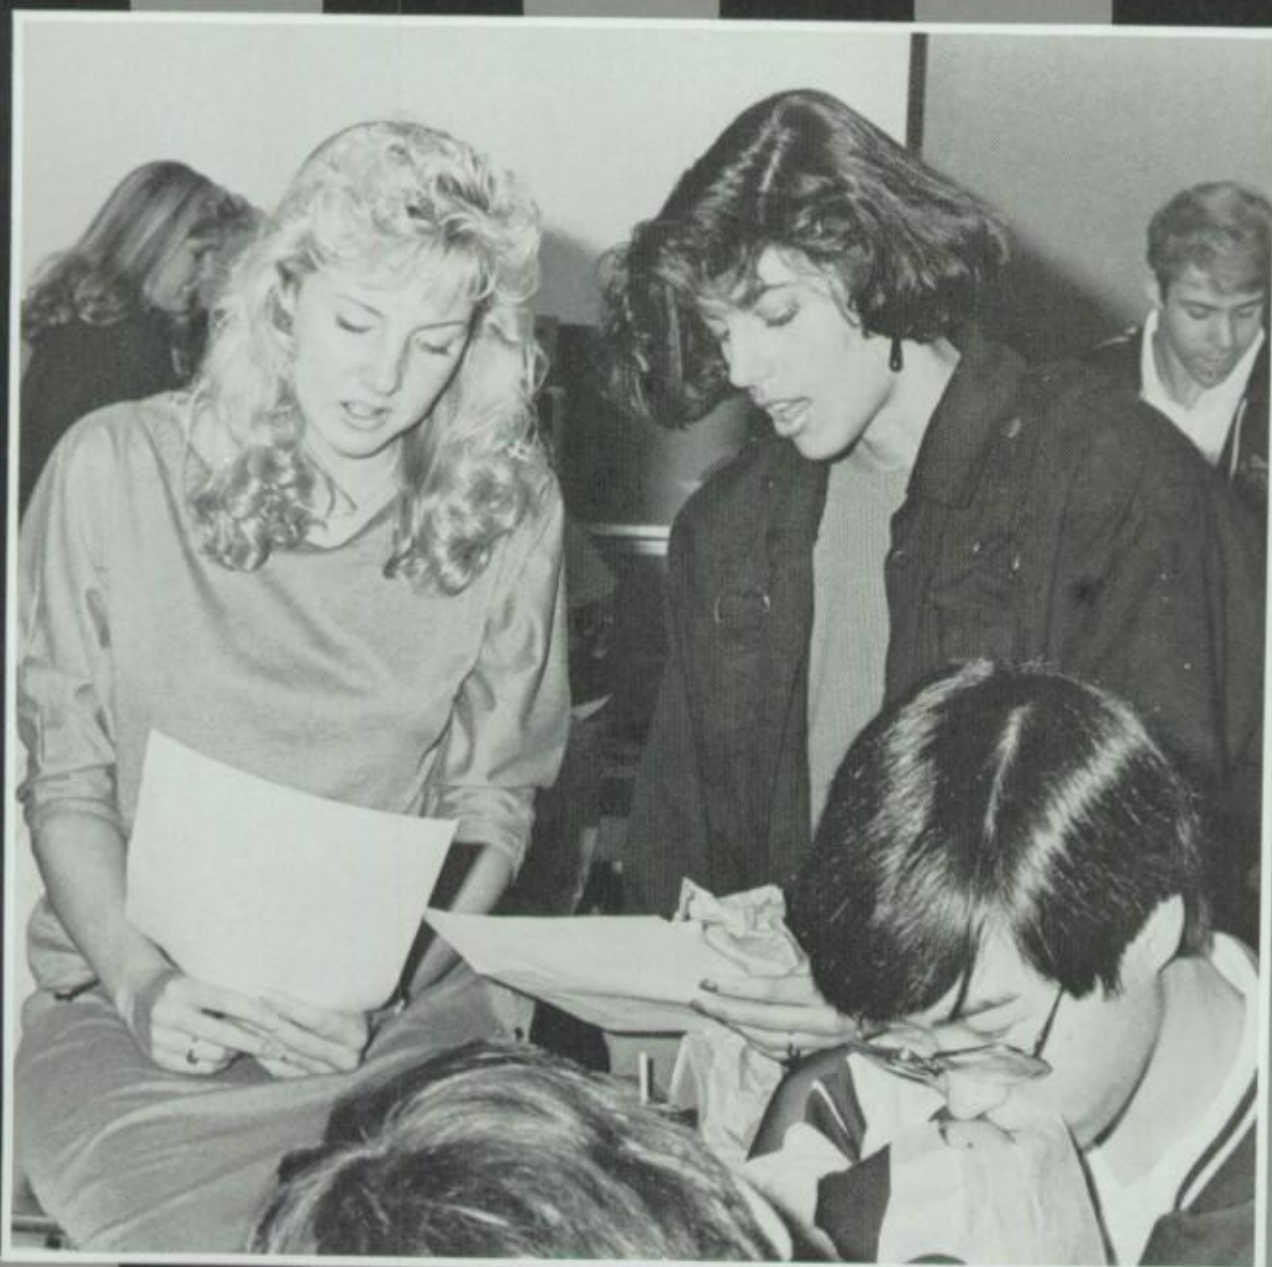

Shelley Piper smiles after picking up her winter formal pictures. This years winter formal "Changing Seasons" was held in Newport Beach.

Beth Frate looks over her shoulder to make sure her older brother stays in line.

Tina Zummo and Lisa Rosenthal enjoy their trip back to their lockers between classes.

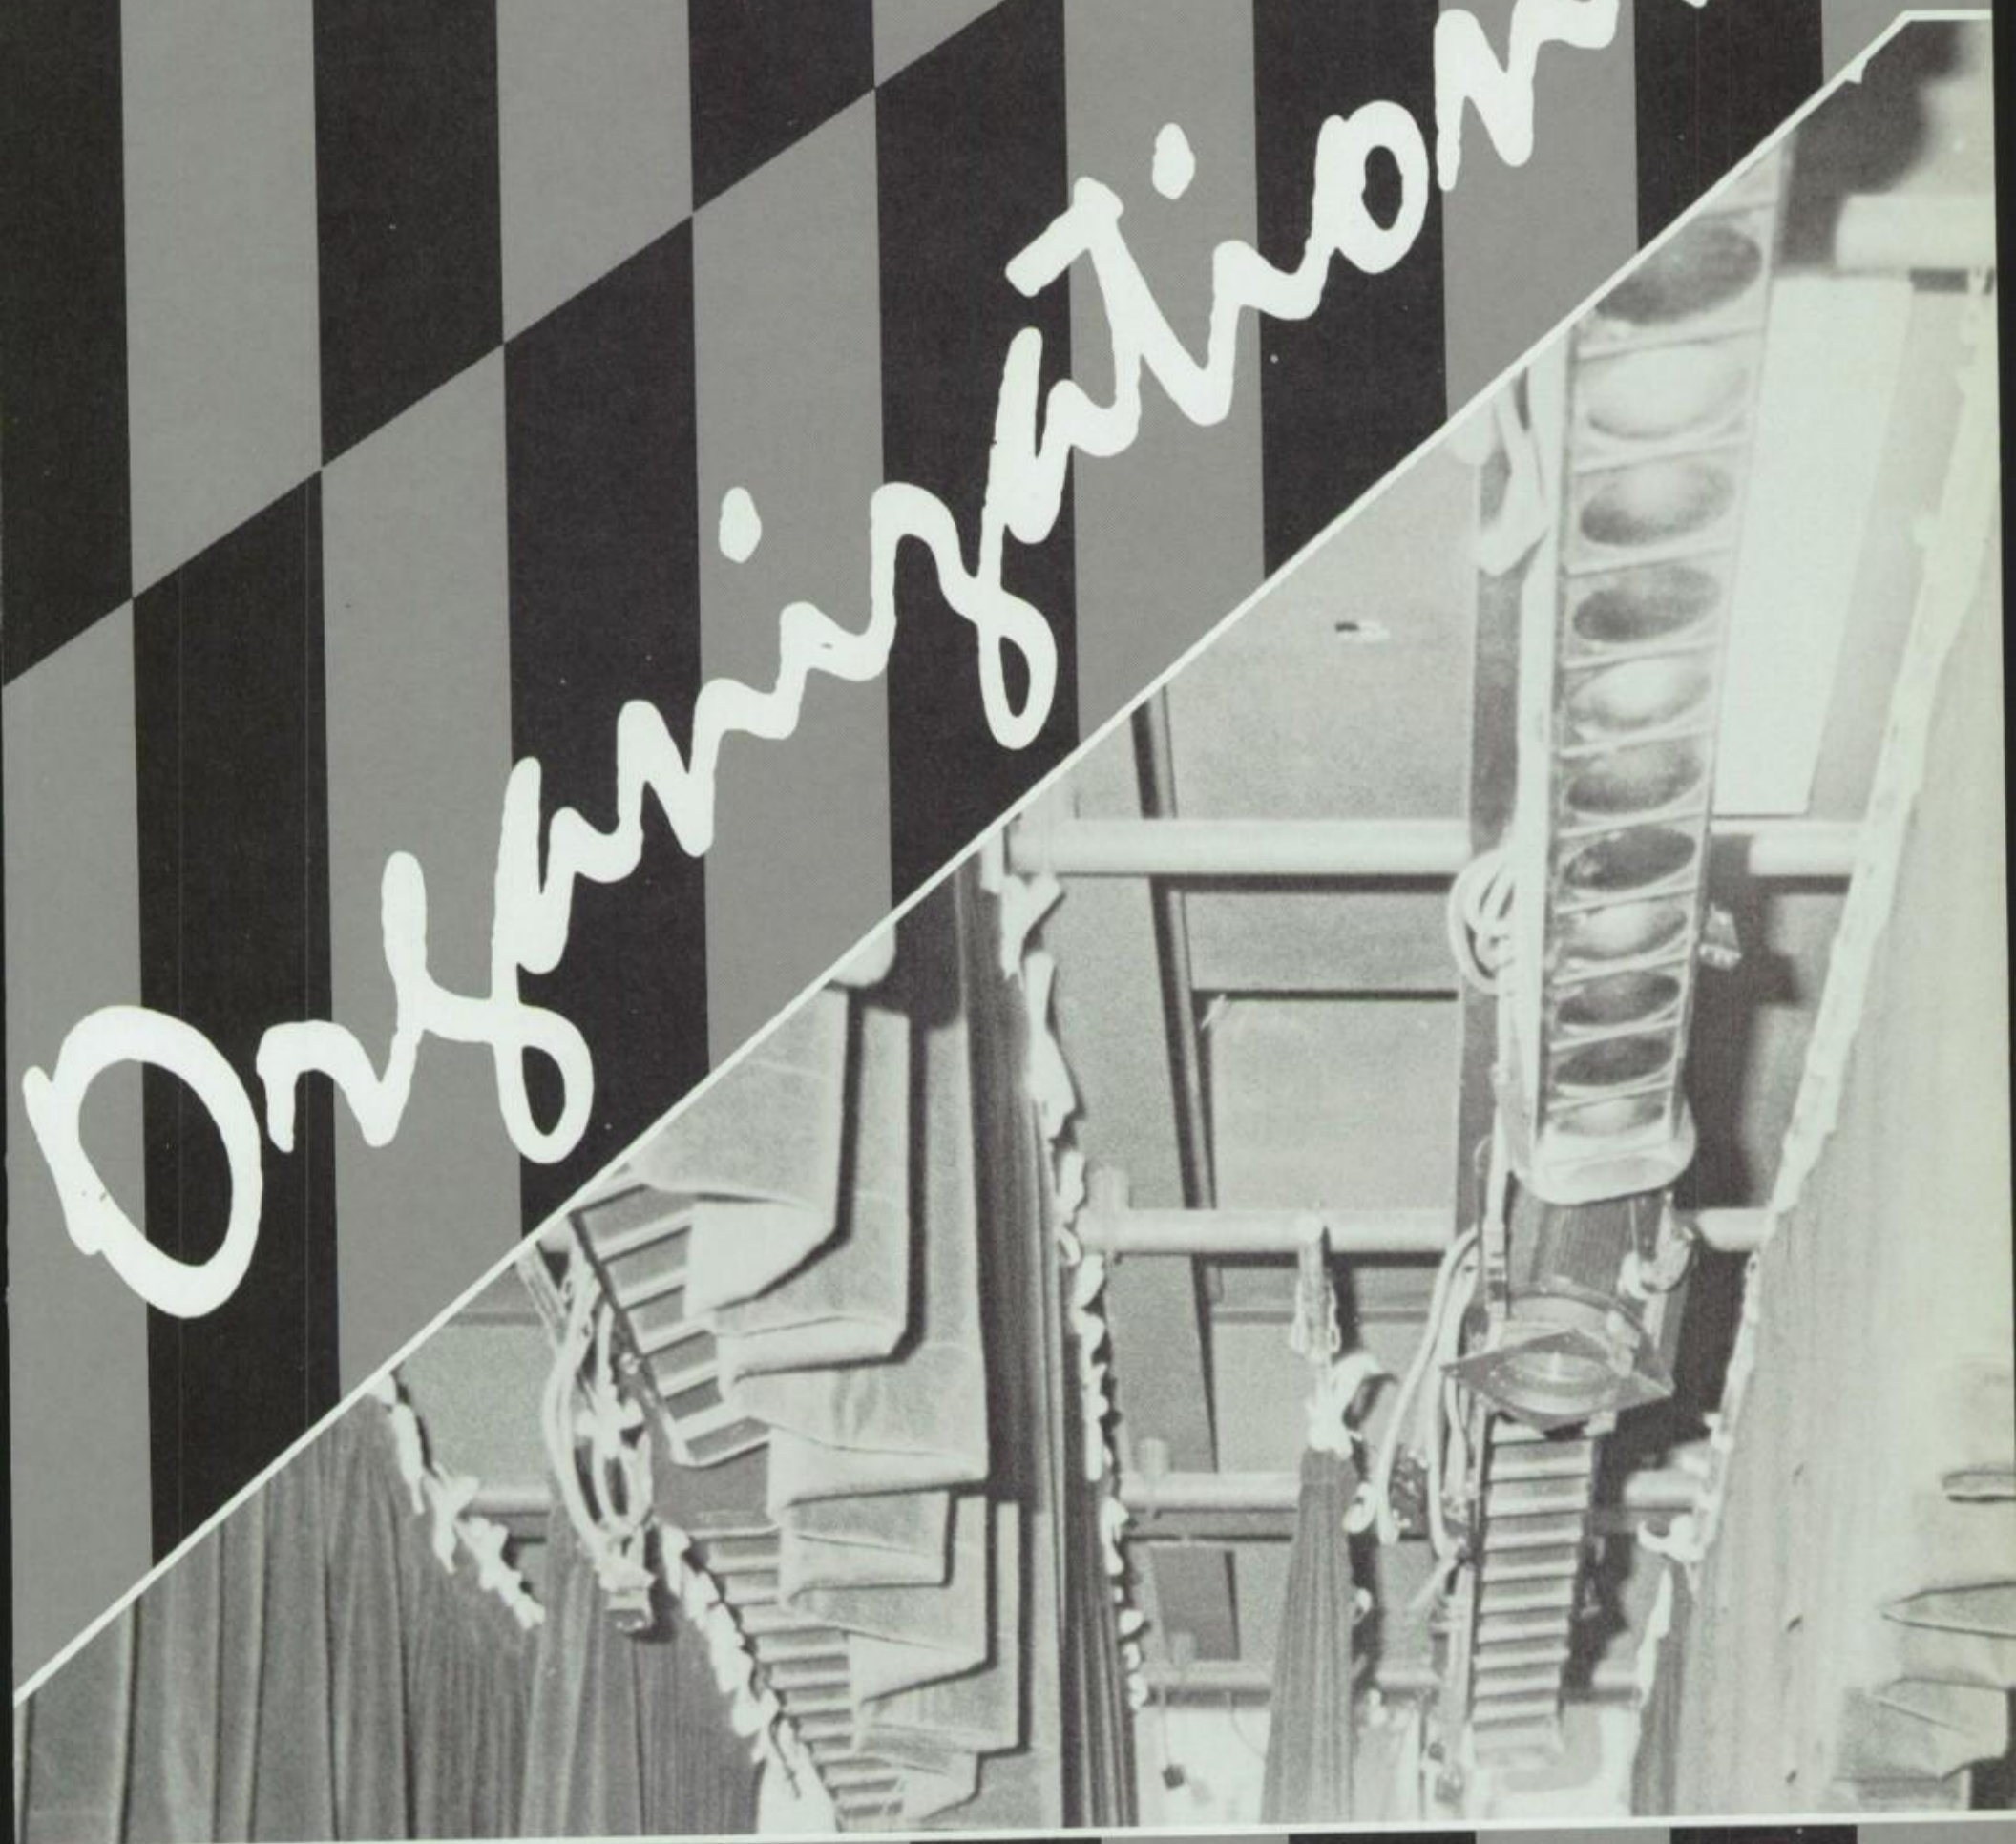

During practice Jim Demasi, Scott Cooper, and Roy Wells perform "The Wave", one of the new tricks in their routine. This group performed in the Christmas assembly and amazed the students with their ability.

Jana Florentine and Kim Hardy talk together during an NHS meeting. They were also star players on the Varsity Volleyball team.

One of the new renovations in the drama department was the light and sound systems. Having the new systems helped their first play "When our Hearts were Young" become an easy success.

Parlez Vous Francais?

"Our purpose is to share in cultural events and learn more about the language and people of France," stated El Dorado French Club Commissioner of Activities Chris Hall. This comment summed up what the French Club was all about. The club members participated in activities such as having a Christmas party with French food, playing broom ball, participating in a cultural progressive dinner and putting on bake sales. All these activities were planned to pay for the upcoming club trip to Europe.

The members enjoyed doing these activities. With President Judith Whitehead, Vice-president Kim Hardy, Secretary Charity Quimpo, and Commissioner of Activities Chris Hall. "I enjoy being in the club because I enjoy the activities and learning about cultural activities in France," commented Kim Hardy on her participation. So that was just it, the members enjoyed learning about new cultures and their ways, through the French Club.

At the club's Christmas party members Anita Flanagan, Lisa O'Neil, Jennifer Koch and Eric Goings enjoy traditional French cuisine. An Honorable Club

Service, leadership, character, and scholarship are the four main purposes of the National Honor Society. According to Donna Alexander, the club consists of "people with similar interests who like to get together and have a good time." Some of the activities the members participated in were curb painting, broomball, beach parties, and study nights. The most successful event, the canned food drive, this year brought in more food than ever; over 3,000 cans. Donna felt that "This year was great because there were good turn outs at activities and a lot of volunteers to help with service activities." Not only did NHS members do work, but they had fun!

And the winners of the car rally are . . . John Pellegrino, Karen Robert, and Sandy Connor. The winners were determined by who drove the least amount of miles.

Karen Guse volunteers to help with the canned food drive. NHS contributed many cans to needy families during the winter holidays.

Car rally losers, Bill Whalen and Leon Moberg, still smile after their tough defeat. They drove the most miles to find the clues for the rally.

One of the NHS fundraisers was curb painting for the city of Placentia. Craig Olson and Judy Whitehead show how it's done.

Movin' 'Em With The Music

"Concert Choir is a big family, reaching for the same goal, which is to move people with their music," commented singer, Andy Flint.

John Tebay, director of the group, stresses the importance of relationships in order to help the students achieve their goal. One very popular and successful technique was a retreat in the San Bernardino Mountains at the beginning of the year. This "living and singing together" atmosphere facilitated friendships and a feeling of "unity."

To make the retreat a success, Mr. Tebay needed the help of the council. The council were a few people who were selected by the choir. They had many responsibilities to the groups and to Mr. Tebay. They picked out the outfits, planned fund raisers and were in charge of social events, such as retreat.

Concert Choir participated in many festivals, including the Biola Invitational, hosted by El Dorado.

The group ended the year with a "bang" with the recording of their album and Take 3. This popular music concert has become the highlight of the year and featured up-beat popular selections and solo spots.

Mr. Tebay summarized, "These were a great bunch of kids and they sounded awesome."

Performing at their Christmas Concert, Concert Choir sings "Come Let Us Worship the King."

A few choir members show their enthusiasm after the Annual Choir Relay at Camp O-Ongo.

Missy Crippen, Tammy Peckham and Jillian Ojeda enjoy building relationships while on retreat.

At the Christmas Concert, Becky VanBibber teaches a man from the audience how to dance like a snowman.

Mr. Tebay ponders on how to get his idea across to his students. "I must be able to communicate with my students so they understand how I want them to sing the music, and what style to use."

"We learn the fundamentals of sight reading choral music, but more importantly we learn to sing with enthusiasm," notes Becky Hendrickson.

Women's Chorus is the group of young, amateur girls who work diligently with Mr. Tebay in preparation for the advanced performing groups.

Women's Chorus sponsored a car wash to help pay for their dresses that they had made. They also carolled at Villa De Palma Convalescent Home during the holiday season. "It was so nice. The people seemed so grateful that we cared enough to visit and entertain them," recalled Becky Hendrickson.

The two biggest concerts for Women's Chorus were the Christmas Concert and Take 3 which were shared with Vocal Ensemble and Concert Choir.

With Voices Blending

In Perfect Harmony

"It is a privilege to be a part of the Vocal Ensemble. Mr. Tebay says that the best singers in the school are in the Vocal Ensemble," commented Kim Whitney.

"The singers in Vocal Ensemble have earned their privileges. Everything they have received in the way of awards and recognition, they have deserved," Mr. Tebay notes proudly.

Since the size of the group is so small, it is easier for the building of strong relationships. Kathy Powers reveals, "I feel so close to the people in Vocal Ensemble. They help me to become more disciplined in my music while having fun."

The ensemble entertained the student body in many assemblies this year. They sang at the Homecoming Assembly joined by members of Vocal Ensemble from prior years.

The group also participated in a number of invitationals and competitions. They were one of the ten schools chosen from all high schools in California to perform at Chapman College. Their biggest competition was at Park Newport, where they took second place receiving three-hundred dollars.

Mr. Tebay states, "I've never worked with a greater group. They had a terrific attitude and exceptional talent."

Performing for a full audience, Vocal Ensemble follows Mr. Tebay's directing.

Robert Trummeter and Chris North take their music seriously.

"Thinking of You This Christmas" sung by Vocal Ensemble was accompanied by a dancing donkey. This was also performed for the Christmas Assembly.

R.O.T.C. - A Great Way Of Life!

The R.O.T.C. is people, honor, and, as the motto states, high goals.
The members of the R.O.T.C. are dwarfed by the wing of an Air Force jet.

When thinking of the Air Force Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps (or A.F.J.R.O.T.C.) the first thing that comes to mind is dark blue uniforms, short hair, and proud stances, but there is alot more than that.

The California 25th unit at El Dorado is involved in many service oriented projects in the school and community. They take time out to do special assembly presentations and parades. The color guard won second place in the Placentia Heritage Parade this year. "Service is a big part of our class," says John Petrillo. They have done everything from Christmas Caroling at St. Jude Hospital to the Toys-for-Tots program.

There are 5 periods of the R.O.T.C. All participants are looking for the three things out of the program; Leadership experience, management, and discipline. David Hintz commented, "I got in the R.O.T.C. initially because I am planning on a military career and it teaches me good responsibility which will help me in any career."

Their trips to McDonnell-Douglas Corporation, U.C.L.A., and Air Force bases made the 120 member R.O.T.C. of El Dorado High School- A Great Way of Life!

A Fun And Exciting Experience

Cheerleading can be hectic, exhausting, difficult and even embarrassing at times. However, for the most part, it is a fun and exciting experience. Aside from cheering at school sporting events, the 1984-85 Varsity cheerleading squad attended a USA Spirit camp where they received all superior ribbons in competition, they performed a number of assemblies, held numerous fundraisers and performed football and basketball halftime routines. "Camp was really alot of fun", stated senior Tammy Peckam. "Our squad got along great and we really learned alot." Senior Terri Kalt agreed. She also added that football was her favorite sport to cheer for. "There were so many people there and it was really easy to get the crowd involved", commented Terri. Most girls on the squad would agree that cheerleading gave them the chance to meet new people and build long lasting friendships.

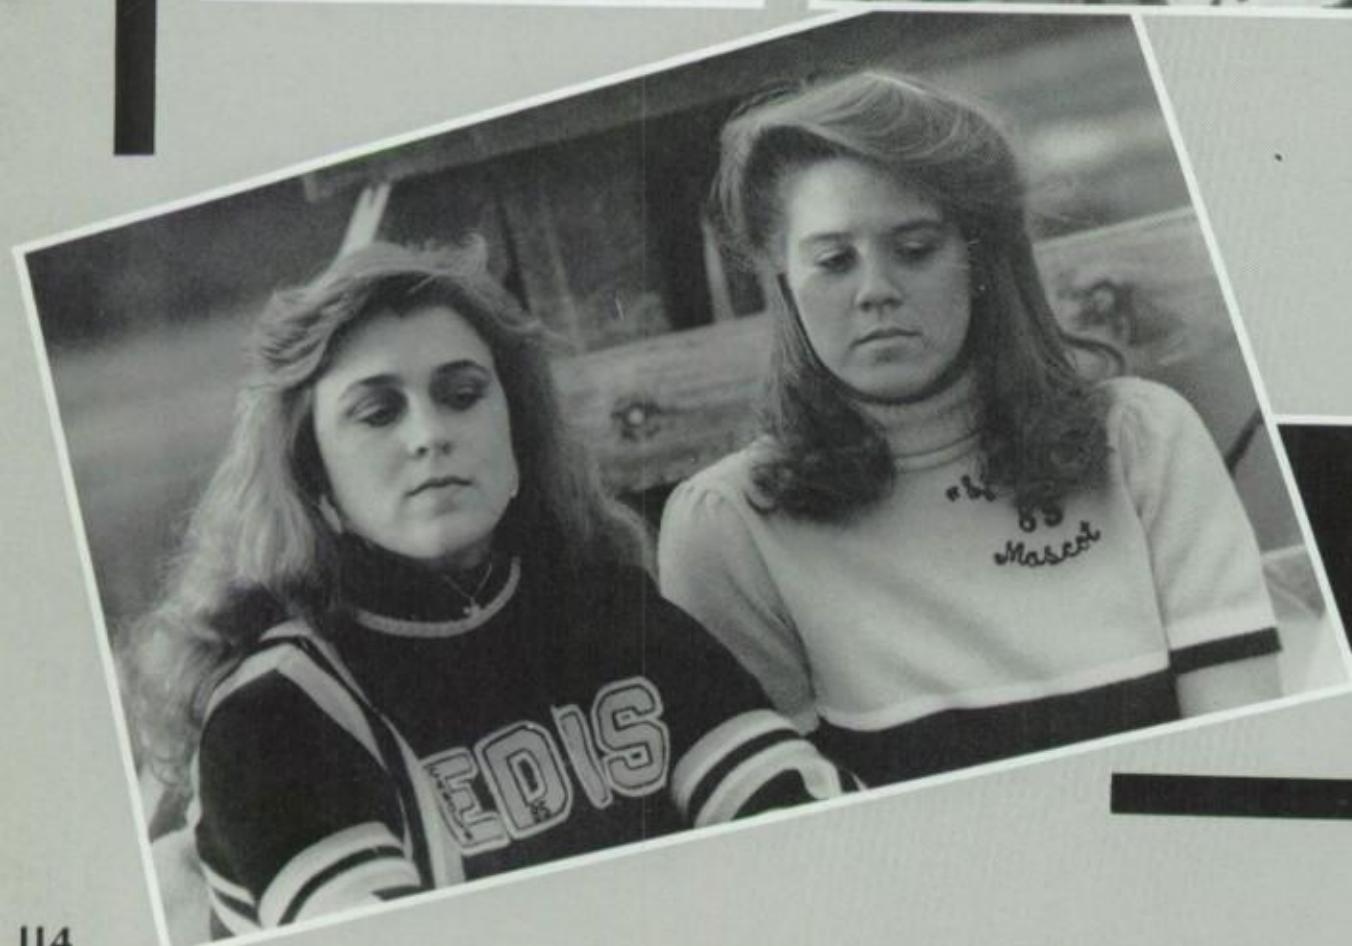

Karen Robert has been a part of the pepsters since her freshman year. As "head of class", she has organized the pepster activities and performances.

"Let's Go Crazy"

The 1984-85 Songleaders were faced with an interesting dilemma. For the first time, there would be no returning songleaders from the previous squad. This situation however did not make the slightest bit of difference. The squad of three seniors and four juniors combined their creativity and leadership qualities to make their year very successful. They did one of many outstanding performances at camp, they livened up an assembly with a dance to "Let's Go Crazy" and they entertained spectators with a basketball halftime routine. "Songleading gave me the chance to get involved with all the sports and in different activities", commented senior Jenni White. As a whole, the squad got along fairly well. There was a difference of opinion on some matters, but of course, that is expected. "If we were closer friends, our squad would of gotten along better. We had alot of fun though", stated senior Karie Sherman.

Never Ending Memories

"What was the funnest thing about being a cheerleader this year?"

Kathleen Chiechi: "Cheering at football games and making up songs with Deirdre and Liz."

Angle Harrod: "Going to U.S.A. camp during the summer. On the last night, we had the most fun."

Lisa Hinderlifer: "The funnest part for me was just being with the others on my squad. We all got along great and we had a lot of fun together."

Anissa House: "Cruising around in the Rolls Royce with everyone was probably the best time I had. I had a fun first-year as a cheerleader."

Meredith Hutcheson: "I had a great year in flag cheering, going to U.S.A. camp, riding in the Rolls and painting stools at 4 in the morning for football season."

Donna Snyder: "Camp was really fun because we won a lot of "superior" ribbons and we met a lot of people. Also, the people on my squad were a lot of fun to be with. I'll never forget when we went in the Rolls Royce and cruised around the football field."

This year, during a half-time performance at a football game, the flag squad rented a Rolls Royce which drove them around and let them off on the football field. The squad performed a routine that they learned at cheer camp during the summer. Before being driven to Bradford Stadium for a football game, Anissa House, Kathleen Chiechi, and Meredith Hutcheson take a minute to have fun in their rented Rolls Royce. The chauffeured Rolls drove the squad around for two hours before the game.

Superior Unity And Performance

"What was the most memorable experience you had this year as a cheerleader?"

Kathy Geriak: "My squad was really fun. I liked meeting all the guys on the teams. Camp was a blast! Summer '84 and all the practices for camp. Irene, Kathy, Susan, Illyse, and Tammy, Thanks!"

Illyse Goldbaum: "Becoming closer to my squad, cheering at football games, and having a great time. But most of all, listening to Kathy and Irene's stupid jokes."

Kathy Johnson: "I thought camp was the best part. That's when we all become really close and got our ribbons."

Susan Kim: "I think camp was the best part of cheerleading. We all got our "superior" ribbons and trophies and we got to meet new friends from other schools."

Irene Perez: "It was fun how we all got along and had our stupid jokes. I also liked our practices with a break-time every five minutes."

During summer, the J.V. cheerleaders attended a U.S.A. camp. Their performance and unity earned them many first place blue ribbons, and a spirit trophy.

United As Friends

When the Freshmen cheerleaders were asked what their favorite activity during the year was, all six girls agreed the answer was going to camp. Claudine Scotti commented, "I liked USA camp because I got to get to know people better and I made a lot of new friends!" Besides making new friends, these girls earned six superior ribbons from their daily competitions.

After camp the girls focused their attention on promoting spirit for their football, wrestling, soccer, basketball and baseball teams. Squad member Angela Shoho said, "I enjoyed cheering at the games and promoting school spirit and other activities. Our teams were great and I liked watching them win." Head of Squad, Wendi White commented, "This year was a new experience, fun, and best of all we became united as friends as well as spiritleaders."

"Symbol Of Spirit And Enthusiasm"

The 1984-1985 mascot Jennifer Jones. The Golden Hawk stands still to pledge the alma-mater. Jennifer incorporated many different props into her routines.

Since the very first year that El Dorado opened the school has had a mascot known as the Golden Hawk. Traditionally, the Golden Hawk helped spread school spirit, promote enthusiasm, and support the other spiritleaders. Finally the Golden Hawk was the symbol of the school. Every year try-outs are held to select a new mascot, this year Senior Jennifer Jones was selected.

Once in costume, Jennifer set aside her individuality to become the character and physical representative of the school. She spent a week at USA camp and brought home many superior ribbons and a medal. At the Heritage Day Parade in October, Jennifer represented the pepsters dancing joyfully alongside their float. Besides going to many sports activities, she also participated in assemblies doing skits, such as the Empire Busters.

Embossed as the central figure of the pepster organization, Jennifer Jones proudly represents the person behind the Hawk.

Not Just A Club: A Culture

After its third year, the German club headed by Mr. Walton was still as strong as ever. This year, the German club had about 40 members and they met every Thursday to discuss up and coming events such as trips to Switzerland, Germany, and Austria. When asked what their main purpose was, President Roger Kavigan said, "Different German clubs from all over Orange County get together and just have fun." Some activities the club has been involved in are the annual Oktoberfest, the Novemberfest in Diamond Bar, and a Carnival in which all German clubs attend. The German club was the richest foreign language club on campus due to its Gummi Bear sale, Valentines Day pastry sale, and concession stands at our soccer games. This year, the President was Roger Kavigan, Vice President was Christy Frantz, Treasurer was Mike Groth, and the Secretary was Angela Bakken.

Shoveling dirt. The Ecology Club has much more to it than that. The Club mixes landscaping with other nature related activities. Horse back riding, whale watching, picnicking, hiking and biking are some of the activities. "The Ecology Club offers a lot of involvement and activities," said President Wayne Su. This is all done by raising money by collecting papers.

"Our major goal is to clean up the nature center and then to branch out over the school," said Jack Su, who has been a member for four years. They have been working on the nature center and planting around the science building. The Club also donated the Christmas tree found in the science building.

"Illegible; rewrite" is one mark not hoped for on assignments. Having your handwriting compared to chicken-scratch isn't ego building either.

To work on penmanship, a Calligraphy Club was formed. "I've been interested since sixth grade and this was an opportunity for me to express my skill and interest," said Bobby Cohen President of the Club.

The Club teaches how to write in Calligraphy. "We made name place cards for the student council," said Secretary of Correspondence Laurie Green. The Calligraphy Club would write for anyone who asked. "We also had contests for best lettering," said Karen Weaver.

"It's one of the easiest clubs to join; all you need is a pen and paper," said Bobby Cohen.

The Calligraphy Club's work is displayed by the name cards they made for Student Council.

Graffiti

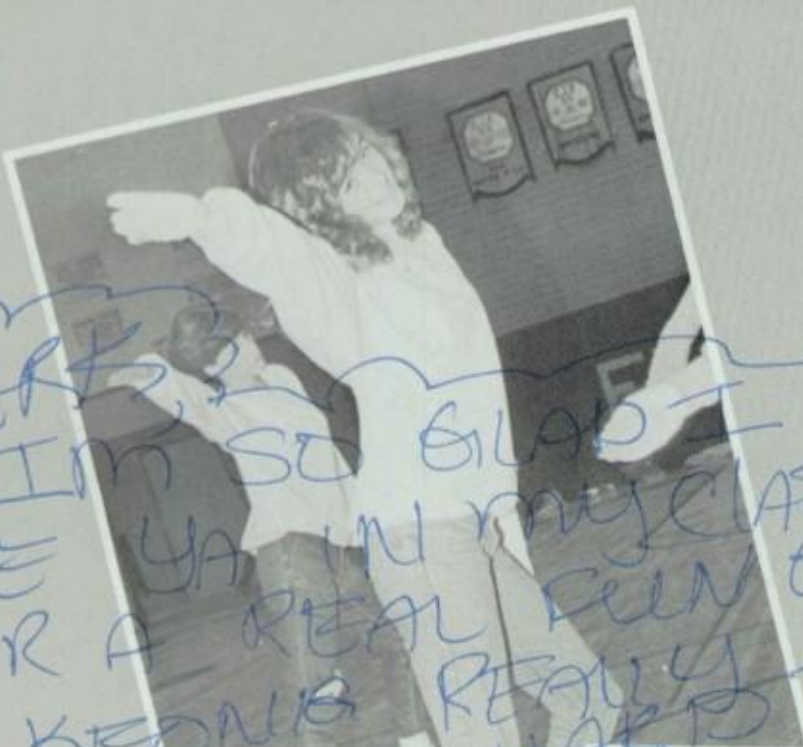

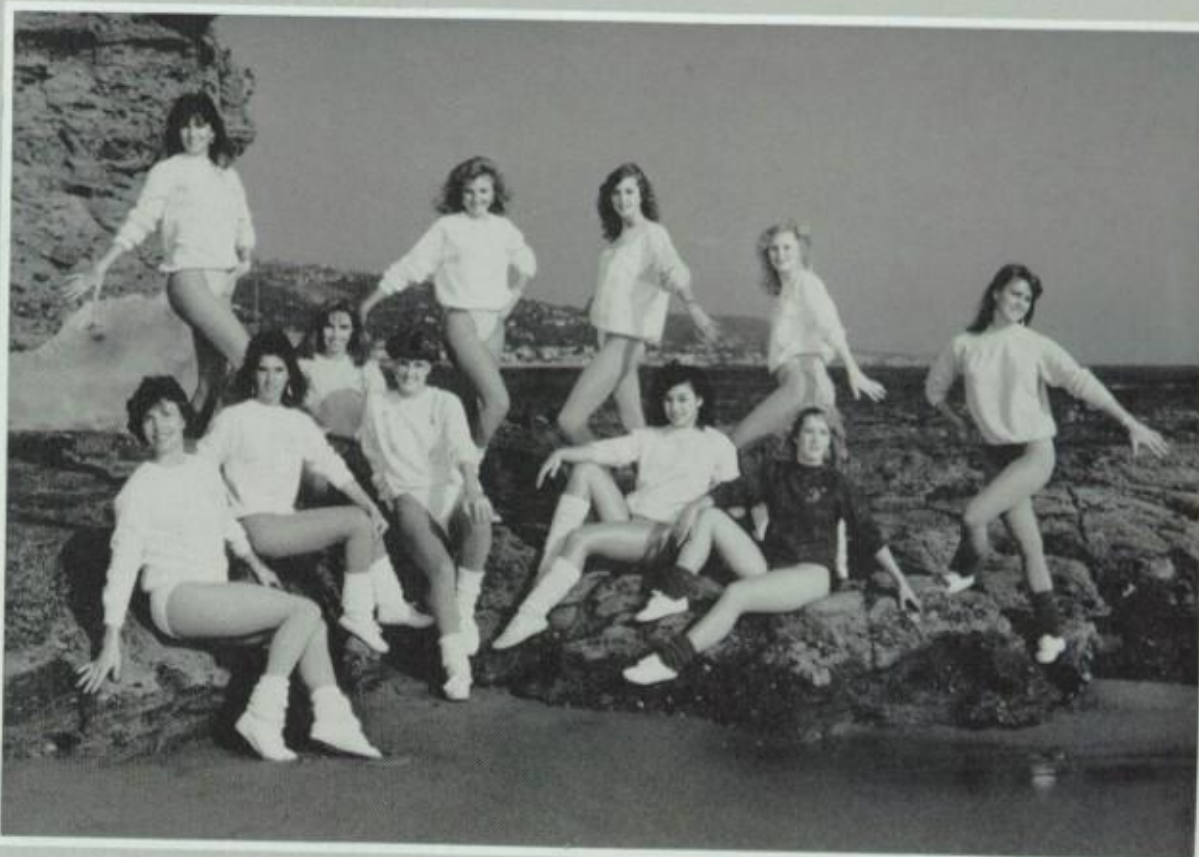

The art work came alive as the dancers presented their annual dance show "Graffiti". It took a lot of time and effort to make the dance show a success. The dancers practiced at 7:15 in the morning, during 2nd period and even added a few after school rehearsals, and some night rehearsals. "We had to pick the music and choreograph all the dances ourself, except the 3 dances that Mel choreographed. They are always the most fun," stated Tammy Peckham.

Melanie Alexander, or Mel as her dancers call her, held try outs in January. Sabrina Waterman comments, "It was tough competition. There was a lot of talent and only 11 out 30 girls were chosen."

The dancers may have worked hard but they had fun doing it. Many close relationships had developed. "We're all like sisters in a big family and Mel's our mom," reveals Teresa Petry.

One of the dances that the girls enjoyed the most was "I'm free" choreographed by Kim Gregory. Kim has been in dance for the last two years. "To be a good dancer, you must be creative, outgoing, and dedicated. Teresa Petry is a good example. She's creative and contributes a lot to the group."

Mel concludes, "I wasn't at all prepared for the dance show this year but the girls took care of everything. They are amazing!"

Teresa Petry stated, "I love to perform and dancing is the best way to do it."

Rewards For Success

The California Scholarship Federation, C.S.F. for short, is a club whose members must maintain certain academic standards. In order to be a member, a student must obtain ten C.S.F. points. Three C.S.F. points are awarded for an A grade, and one C.S.F. point is awarded for a B grade. One change from previous years is that two points are now awarded for a B grade in an honors class. According to C.S.F. President Gordon Brindell, the reason for the change is that, "An honors class is more difficult than a regular class. Honors classes take twice the effort."

The main goal of the club is to reward students for doing well in school. The activities include lunchtime pizza and ice cream parties, progressive dinners, and a C.S.F. night at Disneyland.

In addition to the fun that C.S.F. provides, the club also awards scholarships to seniors who are C.S.F. lifetime members. The money for these scholarships is raised by the members' candy sales.

Pictured are the members of C.S.F. This club boasts the greatest number of members than any other club on campus.

The C.S.F. officers are President Gordon Brindell, Treasurer Don Kim, Commissioner of Publicity Lauri Abernethy, Secretary Jennifer Shecter, and Commissioner of Activities Tracy Sandurraga.

The progressive dinner held in December moved to three different locations in the course of the evening. Enjoying the party are Christy Frantz, Karen Guse, Donna Alexander, and Dong Kim.

Taking A Shortcut

The Future Business Leaders of America, commonly called FBLA, is a club consisting of students in beginning and advanced shorthand classes. Their primary responsibility is to run the student store. FBLA receives 40% of the profits, and the remaining 60% of the profits go to the student council. Ms. Stanger teaches the shorthand classes and is the teacher advisor for the club. Kristen Lenning commented on the student store, "It's fun to work in the student store because some of my friends do." Catherine Powers added, "It's a great way to earn extra money and help the student council's fund."

Transcribing letters is one of the skills F.B.L.A. members acquire. Kelly Sutton concentrates on her work in order to improve.

Practicing their typing are Dana Simmons and Christine Rennwald. They manage to keep a good sense of humor in spite of the hard work.

Mock Trial

The Santa Ana Court House was the setting where students from several schools were given a case to debate among each other in order to reach a verdict. The nine students from El Dorado debated strongly and enthusiastically in order to present their side in the case. A county judge sat in on the trial as each school represented their client in three rounds.

Debate Club

Politics, religion, economic affairs are all controversial topics not to be discussed socially due to opposite views and opinions of those debating the issue. Debate Club tore into all of them. Some other topics debated were Drunk Driving, Federal Budget Cuts, and Teenage Suicide. The goal for the debating team was to establish an outgoing group of people willing to debate to the fullest.

Rain or shine, the flag squad always performs with pride. The annual Band Pgeant was held at Bradford stadium.

Rifle, LeeAnn Miner, marches down Main Street, Disneyland with enthusiasm. LeeAnn has twirled rifle for two years. Co-Captain Anne Patemen, as well as Tracy Lester and Gina Gomez step in style while they perform their parade routine. The march this year is "Under The Double Eagle". The auxiliary squads took time out from competitions to entertain Disneyland guests. Two performances were held and the rest of the day was to enjoy.

Auxiliary Takes The Lead

Dedication and success appropriately describe the auxiliary units for 1984-1985. The Flag, Rifle, and Banner Squads devoted approximately 13 hours a week to bring their routines to perfection. The squads strived for unity and developed lasting friendships in the process. They have performed at an assembly and at football games to delight the student body.

Routines created by captain Jennifer Shecter and co-captain Gina Plantamura led the rifle squad to capture first place awards in every competition attended. All of the hard work contributed by Andrea Clark, Sue Janicki, Michelle Kelly, Linda LaBorde, LeeAnn Miner, Vickie Pavia, Gina Plantamura, and Jennifer Shecter paid off when they scored a 98 out of 100 at the Savanna Field Tournament.

Led by Kristen Dodd and Anne Pateman, the tail flags twirled their way to victory. The squad demonstrated winning qualities that awarded them 6 trophies from 7 competitions, a feat they accomplished without the aid of an instructor. When asked why she enjoyed the flag squad, BethAnn Driscoll stated, "All the flags are like one big family because we all talk about problems and we care about each other." Tracy Lester says she's been a flag for 3 years "Because the raspy du-fuss's are in it and I enjoy the competition. It's a lot of work but it's a lot of fun to win and meet many other people in other bands." Street flags include Lynn Agracourcy, Kim Amaro, Kristina Bovia, Kris Clarence, BethAnn Driscoll, Julie Crescione, Carol Facione, Gina Gomez, Tracy Lester, Kelly Morgan, Michelle Morey, and Anne Pateman. Field flags include the above street flags as well as Brandi Carrigan, Jodi Dodd, Kristen Dodd, Jenni Douglass, Yvette Reta, Angela Snyder, Donna Snyder, and Heather Vaughn.

The banners led the way for the marching Hawks in parades, their banners spelling out El Dorado. They carried their letters with pride and snapped their routine. "We really have come a long way since we first started. All of the underclassmen gave it their best and did a really good job," stated captain Donna Snyder. The units members are Brandi Carrigan, co-captain Jodi Dodd, Jenni Douglass, Julie Lloyd, Angela Snyder, Susan Nilson, Donna Snyder, and Heather Vaughn.

Although the banners had only one individual competition, they always help the bands overall score.

These flag members carry "the look of determination" while marching down Main Street. The band went on a December Disneyland trip to have fun while earning money by performing. Being an auxiliary member requires many hours of practice as well as a talent. Junior, Michelle Kelly knows she must practice to perfect her double-time.

Marching To The Top

"Some things never change, like when the judges announce your school has just won," reveals flutist, Amy Thomas. It was an excellent year for the Marching Band. They took first place in the Ventura Parade and sweepstakes at the Heritage Parade and Glendale Parade. At the California Band Review, the five year defending champions took first place on the field. "Our field shows were the best. It gave us the opportunity to show the individual squads such as the percussion, flags and rifles. These groups are some of the finest in the state of California," explained Mr. Richard Watson, Band Director.

The Band also had the privilege of marching down Main Street, Disneyland, U.S.A. Jackie Halverson commented, "You feel so important because the crowd is so close to you. It's also a challenge trying to stay in formation."

Their schedule was a busy one. In addition to these parades and competitions, the Band thrilled the crowds at every football and basketball game.

"The Band has done the best job in improving and developing into a competitive unit like none other that has ever been here at El Dorado. The outstanding work of everybody has been a major contributing factor," replied Mr. Watson.

After a slow start, the girls varsity tennis team ended a season in fine shape. The girls played to their fullest ability," said head coach Tracy Brennan. The team's record was not indicative of how well they played this season.

Extra! Extra!

Deadlines, reporters, editors, and interviews were all part of the school newspaper. Changes were also a big part of the paper. A noticeable change was the title of the paper itself. "We changed the name just so people would understand it," replied reporter Marc Posner. The title of last year's paper was The El Galvalin, but it changed to The Golden Hawk.

For each new edition, a planning session took place. This was where bad stories were thrown out and good ones were followed up on. Reporters were given the ideas and had to come up with an interesting story to be read by all the students.

Putting together a paper was new to most of the staff. Many of the reporters were inexperienced. "Due to our inexperience we encountered many challenges, but we met all of them," said Willie Wright. Usually each member of the staff has gone through one year of journalism to prepare for the paper.

is vitally important to the high team because this would be the one thing preventing them from winning league, more so than injuries would. A lack of commitment reflects on the teams' attitude as well.

"Everyone must show up for practice and participate as well as possible to establish this team concept," stated Gonzales. "It is important for us to establish this team concept because a teams' lack of commitment can be prevented, injuries cannot."

Along with commitment, leadership is a key to the team's success. This year's team will be very competitive this year and our record, so this season they will be looking to improve on that.

Drama Goes Back To The 30's

The fall production, "Our Hearts Were Young," took place in the 1930's. Two girls, Cornelia Skinner, played by Becky VanBibber, and Emily Kimbrough, played by Jill Westphal, take a cruise to France to seek their fortune while indulging in many mishaps.

Not only did the cast have to study their lines, but they also learned to speak some French and translate French lines to English with the help of Ms. Shick. They also had to research the time era of the 1930's to help with the costumes. The cast also got to go on the Princess Line Cruise in San Pedro for the experience of being on a ship.

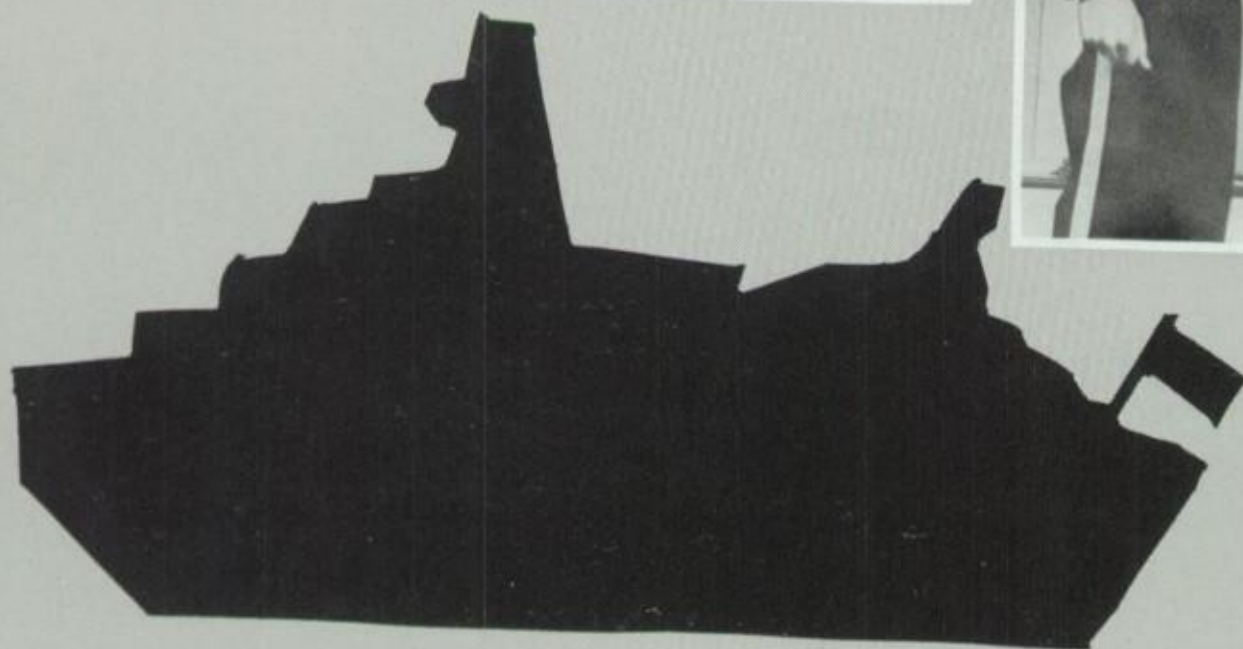

Casey Marshall played the part of the famous French actor, Monsieur de LaCroix. "I liked this role because he was foreign and conceited. I could make him as flamboyant as possible and I would still be in character."

The play was a long three act play. Casey Marshall commented, "After all the long hours of rehearsal and hard work, the end product was well worth it."

Monsieur de LaCroix and Mr. Skinner exchange theater stories. Mr. Skinner was portrayed by Shawn Dillon.

It looks as though Becky VanBibber had had a long day. The cast had many late night rehearsals for perfection.

Robert Trummer questions Jill Westphal about the object that he found.

Giving Dorothy the magic ruby slippers is the Sorceress of the North, Kim Whitney. Becky VanBibber, Bruce Smith, Manda Fonseca and Mike Hedderig are looking for the Great Oz in Emerald City. The Munchkins welcome Dorothy to Munchkin Land. Merrit Claudin, Lisa O'Neil and Lisa Maher represent the Lollipop Guild.

The Drama Department broke through the fourth dimension in presenting "The Wizard of Oz." The whole auditorium became the stage, and when the characters spoke, they involved the audience.

Becky VanBibber, who played the role of Dorothy, stated, "It has been the best show by far because it was a Children's Theater. The audience as well as the cast got emotionally involved. At the last performance, there was not a dry eye in the house."

The music added color to the play and took part in the plays success. "The cast seemed confident with their music, thanks to Mr. Tebay," commented Becky.

Mike Hedderig, who portrayed the part of the Tinman, concluded, "The cast was so neat. We have never had a cast that worked so well together."

Lights, Camera, Action!

For involvement with play productions, look to the Drama Club. They hold meetings at lunch, run by Mrs. Jones and the Thespian Officers, which inform drama club members of upcoming plays and activities. At these meetings, they also sign up for crews and are informed about auditions.

One of the biggest activities of the Drama Club is selling Singing Valentines. This activity always proves to be very profitable. Trisha Mohan commented, "I always like to do Singing Valentines. It's fun to express what other people think."

Being involved with drama has many benefits; weekend festivals, acting on stage in front of an audience, cast parties and discounts on the shows.

Cyndie Stevens, President of the Drama Club, concluded, "Drama is like a huge family. The love, respect and support that is given to you is from everyone."

In the field of Improvization, Shawn Dillon, Jill Conn, Becky VanBibber and Cyndie Stevens placed 8th in Southern California.

Tammy Herron, Eleanor Chen, Carol Delaney and not pictured Chris Hagedorn were trophy winners in the category of Group Improvization. This was the first year El Dorado entered this tough competition and placed 11 out of 26 schools.

Christy Jimmerson took 8th place in the category of Individual Serious with her scene from "Wings." At the festival, El Dorado placed 9th overall out of 60 schools.

Troop 42515

When you think of San Diego, what's the first thing that comes to your mind? Sun, sand, surf, and fun? That's not what five members of the yearbook staff thought about. Their main concern was how they were going to sit through six classes a day, for a week, without going crazy. "I didn't really mind the classes. I think I spent most of the time dreaming of what our book was going to look like. It had to be the perfect creation, especially if I didn't want to hide out during the last week of school when the books came out," said editor Lauren Calvert. Students, Ken Kaldenbach, Lisa Larick, Jill Ojeda, Stuart Mencher, and Lauren Calvert attended the annual SCSPA at UC San Diego during the month of August. This camp is held every summer to help train yearbook staffs all over the state for the year ahead. "We had a lot of free time to go to the beach or sleep. To top that, there were fifty water polo players on the two floors above mine," said Lauren. "I had a lot of fun because of the new friends that I made," commented Jill Ojeda. "There is so much I could say. I could talk about climbing three flights of stairs with my robe on because I got locked out of my room. I could tell you about the naked men doing Yoga on Black's Beach, and even letting Lauren find out I'm not a nerd after all," remembered Lisa Larick. I remember when we all hiked down this steep cliff to Black's Beach. I was running down the path when my thong broke. I rolled about five feet and landed in a bush," laughed Ken Kaldenbach.

When school started, so did we!

The year got off to a slow start with only six returning students. The real task was to teach the rookies the ropes. Training sessions were held for the first two weeks, but the rest was going to have to come with practice. "At first it was hard, but everyone helped me learn what to do. Now it's easy, and it's fun working with people," stated Lisa Hinderliter. "In yearbook, you learned something new everyday. Even though it got a little hectic, it was fun," said David Evans.

The theme of the book was "Changes". To carry out the theme we used a lot of wild backgrounds and colors to add excitement, and to get away from the traditional styles. This added a lot of confusion. We were really happy when it turned out so great, but most people were just happy that we finished with it. "I was especially glad that it was finished. I didn't know what the heck I was doing until we started to cut and paste. That's easy! I think the color pages turned out great!" said Karen Robert. "Being photo-editor is a lot of work, but when it comes to deadlines, working with my photographers is fun," said Stuart Mencher.

The remainder of the year would be a breeze. Deadlines were sprinkled with pizza parties. "Eating pizza was my favorite part of yearbook," said Kim Lewis. Six foot submarine sandwiches, "Bunch-a-Lunch", and cookies during the weeks that followed the Winter Formal. "I liked when deadlines were finished because we always had a party afterward," said Kenny Donovan.

"Changing Seasons," the 1985 Winter Formal, was organized by Carrie Cline. For two months no one knew if Carrie was alive or not. She was always out phoning orders or arranging and buying something for the dance. "Winter Formal was a lot of work. I was really happy when it was finished. I loved watching everything run so smoothly," sighed Carrie.

Around finals time, when everyone else was sweating through their fourth period final, we were out stuffing our faces at Hershe's. "I wasn't stuffing my face. My chocolate shake ended up on Phil's back," laughed Doug Frate. "I had a great time at Hershe's, until I felt something cold dripping down my back," remembered Phil Middleton.

One activity that helped put a little fun into the class was "Nerd of the Deadline." "Through all the hard times, being in yearbook has been a great experience. I met great friends and had a lot of fun times. Most of all I liked being in charge of 'Nerd of the Deadline'," said Michelle Paoletti. No one knew who was selected until after the deadline. Sometimes they were selected because of their hard work, and sometimes it was just to tease someone about some layout, or stupid copy. "It was an honor to be nominated as 'Nerd of the Deadline' I love my super-banana award!" said Greg Clark. "When I got my award we were at Bunch-a-Lunch; they announced it in front of anyone. I was so embarrassed," stated Kristin Ladner.

Field trips were also one of the nice benefits of being on the staff. Brian Lee, Phil Middleton, Lisa Larick, Carrie Cline, Lauren Calvert, and Mr. Leonard took a nice, leisurely, five-hour drive up to Visalia, California, to tour the Josten Yearbook Printing Company. "Well, there's only one way you can go in Visalia, and we went the wrong way. We dined, swam, cruised the town, watched movies until dawn, and the Josten tour was just an added attraction to our action packed, super-deluxe, fun-filled, one-of-a-kind, vacation to Visalia," exclaimed Brian Lee.

Through all of the fun times, there was a lot of hardwork and hardtimes. Deadlines were a hassle and sometimes weekend crams were a necessary part of being on time. "I'll never forget working on a deadline the night of Winter Formal. We stayed up until 3:00 a.m. trying to put everything together. The worst part was finding out the dates were mixed up and it wasn't due for another week!" yelled Lisa Larick. "Being a photographer takes most of my free time. I have to put off my layouts until the last possible minute when I throw it together," said Dave Stow.

New friendships were a special part of being a member of the staff. "It was fun getting to meet new people," said Paula Hinderliter. "A special part of being on the yearbook staff was the new friendships that I made," commented Karen Guse.

We ourselves will not only remember all the changes we shared, but El Dorado will also remember. The yearbook staff of 1985 made changes in tradition. We started a new tradition of senior class pictures. "Blowing up balloons for the senior picture was fun; we got to be pros at talking with helium. I liked the senior picture this year because it was different. It was a change of tradition that our class started," said Michelle Morey. Most important of all we started a new tradition of yearbooks at El Dorado. "This was the easiest and best year of production, which must mean that this is the most creative staff ever," said Mr. Leonard. "Being on yearbook was special to me because I helped to put my senior year in print," said Susan Geer.

The String Quartet

The last bastion of classical music at El Dorado was Orchestra. The sounds of Bach and Beethoven were heard when class convened third period.

The Orchestra this year was actually a "String Quartet." It was the smallest class taught by Mr. Watson. The class consisted of two basses, Jim Wahl and Eddie Terhune, and two violinists, Jane Monk and Martha Monzo. But there are a lot of advantages of having a small class. Martha Monzo stated, "I like having a small class because we get individual attention and it teaches us responsibility."

Because of the small group, the members of the Orchestra felt close with one another.

The highlight of the year was their performance in the school musical, "The Wizard of Oz."

Martha Monzo counts the measures until her violin part comes in.

Concentrating hard, Jim Wahl practices for perfection.

First violinist, Jane Monk, reviews the score during rehearsal.

Eddie Terhune finds a good pitch as he plays his bass.

"Win or lose we always had fun"

If you were looking for a quiet evening of football, you would not find it on the 50 yard line. That was the home of the Loud Crowd.

The Loud Crowd's job was "to be enthusiastic, show school pride and spirit at the sporting events," stated Craig Olsen.

They did their job very well. They got fans excited, and supported the spirits and efforts of the cheerleaders.

To make sure that the Loud Crowd didn't get the fans too excited, meetings were held at lunch, overseen by Libby Kingseed, Commissioner of Pep. These meetings provided a forum for determining the Loud Crowd's game plan and proper conduct.

The Loud Crowd was very successful in generating excitement throughout the stadium during the season.

Brad Peters and Rob Ramos aid the cheerleaders in their presentations. The Loud Crowd sold buttons at the football games which went to their fund.

The pre-season game against South Hills was the most motivating game for the Loud Crowd. The people in the stadium were really excited and the Loud Crowd started a "mini wave."

Supporting their team, Tammy Portugal and Craig Olsen stand up for the kick-off. Craig comments, "Next year we'd like to concentrate on getting the younger members to the away games."

New Friendships

When a hundred seniors and a hundred freshmen signed up to participate in the Big Brother/Sister Little Brother/Sister program, the student council knew the activity would be a success. At the beginning of the year students signed up for the program. The students could request their little brother or sister, if they didn't they were matched up randomly. Every month there was an activity for the sisters and brothers to participate in, including; bringing lunch for one another, the foam head contest, and a Christmas gift exchange. Senior Brad Peters said, "It has been very successful this year. There has been a great turn out on all events and everyone is very enthusiastic to do things with their brothers and sisters."

Faith Jarratt builds a mountain of shaving cream on her little brother, Dennis Shea's head. Faith and Dennis went on to win this contest for having the highest mountain.

Regina Flores kindly shares her lunch with three little brothers. Seniors were repaid though, when in a later activity, the little sisters and brothers brought lunches for them.

One of the activities for Big Brother/Little Sister was lunch day. Here, a group of seniors share their lunches with their sisters and brothers.

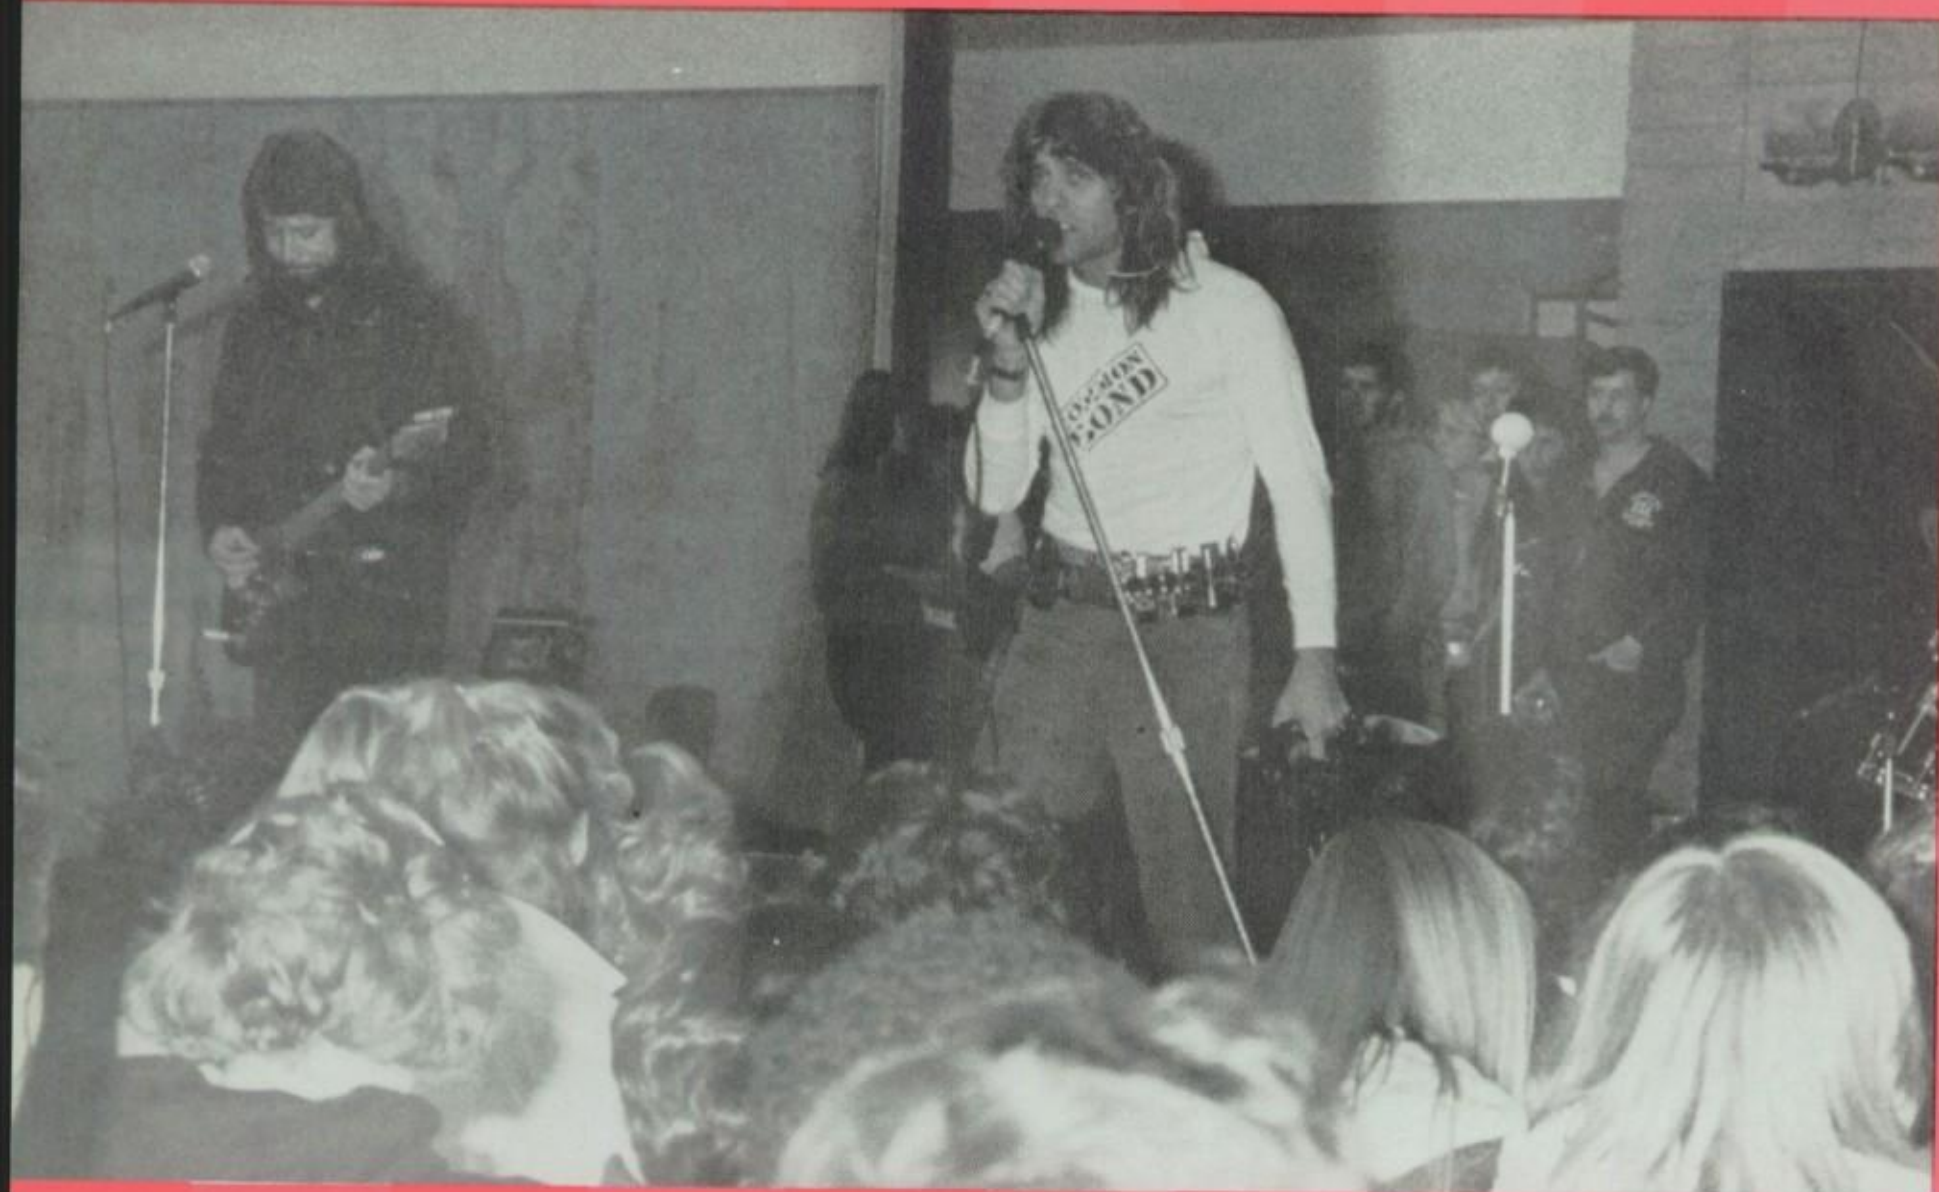

Senior Tim Green sits with his Little Sister Paula Glade. The Big Brother/Little Sister club became very popular since its start last year and many students became involved.

Gene Tjoa, Tim Goff, Roger Behle, and Linh Nguyen try to build the highest foam mountains on their little sisters' heads. A popular activity for the Big Brother/Little Sister club was the Foam Head Contest.

Big Brother Ed Padilla and Little Sister Kristin Arnold were tough competitors in the Foam Head Contest. The shaving cream mound eventually fell off Kristin's head.

Darrel Mansfield was one of our concert assemblies. He sang and talked to the students about the idolistic lives of rock-stars and their involvement with drugs. "The concert was cool because I like hard rock. Getting out of class was great too," said Tim Behan.

Big brothers Roger Behle, Linh Nguyen, and unseen Brian Flatley are really enjoying the "Freshmen Foam Head" competition. This was just one of the activities for the Big Brother, Little Sister program. Freshmen Lori Salshurry, Alison Blum, and Amy Jackson can't wait until they're seniors!

One goal of the ASB officers was to have as many new and fun competitions and activities as they could come up with. The "Ugly Feet" contest was one of the class competitions during Spirit Week.

Ghosts, Goblins, And Gizmo

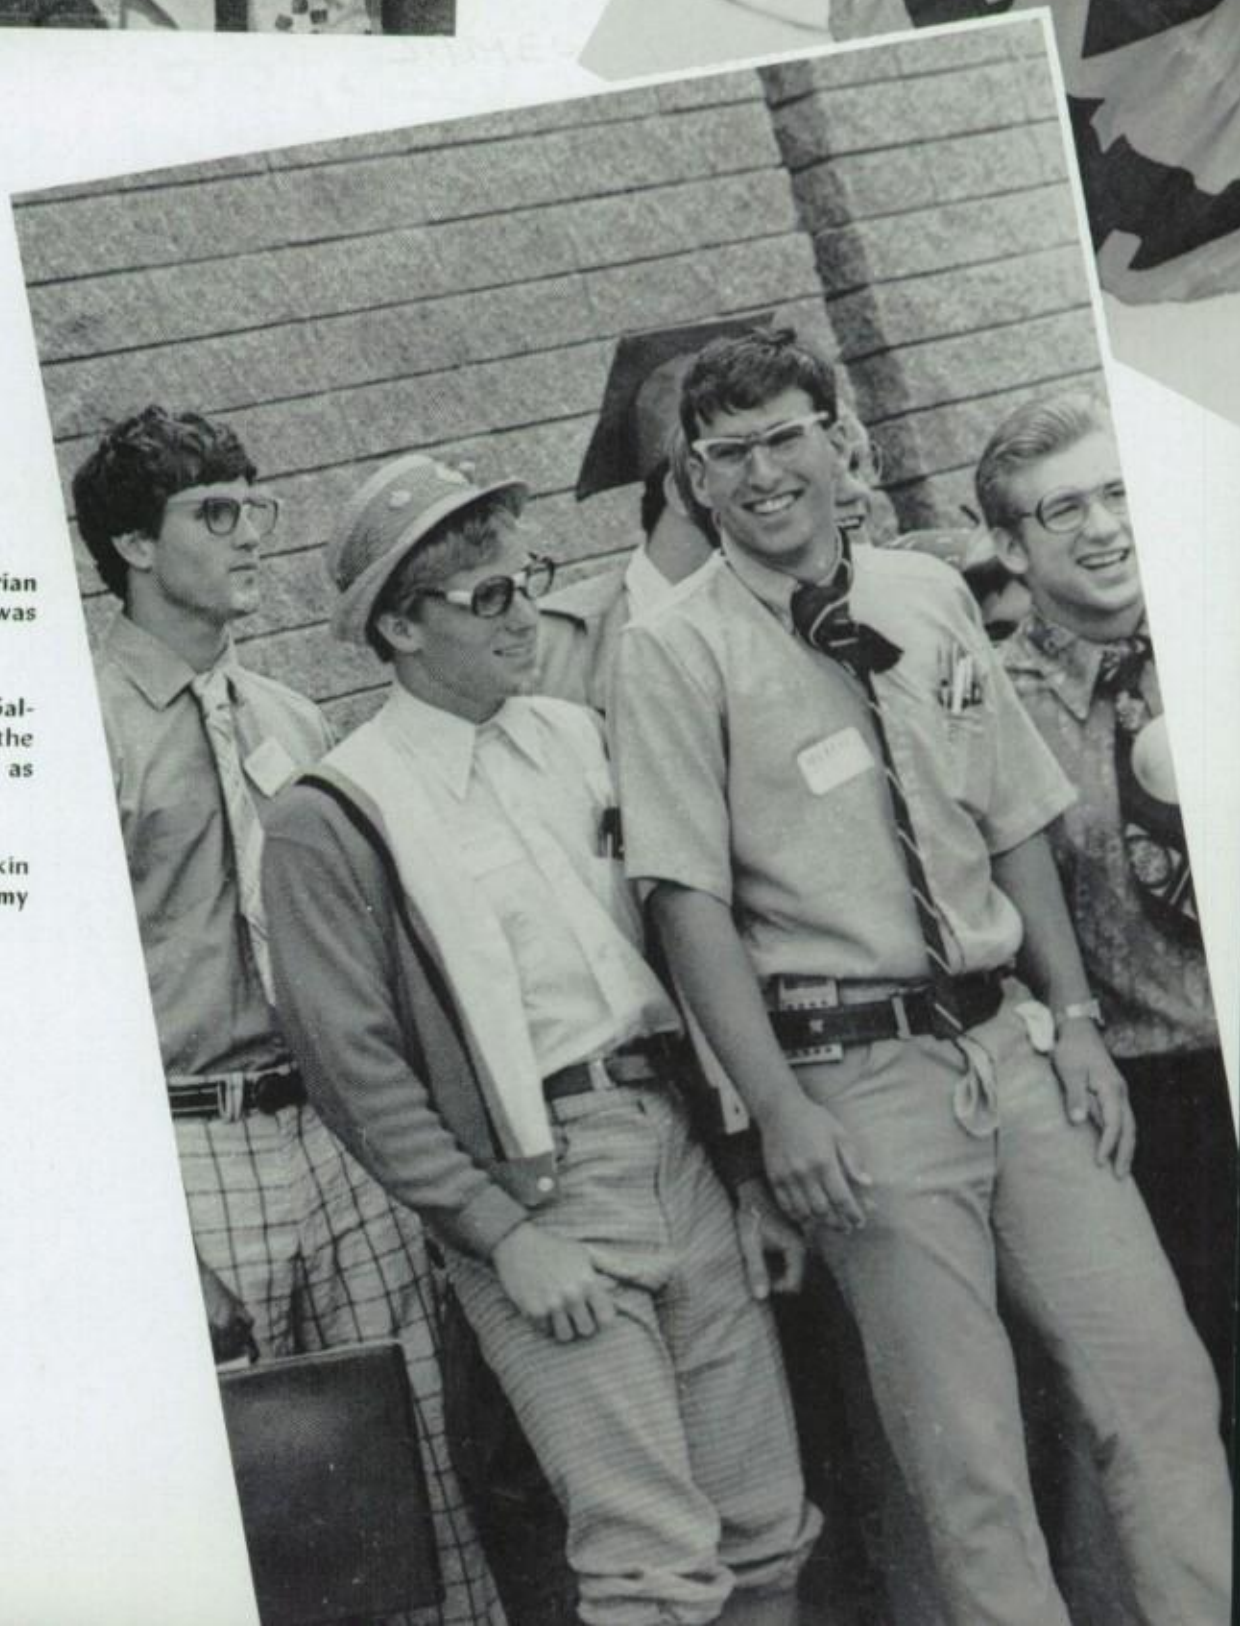

Ghosts, goblins, and witches were not unusual to find roaming the campus on October 31st. Many students participated in the annual Halloween dress-up day disguised as clowns, '50's girls, Hippies, and Nerds. During lunch, a contest was held for the Best Group, Scariest, and Most Original Costumes. The Nerds won in the category of Best Group. A pumpkin full of candy was awarded to Tracey Borowski for the Scariest Costume. Paul Flatley won the Most Original Costume award with his table setting costume.

"No nuclear Wars!" Halloween hippies Jeanine Samsel, Brian Lee and Beth Green plead. Most of their sixties attire was purchased at The Goodwill or borrowed from parents.

Pleased with their progress in dressing themselves, Brian Galvin, Todd Holt, Wes Porter, and Scott Fairfield smile during the "dress-up" parade. Many of the upper classmen dressed as nerds making it the most popular costume.

What would be more appropriate on Halloween than a pumpkin costume thought senior Tammy Moore. Upon request Tammy kneels to the ground to fully demonstrate her costume.

Gizmo, made by Susan Sweet, is being very careful to stay away from any water. Gizmo is from the popular movie "Gremlins".

Someone is expected to engage themselves in a candlelight meal at the expense of Paul Flatley. Paul was the winner of the most original costume.

Dressed as the Wicked Witch of the West, Mrs. Crays shows her school spirit. Originally, a contest was to be held for teachers as well as the students.

Imagine the surprise and bewilderment a teenager from 1944 would feel if they stepped into a time machine and landed today. How would he feel about blacks and whites attending the same school, french-cut bikinis, a policewoman walking the beat, television with a set in almost every living room - to say nothing of personal computers?

Each generation has its own goals and hopes, fashions and fads. 1984 is the generation of freedom, responsibility, and realism. Teens are no longer as innocent as they were in the '40's and '50's, nor as disenchanted as they were in the '60's and '70's. Today they have both ambition and knowledge. Things are no longer as easy as they used to be.

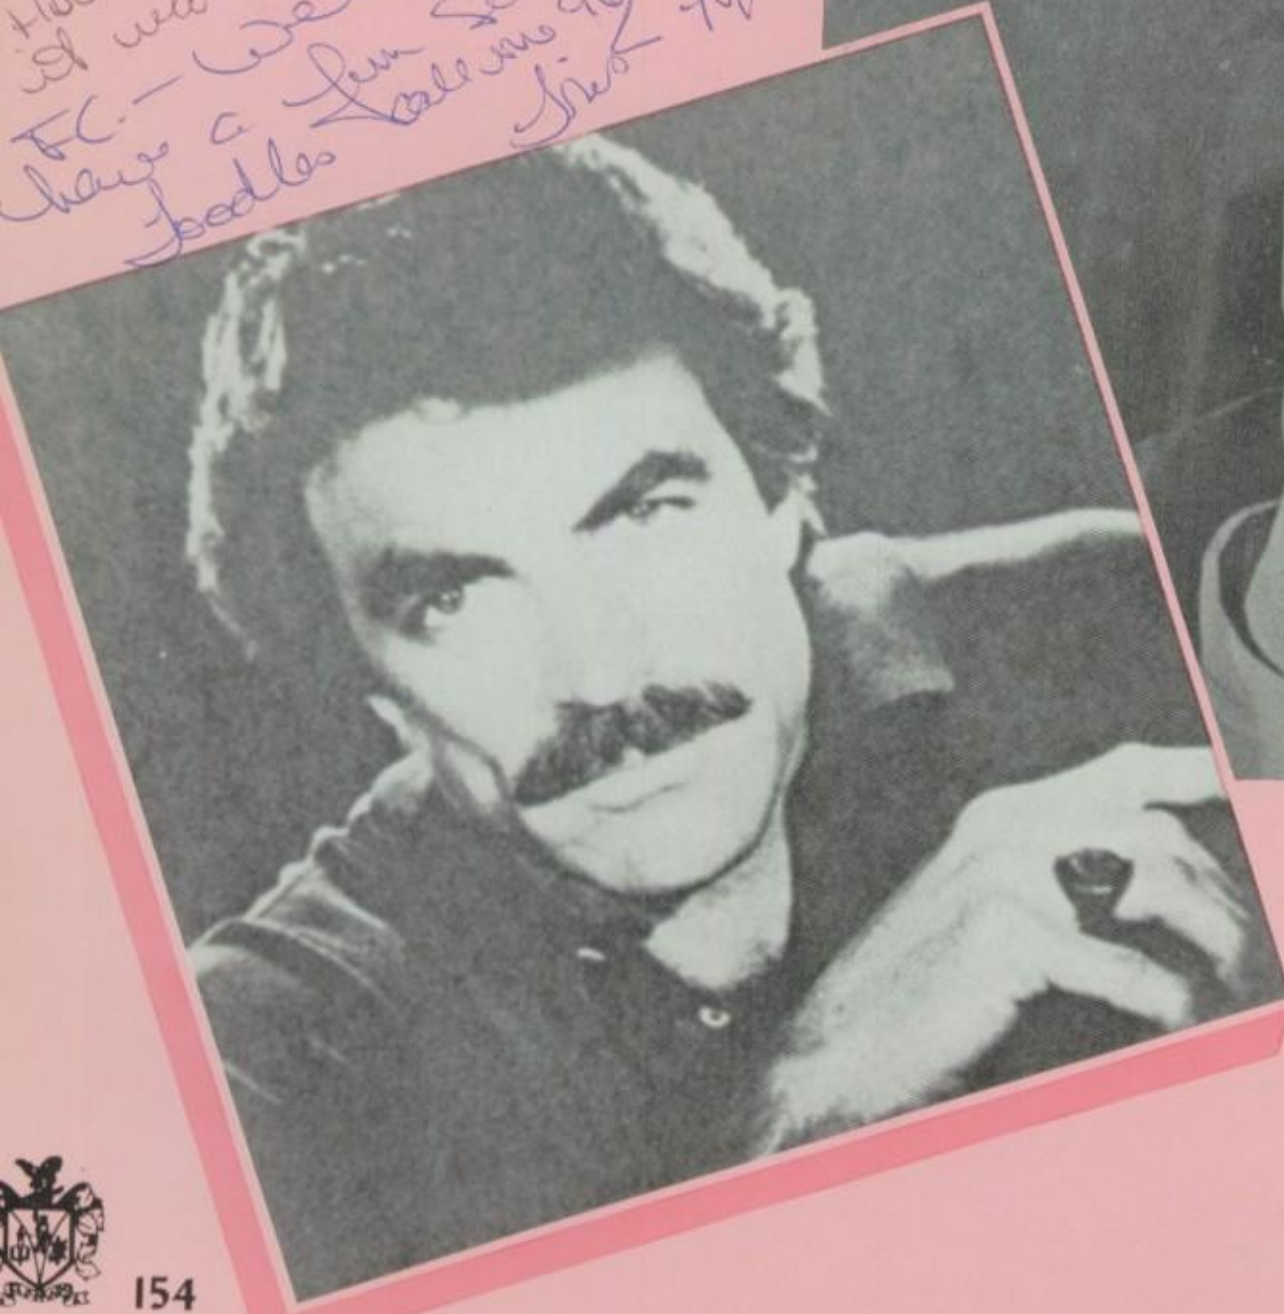

Compared with those of the last two decades, teenagers today are more traditional, less experimental, more cautious, more home-oriented, and less rebellious. An appreciation of the business world is growing again. Today, 20 percent of all new college freshmen say they are thinking about careers in business. That's twice as many as in 1964.

The greatest advancement in 1984 is the fact that the generation gap is being bridged for the first time since 1944. The issues concerning teens are also upsetting parents. Both worry about the peril of nuclear war. Both generations want to make it easier for women to work out conflicts between career and family. Both worry about drug use, pregnant unmarried teens, and teenage suicide. A change today's teen has made is that they've learned how to leave their parents and also how to join them.

But what the time traveler would find most impressive would be the independence of the 1984 teenager. Teens didn't win this independence overnight. The change occurred slowly, year after year.

Working For A Living

We all know, in order to get something we have to work for it. So, what do we do? We get a JOB! For most of us our job is something we want to do and enjoy. We may get frustrated at times and just want to quit, but most of us have the ability to stick with the job through the hard times. One of the reasons we work is for the money. We can use the money to buy a car or save for our future. Buying something with the money we earn, makes us feel proud, since we earned it.

Gina Plantamura: "I work at Disneyland only on holidays. My job does not get in the way of things, because I don't work very much."

Rhonda McKusick: "I hate it. I do not enjoy working, but I enjoy the money."

Scott Mencken: "It's better working at In-n-Out than McDonalds or Carl's. You get raises every two or three months, and a week's vacation. The manager is also nice."

The Dating Game

Dating is one of the best opportunities to meet new people and make lasting friendships. It offers the chance to develop important relationships with certain people that will bring memories to last a lifetime. Depending on the type of date, a blind date, double date, "dream" date, casual date, or a formal date, the place to go will vary, such as dinner, a movie, dancing, the beach, or a party. As long as you enjoy each other's company, you can do just about anything and have a good time doing it. No matter what the outcome of your night is, whether it ends up to be a night spent with a friend, or a serious romance develops, or your night turns into a total failure, you'll be able to grow and learn about yourself and others.

"What is your idea of a perfect date?"

Sophomore Jeff Middlemiss says: "Going out to dinner and having a fun time with someone you like to be with. It doesn't have to be a formal date, just casual."

Freshman Tina Zummo says: "A perfect date to me would be with the guy I really like at a totally romantic place."

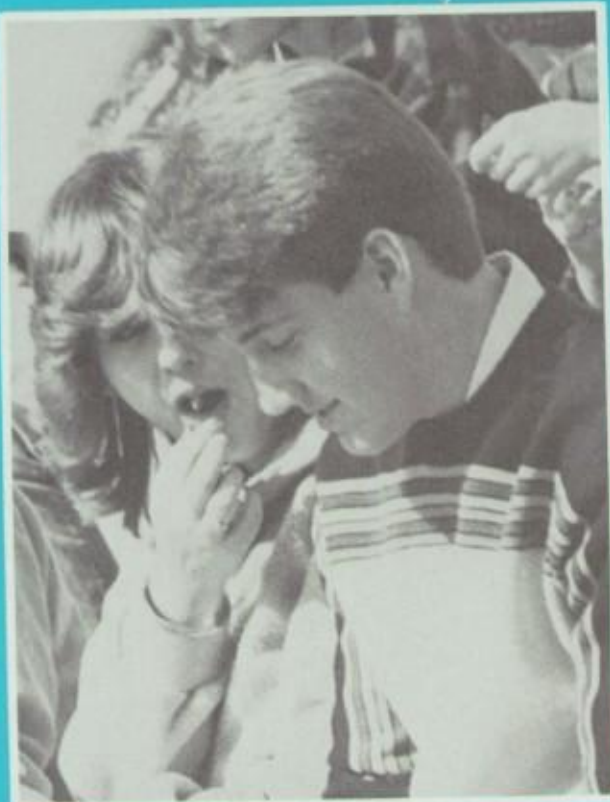

Sharing their lunch together, Bill Moore and Julie Agosta talk about their day's events.

Surprised at what she's hearing, Michelle Banks listens to Bart Hakeman. Both Bart and Michelle are exceptional athletes as well as outstanding students.

"What do your parents think of you dating someone older than you?"

Sophomore Andrea Clark says: "They don't care. It doesn't matter to them. I like it better too." Senior Michelle Morey says: "My parents don't mind that he is older because he is trustworthy and they get along great."

Taking time out to catch up on what's happening, Mindy Claudin and Chris Crow share a friendly moment together.

Friends are always there to listen to your problems and offer advice. Steve Courtier and Andrea Storm value each other's friendship.

Sitting on her boyfriend's lap, Kim Amero and Doug Stanely take advantage of lunch time in order to talk and build their relationship.

Aside from going out together, seniors Chris Banks and Suzie Finneran are the best of friends.

"What is the funniest date you have ever been on?"

Senior Kim Gregory remembers: "The funniest date I have ever been on was with a guy who's car made so much noise and as we were driving, the back two tires fell off."

Junior Mike Fairchild says: "I was sitting in my car with my date giving her a good night kiss, when her parents pulled into the drive-way and rear-ended my car."

"How do you feel about girls asking guys out?"

Freshman Brent Lantz says: "I wouldn't mind it at all. In fact, it would probably be better. It would take a lot of pressure off of the guy."

Senior Dave Rice feels: "I think girls should ask guys out if they really like him because then the guy realizes this girl has been checking him out. Overall, I think it would be all right for girls to ask."

Life On The Move

Predicting where you will be and what you will be doing 10 years from now is almost next to impossible, being that the future is so unpredictable. Most underclassmen in high school possess the attitude that "these are the years to have fun," because graduation and college seem a long way off. To a point this outlook is true, but it's also crucial not to take it too seriously or you could risk the chance of spoiling your future before it even gets started. Upperclassmen take school more seriously only because their futures will be affected sooner than others. High school gives you the chance to "prepare" for college and after that, you build your future. If you already know what you want to do with your life, then you have a head start, but there is no way of telling where you'll end up in 10 years. Hopefully, you'll be exactly where you want to be.

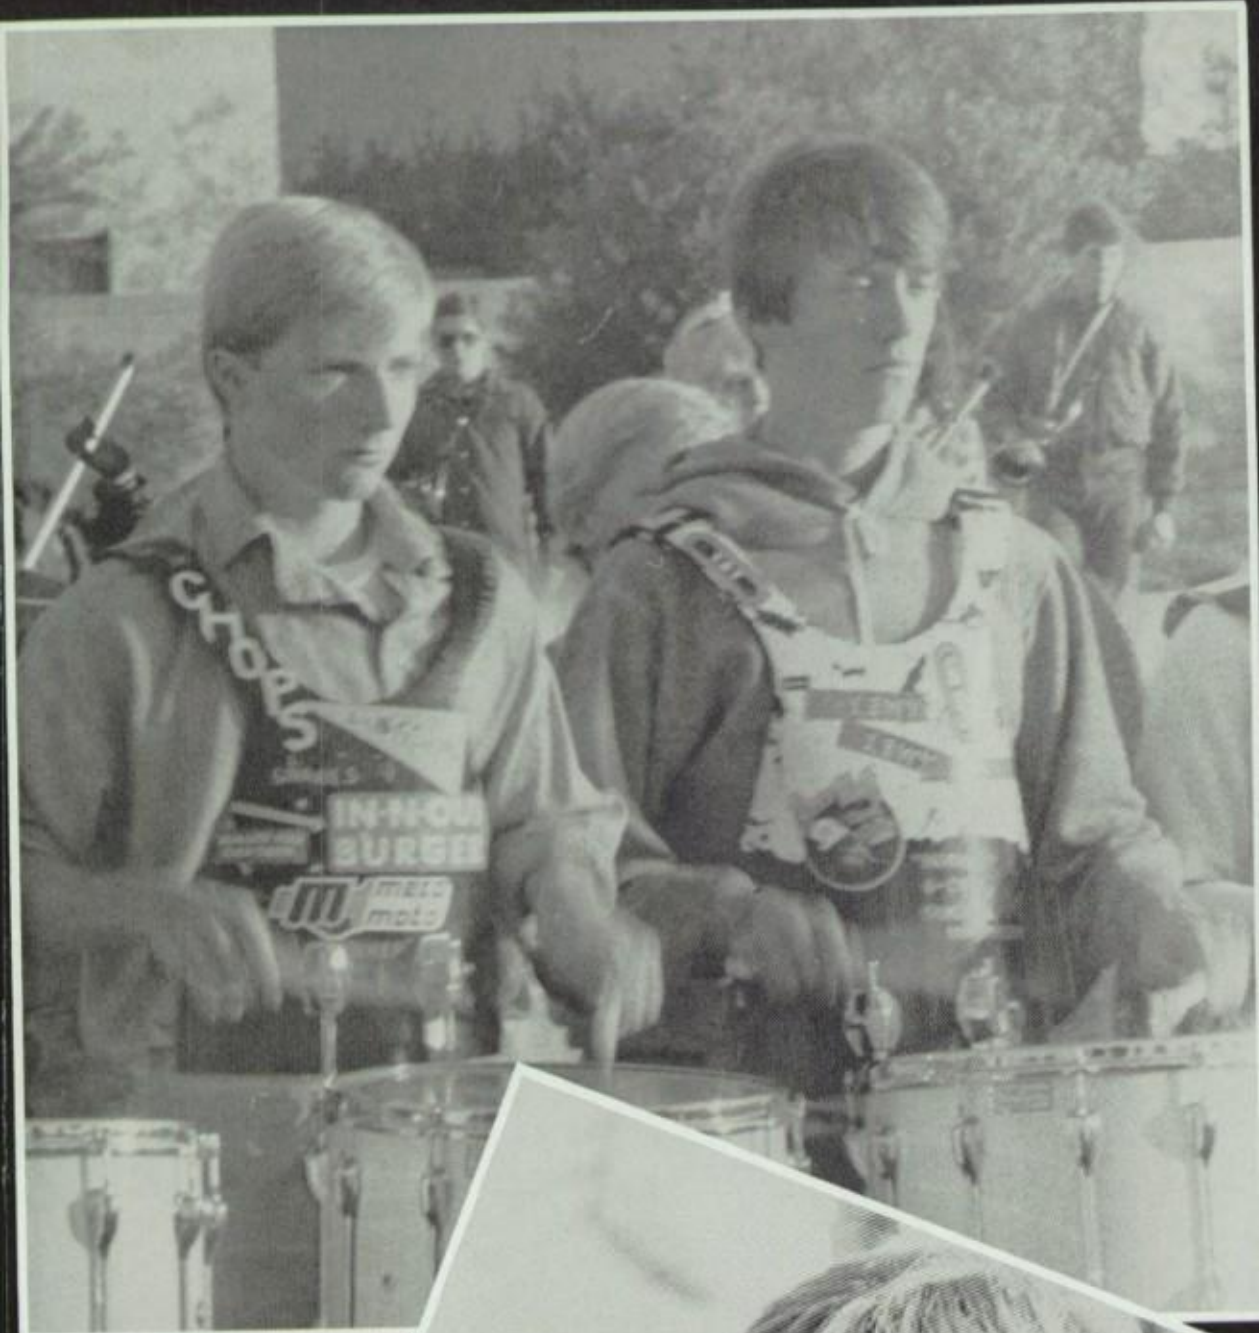

We are definitely proud of our 1984-85 Varsity Water Polo team for having such a sensational season this year. They finished second in the C.I.F. playoffs.

Linh Nguyen might look forward to a career in medicine once he gets out of high school. Or Linh could go into politics because of his involvement with student council.

Tom Atkin doesn't need to think about the future yet, it's only lunch.

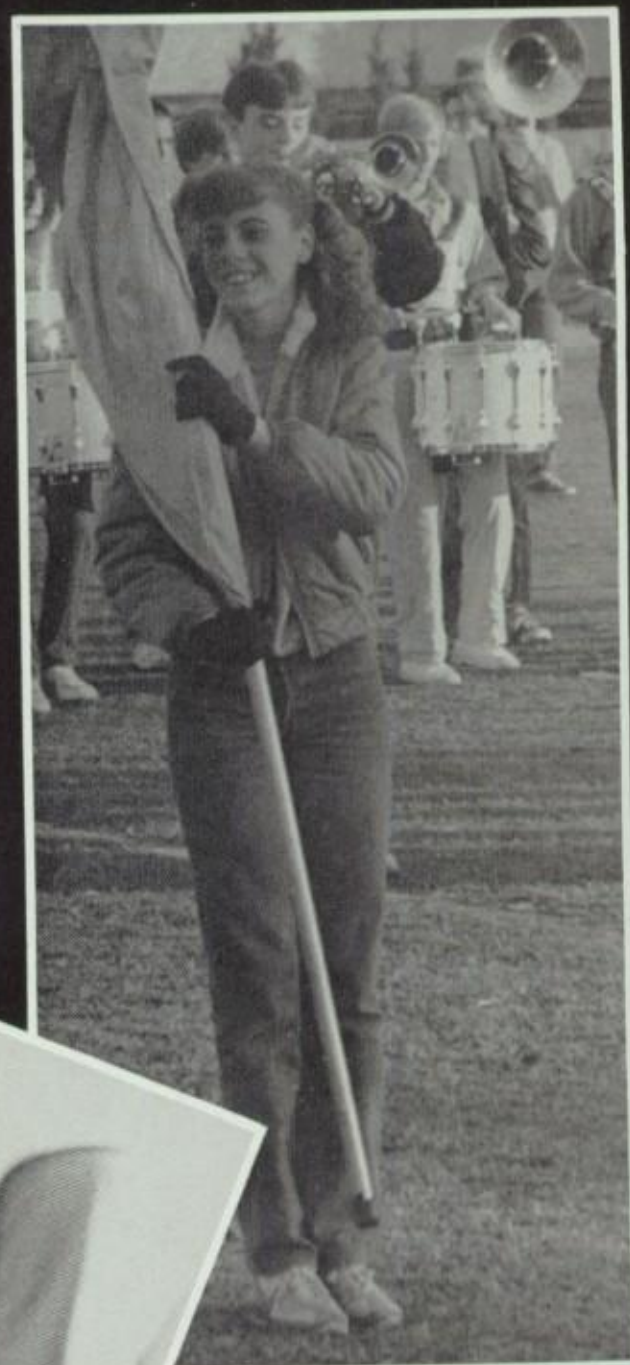

Pat Houston and Bill Shepherd take playing the drums very seriously. Both have been on the drum line for more than two years.

Rich Hughes is still thinking of what he would like to be doing later in life. Rich is a member on the Varsity wrestling team.

Brandi Carrigan practices every morning with the band in order to perfect all her flag routines. Is there a future here for Brandi?

Hold On To Your Dreams

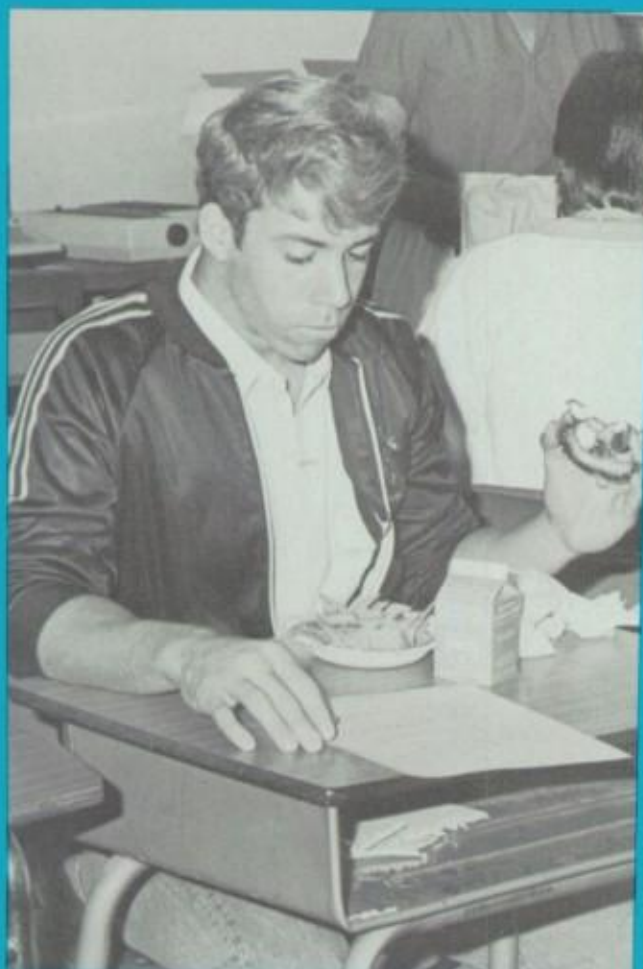

Hold on to your dreams
don't ever give in.
If you keep trying
You're going to win.
Hold on to your dreams,
Though sometimes it's hard
Just hold your head up
And reach for the stars.
Hold on to your dreams
Though they seem faraway.
And those dreams will come true.
Somehow-Someway!

Troy Dean reads an N.H.S. activity questionnaire. He is a member of the soccer team, the football team, and the National Honors Society.

Dedication and determination are two factors that will get Craig Olson through the three-mile race. Craig is also involved with many leadership activities.

Student Artists

Artistic impressions, imagination, and youthful talents are displayed by the students of El Dorado High School. These young talented artists demonstrated their talents through two and three dimensional work. These students have varied specialties from portrait to student life. Certain artists show their artistic ability through the art of poetry. Many of the students hope to make art a profession.

On The Way Up

I'm excited,
Not winning a lot of money excited,
Not going to Disneyland excited,
Not Christmas morning excited
when I watch the time tick away to open all my presents excited,
But excited to graduate with all my special friends and celebrate our last years of high school together,
Excited to go off to college and begin
a different life,
Excited to learn and begin a successful career,
Excited that I'm alive, and well, and want nothing but the best.

Senioritis

I am vegged,
Completely vegged,
Deep down in a coma vegged,
Vegged into a state, near death.
I have sunk too far this time,
I am turning into a turnip.
Both vegetation and vegetable;
I'm putting down roots!
Something tells me its permanent,
I grapple with my subconscious,
I've got to try and make it back,
Deeper and deeper I sink,
The teacher is calling on me,
I have to snap out of it!
The twilight verging on comatose
state,
Drugs could not compare,
I feel and see nothing
I am vegged.

Blindness

The world turns upsidedown
but I do not see
People die
Children cry
but I can not see
Love turns to hate and peace to war
but I will not see
Greed
Pain
Envy
Death
I refuse to see

Are We Having Fun Yet?

The bell rang at 12:15 p.m., the favorite part of the day . . . lunch time. Students always enjoyed lunch for various reasons. There were special quad days for seniors, Big Brother/Little Sister activities, and then class competition. Besides all of the activities students also used the time to socialize and just take a well deserved break.

Even though many went out to lunch to places such as Straw Hat, The Hot Dog Co., and Del Taco there was always something exciting going on back at school. Rarely was there a day without guys and girls chasing, somebody getting in trouble or 200 students running for cover when the seagulls approached.

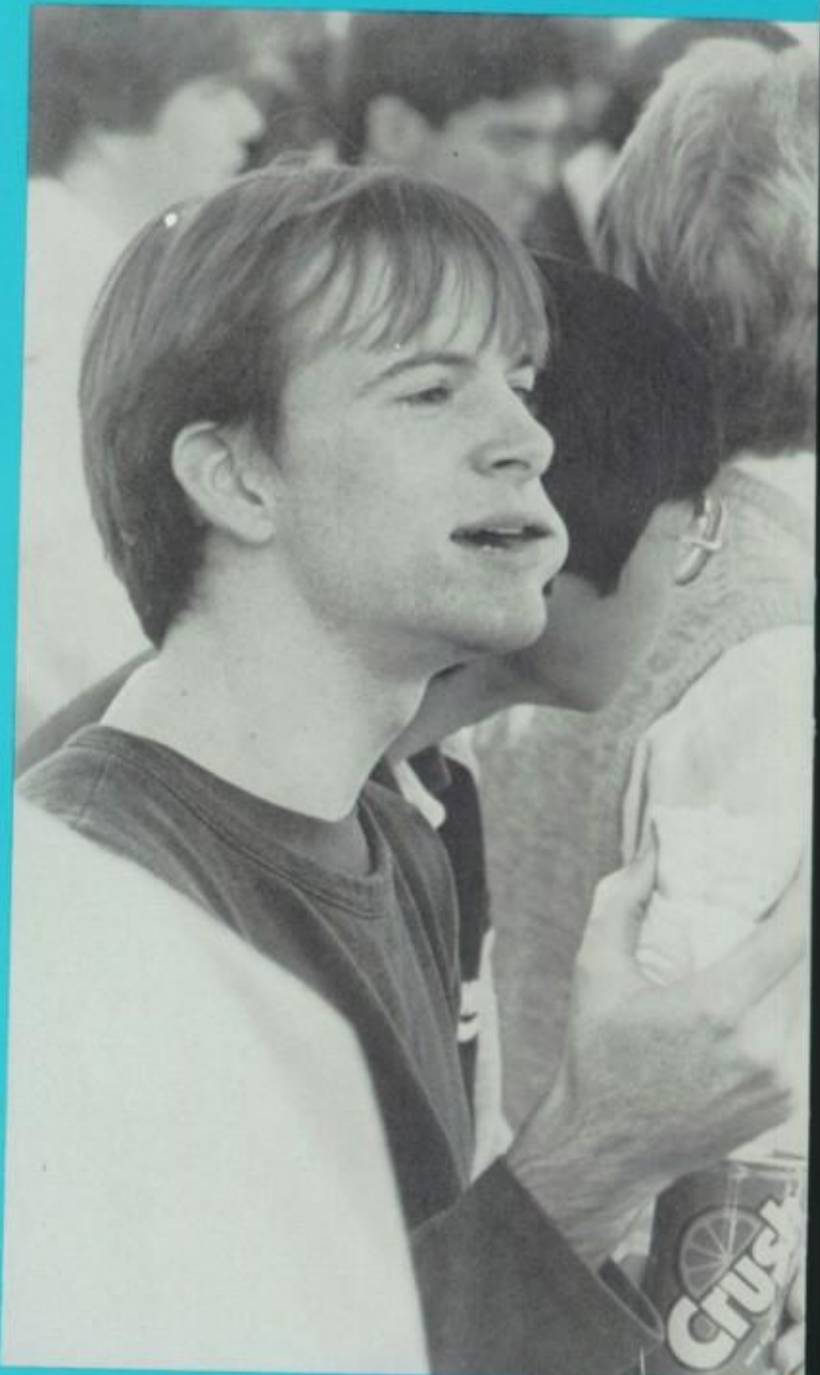

Never the less lunch time will always be the best part of the day.

Traci Cooper flashes a smile while talking to friend Gene Tjoa. Traci was a nominee for Soph. Winter Formal Princess.

Senior Jennifer Jones catches up on homework during lunch. Many students did homework at lunch to leave more free time in the evenings.

Greg Bennett discusses an essay problem with friends. Lunch was often used to casually talk about class projects.

Donna Alexander relaxes with friends at lunch with a bouquet of balloons. Donna was the 1984 Winter Formal Queen.

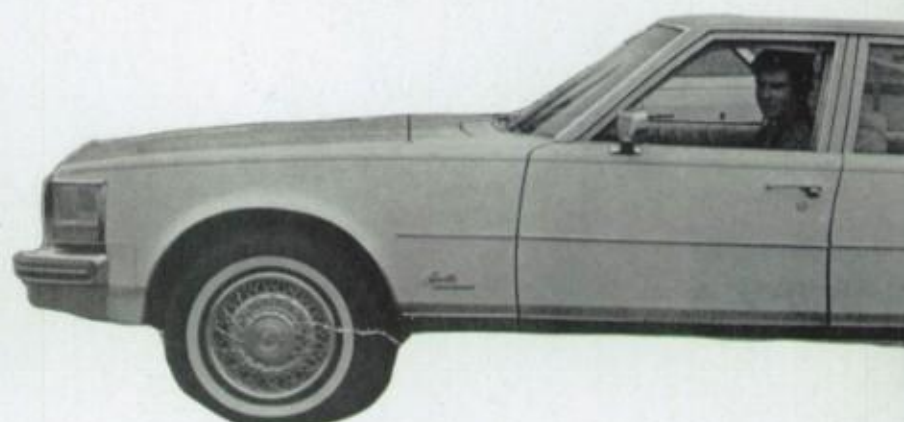

Craig Tillman tries to talk to friend John Setterlund while John seems more interested in something in the Senior Quad. There was always something to attract attention around the campus.

Kyle Iwanaga doesn't seem too excited about his friends new wrestling technique. Sports was a popular subject at lunch.

If You Don't Like The Way I Drive . . .

A car is probably the most "in" thing to have and most necessary these days. One of a freshmen's dreams is to have and own a car. Many of the kids that own cars have either worked for them, received them as birthday or Christmas presents, or they were lucky enough to have parents with a generous pocket-book. Larry Russel got his car as a Christmas present. "I like my car because it's blue, and it gets me where I wanna go", he said. Tim Nelson worked for three years in an auto shop for his car. He said that he likes to take his Bronco out and play in the mud with it. "I go anywhere possible", he replied. Here are a few cars we found in our El Dorado parking lot...

Renee McKean with a friend's car, waits to go out to lunch.

Junior, Larry Duke leaves the senior parking area. Seniors had to have a senior parking permit to park in the front.

Joking around, Chris Saito tells us he got his car as a present, because he's such a great guy.

Kim Arnold says, "I like my car because it's fun, and it's gotcha green!"

Time To Face

The Strange

It's early, there's lots of time hand goes in the direction of a pair of sweats and tennis shoes then quickly draws back. Once again it reaches out towards a pair of jeans and a jeans jacket, no, how about that big sweater over a tee T-shirt? Well, maybe that fluorescent outfit could draw some attention. Moving on to the Heavy Metal look, the hand grasps for the leather jacket, concert T-shirt, and leather boots, only to be delayed by the expensive G.Q. sweatshirt in front of
it. A belt falls on the floor and the hand picks it up to put it with the other large belts with different buckles that fit loosely around the waist. There's no time, I'm late for school. I don't know what to wear

Changes

Tuxedos were a common sight on campus near formal season. Rick Hawkins and many others wore tuxes to school in order to advertise for a tux shop.

Heavy Metaler, Giselle Pfitzner, wears the latest in the Heavy Metal look. Leather jackets were a necessity to make the outfit complete.

Layered socks and nylons were an important accessory to the many 1984-85 fashions.

G.O. shirts and large V-neck sweaters were among the popular girls fashions.

Wearing the popular guys fashions, Jason Bell manages to look nice yet comfortable.

Short hair is still a favorite. The new style in short hair this year was the A-line cut with or without a perm.

Focusing On The News

Baby Fae became nationally known when she was the fifth human and first infant to receive a cross-species heart transplant. When Baby Fae was born on October 14, it was discovered that she had hypoplastic left heart syndrome. This occurs when the left side of the heart is underdeveloped. Less than two weeks later, Baby Fae's heart was transplanted with the heart of a 7 month-old baboon at the Loma Linda University Medical Center. Baby Fae died on November 15 after living an unprecedented three weeks with the heart of a baboon. The infant's real name and those of her parents were never revealed by the hospital during her struggle for life, although it was reported that Fae was her middle name. Animal rights activists became outraged at the use of the baboon heart in the transplant because they did not believe that an animal should have to be sacrificed to save the life of an infant.

For a few years, the African continent, in particular Ethiopia, has been hit by a devastating drought which has led to a famine. Unfortunately, in many cases, the cries of the people for help have gone unanswered. The catalyst to public awareness came when the dramatic film footage shot by a BBC team was aired in the United States by NBC. This caused increased donations to Ethiopia by private citizens. In addition, the United States government added $10 million in aid to Ethiopia. It has been estimated that the death toll in Ethiopia alone may reach 900,000 by the end of the year.

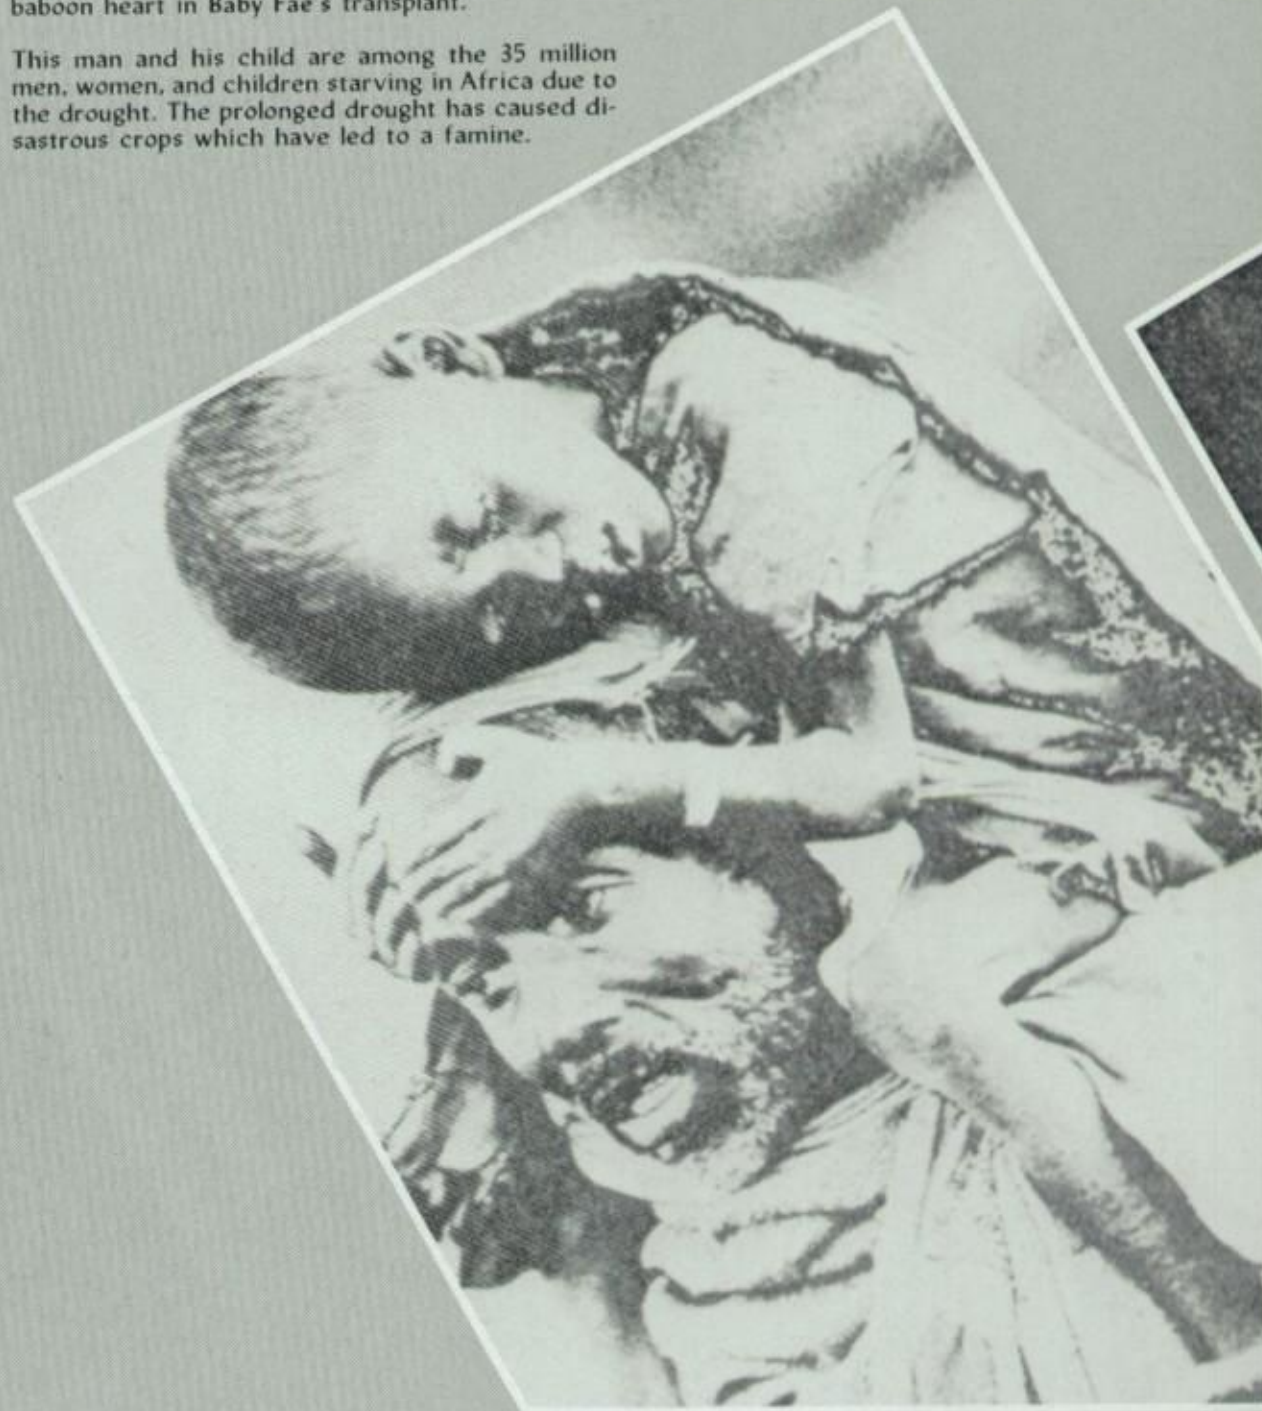

The 1984 Presidential election will be remembered for years to come because for the first time in the history of the United States, a woman ran for the office of Vice President. The woman was Geraldine Ferraro, a congresswoman from New York. Walter Mondale, the Democratic candidate, chose Ferraro as his running mate after considering other women for the job. The running mate of the Republican incumbent, Ronald Reagan, was Vice President George Bush. The Democratic convention took place in San Francisco, and the Republican convention was held in Dallas. The campaign included televised debates between Ferraro and Bush and between Mondale and Reagan. Some of the important issues of the campaign were taxes, nuclear weapons, abortion, and prayer in public schools. As the day of the election approached, the polls showed that Reagan was considerably ahead. As predicted, Reagan beat Mondale in the election. Mondale only won the popular vote in Minnesota, his home state, and Washington, D.C.

Numerous musical tours highlighted the year. The Jackson's Victory tour was billed by promoters as the tour of the century. However, the tour got off to a rocky start when problems arose with ticket distribution. Jackson fans were upset when they learned that tickets would sell for $30 apiece and only in sets of four. The Jacksons played their last shows at the Dodger Stadium.

Bruce Springsteen's tour, Born in the U.S.A., was unique because of the unusually long concerts. One of Springsteen's concerts at the Los Angeles Sports Arena was four hours long. Doug Frate attended the concert and commented, "Springsteen is a great performer, and the whole crowd got into the show."

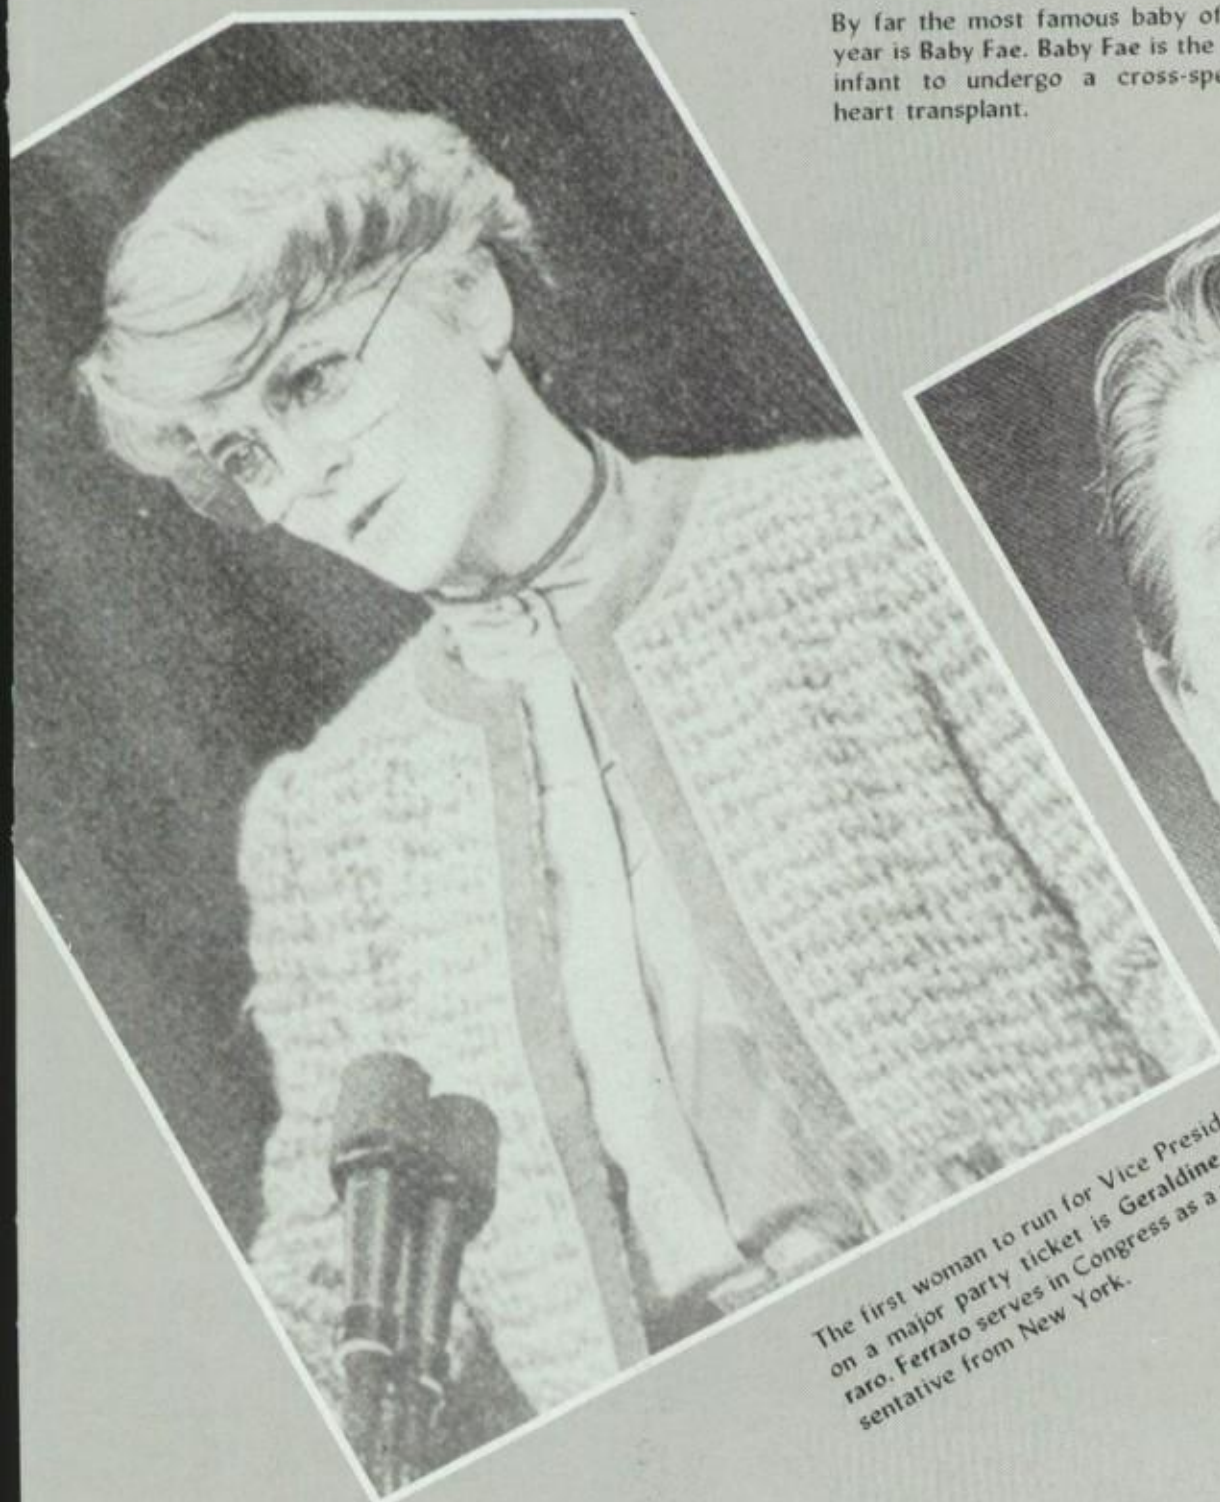

Animal-rights activists picket the Loma Linda University Medical Center in protest of the use of the baboon heart in Baby Fae's transplant.

This man and his child are among the 35 million men, women, and children starving in Africa due to the drought. The prolonged drought has caused disastrous crops which have led to a famine.

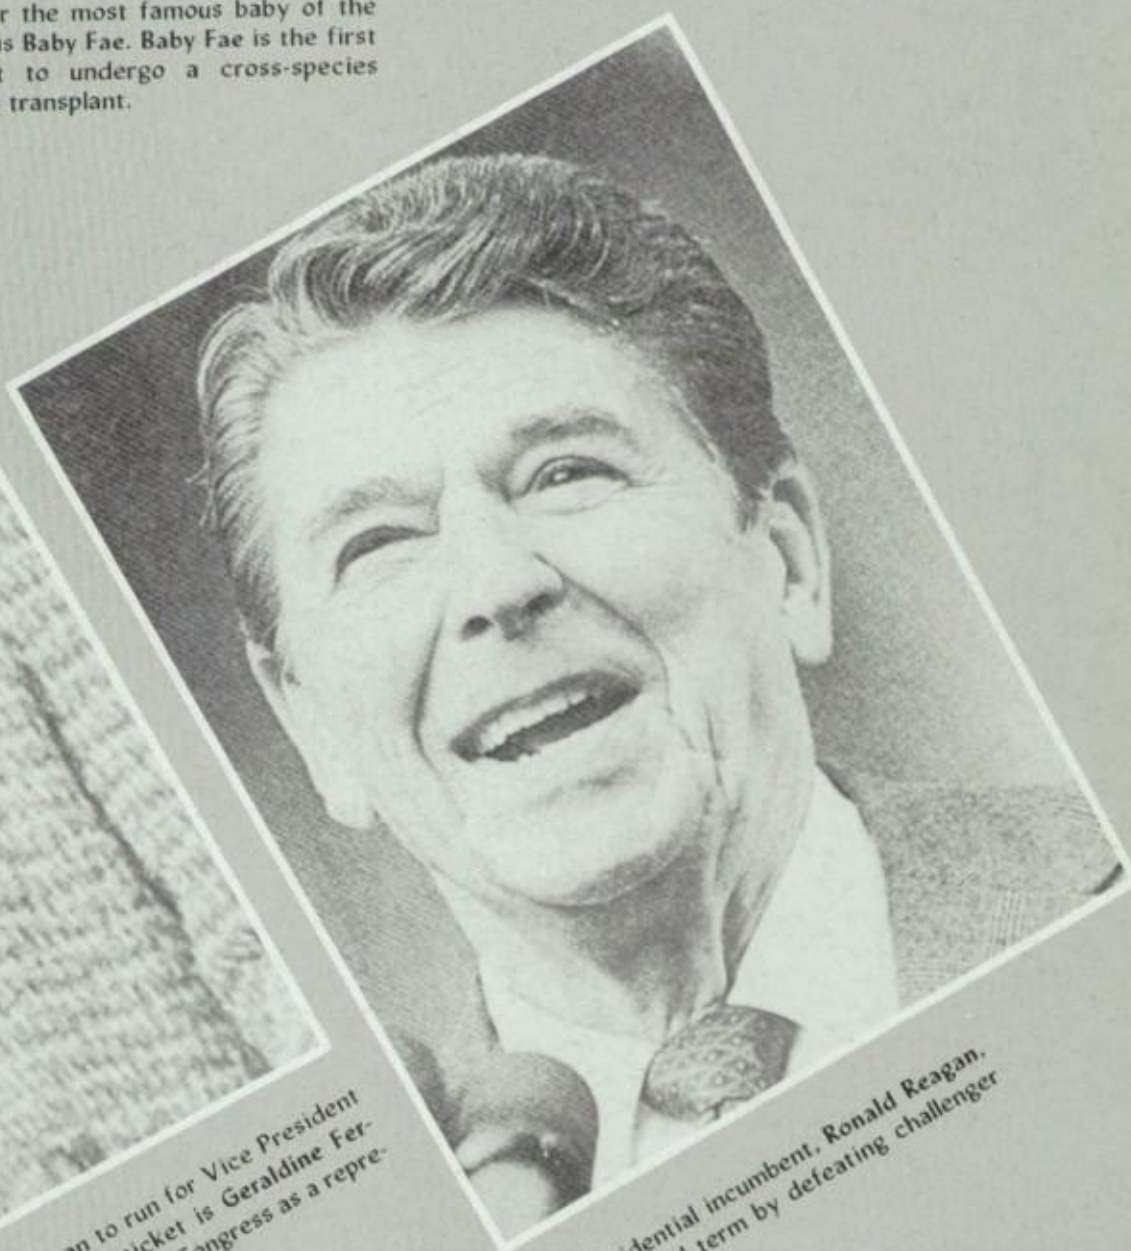

By far the most famous baby of the year is Baby Fae. Baby Fae is the first infant to undergo a cross-species heart transplant.

The first woman to run for Vice President on a major party ticket is Geraldine Ferraro. Ferraro serves in Congress as a representative from New York.

The Presidential incumbent, Ronald Reagan, won a second term by defeating challenger Walter Mondale.

Changing Seasons

Held at the Plaza de Cafes in Newport Beach for the third year in a row, the Winter Formal provided one more occasion for dress up and eat out. Yearbook put on the dance that over 500 students attended.

The music was provided by the band, "Head First," who were innovative and played songs by different popular groups. "I had a good time," commented sophomore Meredith Cline, "dressing up and limousines are alot of fun!"

The band, "Head First," plays another song for the many couples to dance to.

"Changing Seasons," the Winter Formal theme, reflected the many things that were different during the 84-85 school year.

Acting crazy, Jeff Petredes, Doug Sipple, Jim Buck and Todd Holt dance circles around everyone while having loads of fun.

Through the entire evening, students laughed, danced and had fun with dates and friends.

It's About Time!

The crowds cheered, screamed, and sang along when the students of El Dorado were visited by rock groups and musicians including The Beach Boys, Van Halen, U2, The Time, Cyndi Lauper, Simon and Garfunkel, Elvis, Danny and the Juniors, The B-52's, Rush, and Iron Maiden. But these groups weren't the real thing. They were airbands consisting of El Dorado students. Throughout the week, different bands played at lunch and the finalists were to compete Friday night at 7:00 followed by a dance. Each group was judged on appearance, originality, performance, and the crowds reaction. Friday night arrived and the competition was tough making it hard for the judges to pick a winner. The final moment came with U2 claiming third place and $25, Danny and the Juniors won second place and $50, and The Time won first place and $75.

Singing to the audience is Scott Fairfield portraying Elvis. Scott is an avid Elvis fan.

Performing a song from his favorite band is Rich Howerth. The band, U2, took third place with the songs "Sunday Bloody Sunday" and "Pride in the Name of Love".

The members of the second place band are Phil Middleton, Mike Connor, Steve Beard, Troy Dean, and Jason Sweet. The band used dance steps from the twist, the jitterbug, and the hop in their routine.

Portraying Cyndi Lauper is Kim Lewis. Kim was in an airband competition at Confetti's and plans to go on "Puttin' on the Hits".

Getting involved, this all-senior group sings "Song for a Future Generation" by the B52's. The B52's made it into the finals.

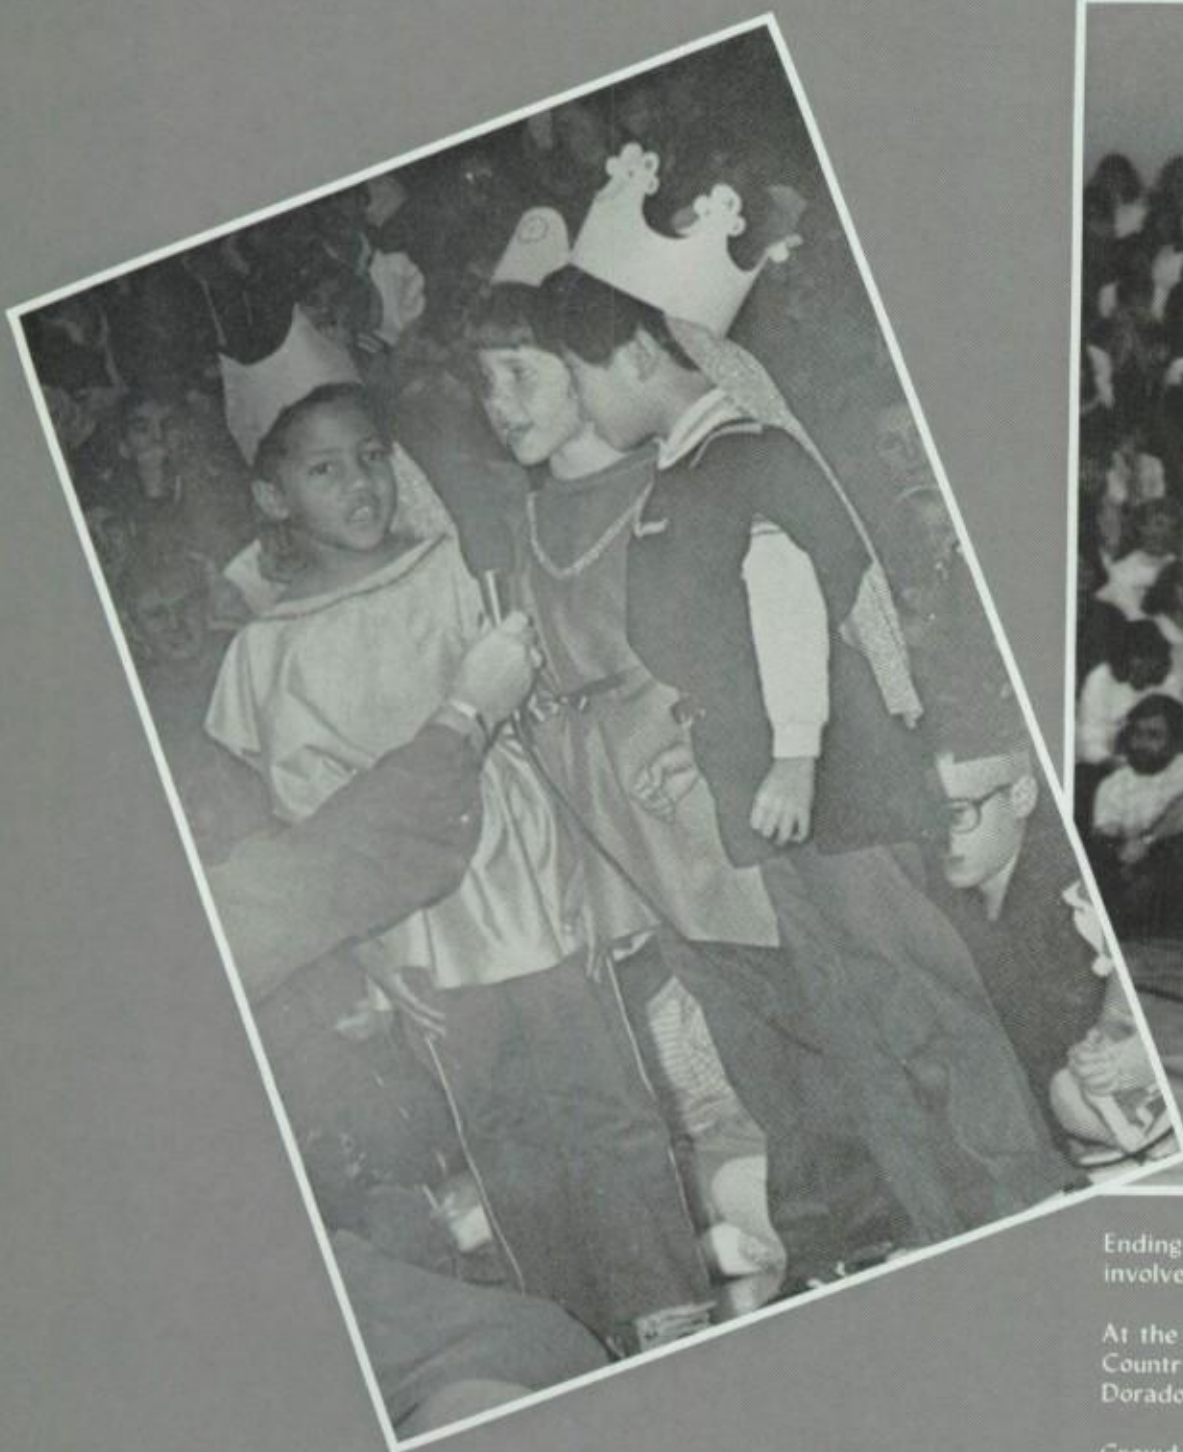

Damon Cooke demonstrates "the bird". The Time plans to go on "Puttin' on the Hits".

"I pledge allegiance to The Time". The Time consists of Damon Cooke, William Wright, Rob Carrington, and not shown are Mondo Fonseca and Jamie Braam. The group practiced every day for two weeks.

Assemblies are a traditional activity at El Dorado. They are held at different times of the year for different reasons. There are pep assemblies, an annual Christmas assembly, slide show and guest speaker assemblies, a student government elections assembly, class competition lunch assemblies and assemblies for Homecoming, Winter Formal and Prom. "The Homecoming Assembly was very special to me because I escorted King Nominee Roger Behle, stated Lori Lebo. Assemblies are also held to inform students of upcoming events and to honor outstanding athletes and scholars. Glenn Greenberg is one who doesn't like "boring" assemblies. "I like the class competitions especially when the people get out their and dance", commented Glenn. Craig Olson and Beth Rosipajla dancing to disco vs. Gene Tjoa, Scott Fairfield, Chris Saito, and Rusty Moore creating their own style of reggae was one of the assemblies enjoyed most by the school. That was just part of the famous Christmas Assembly. Among other events that took place at that assembly was singing not only from our school choir but also from the children from Town and Country preschool. Not to be forgotten was the ever so popular visit from everyone's favorite Santa Claus, Mr. Woy. Announcing all the assemblies was Commissioner of Pep, Libby Kingseed. "Everyone was always in a great mood, and that made me feel really comfortable out there. I really had fun", stated Libby.

The Crowd Goes Wild!

Ending an assembly with the Alma Mater, a group of juniors enthusiastically get involved.

At the Christmas Assembly, we heard the "Three Wise Men" from town and Country preschool sing a Christmas carol. One of the favorite pasttimes at El Dorado is hearing the little kids sing.

Crowd pleasers Doug Sipple, Jeff Petredes and Jim Buck perform one of their sexy routines.

At a lunch assembly, Mr. Bowman gets a pie in the face. Students with the highest bid got to do the honors.

"A Star is Born" thinks this enthusiastically youngster from Town and Country preschool.

Creating his own "Reggae" Christmas is Gene Tjoa. His band competed against other classes in a class competition.

Santa Claus Mr. Woy, not Superman! Mr. Woy is highly favored among the student body because he is so easy going and cheerful.

Perfection describes Cliff Alvarez's portrayal of rock star Prince. The bands performance definately made the crowd "Go Crazy."

A Country Jamboree!

The tradition of Sadie Hawkins at El Dorado is still going strong. This year Sadie Hawkins was a big success with 125 couples attending. The theme of this "girl ask guy" dance was A Country Jamboree. "I liked the dance because I didn't have to do the asking", stated Brian Galvin whose date was Amie Diamond. "We really had fun."

Sponsored by NHS, Sadie Hawkins is one of their major fund raisers for the year. Members of NHS headed different committees such as tickets, decorations, publicity and activity booths. The booths were then run by the different clubs on campus which sponsored them. "Hiring a DJ, a photographer, and organizing the decorations committee with Doris Endo were some of the things I was in charge of", commented President of NHS Jennifer Shecter. Attending the dance with her boyfriend Brian, Karen Robert said, "Brian and I really had a great time together at the dance."

A Band In A Foreign Land

Directing a band or an ensemble can be a difficult and sometimes frustrating job, but for Mr. Watson, the hard work and dedication brought him and the groups the highest ratings possible.

Concert Band is the nucleus for next years marching band and the future Wind Ensemble. The group did outstanding at Festival this year and walked away with all superior ratings.

The Wind Ensemble is made up of the top musicians at our school and they performed at the highest level possible at Festival, where they played classical band literature and were judged, or adjudicated, on how well they played the piece.

Jazz Ensemble (not pictured) is a revived group back on campus after a couple years lay off. "They made a lot of positive strides in the field of jazz music", said Mr. Watson.

These groups traveled to San Diego on May 17 to compete at another Festival in which all rated superior, as usual, in the ultimate form of competition.

Sigrid Ruby stayed with the Hicks family while she visited California. All the way from West Germany, Sigrid will return in April.

Claudia Heydenreich was impressed with the mountains she got to see in California. She returns to Germany April 22 and will miss all her friends she has made here.

Claudia Gross from Germany would like to come back to California again, but doesn't know if she wants to move and stay here permanently.

Astrid Andersen, from Denmark really enjoyed the people, the weather, and our school. She will return to her family, whom she misses very much, on July 5.

Disneyland was one of the fun places Paul D'Alo visited during his stay from Italy. Here, Paul and good friend Missy Crippen play around with Pluto.

What do Astrid Andersen, Paul D'Alo, Claudia Gross, Claudia Heydenreich, and Sigrid Ruby have in common? All five of these outgoing individuals were foreign exchange students who visited California for a short time this year. Their visits may have been short, but their memories will last a lifetime.

Astrid Andersen is from Denmark, a little country she thinks everyone should go and visit. She returned the 5th of July and will miss "the most beautiful and friendly family in California, Mr. and Mrs. Black and their two nice children Carrie and Spencer." Astrid hopes to come back and visit all her friends and family and travel around in all America.

Claudia Gross came from Germany and lived with the Bakken family. Claudia enjoyed the beach, the sunshine, the people, the school, Disneyland, Knotts Berry Farm, and Universal Studios and will miss all the people she has made friends with.

Sigrid Ruby is from a little town at the border of the Rhine River in West Germany. She stayed with the Hicks family and developed friendships with many people. "In Germany, we don't have as many social activities and we have a different schedule every day which is interesting." Sigrid enjoyed the weather, the people, the sports activities and the frozen yogurt shops.

All the way from Italy came Paul D'Alo who stayed with the Flanagan family. "One of the most evident changes I've been through during my stay was the way I perceive people and things." Paul returned to Italy the last week of June and he "already knows I will miss many many of the friends I've made here because of the beautiful relationships I have with them."

Claudia Heydenreich traveled from Germany to stay with the Utter family. Claudia enjoyed "the beaches, the weather, the people, and to see the mountains." She returned to Germany April 22 but is "thinking of coming back when I have money and time. Then I'll stay longer."

Head And Shoulders Above The Rest

Just take a look around you as you walk the campus, and you will see some people who have made contributions to the school and community and who have been successful in their undertakings. These people are considered winners because of their determination and accomplishments.

One such person is Rob Ramos. Rob served as ASB President this year. He was also named Senior of the Month for January. As point guard on the basketball team, Rob was awarded the 110% Hustle award by Coach Conley. In addition, he was selected to the all-tournament team of the Garden Grove Basketball Tournament. Rob has been accepted at USC and will attend school there in the fall. He stated, "A winner has a desire to do something and makes a commitment to it."

Karen Robert was named Pepster of the Year for her contributions to the pepsters. This year Karen was the head of the pepsters and represented them on student council. Karen was also named Senior of the Month for December. She is on the yearbook staff and is also a member of NHS and CSF. Karen commented, "I believe dedication, confidence, and a willingness to try are characteristics of a winner."

One of Dana Madsen's accomplishments is his 4.0 GPA obtained while taking such classes as chemistry, physics, trigonometry, and honors English. Dana is a member of Air Force ROTC and has been offered a full scholarship to the Air Force Academy. Last summer Dana participated in the Air Force Academy Summer Scientific Seminar. He attended seminars in the area of science. Dana believes that personal attributes such as honesty and compassion make a person a winner.

Brooke Wilkes' talent is singing. The gym was packed for a school concert she gave during lunch. At fourteen, Brooke is a professional who has been performing since the age of three. While living in Alaska, she opened for the Pointer Sisters and Doc Severinsen. She received airplay in Alaska and was also featured on television. In addition, Brooke holds the Teen Talent Alaska Award and opened the Miss Alaska Pageant. Locally, Brooke has performed at Madame Won's West in Santa Monica. Most recently she was one of the four finalists selected by Star Search in a nationwide talent hunt out of thousands of young artists.

Jennifer Shecter was the recipient of the Soroptimist Youth Citizenship Award. This award was presented to a senior in the area who demonstrated good citizenship. Jennifer was also the recipient of the UCLA alumni scholarship. She was accepted at UCLA and plans to attend there in the fall. "Determination, dedication, and keeping an open mind make a person a winner," state Jennifer.

Bill Moore was another winner among us. Bill has been in AFSROTC for four years. He was the outstanding cadet for two years and also won the Air Force Association medal. He has been accepted to West Point where he will go next fall. Bill's personal goal is to become a general officer in the U.S. army and serve his country to the best of his ability. Colonel Tussey, Coach Morales, and Coach Jacobs have made a tremendous difference in Bill's life. "A winner is someone who has pride in what he is doing and is constantly doing something to improve himself," said Bill.

The Academic Lettermen program was started this year to reward students who achieve academic success. To receive a letter, a student must obtain twenty points. Points are obtained through participating in academic competitions involving other schools. Examples of competitions counting towards an academic letter are mock trial, Academic Decathlon, and the American Chemical Society competition. According to Mr. Disbennett, "The academic letter is a chance for a person to get a letter for a competition which is academic rather than athletic." The first year Academic Lettermen were James Chow, Cathy Powers, Susan Sweet, James Tamura, Eugene Martinet, and Steve Skell.

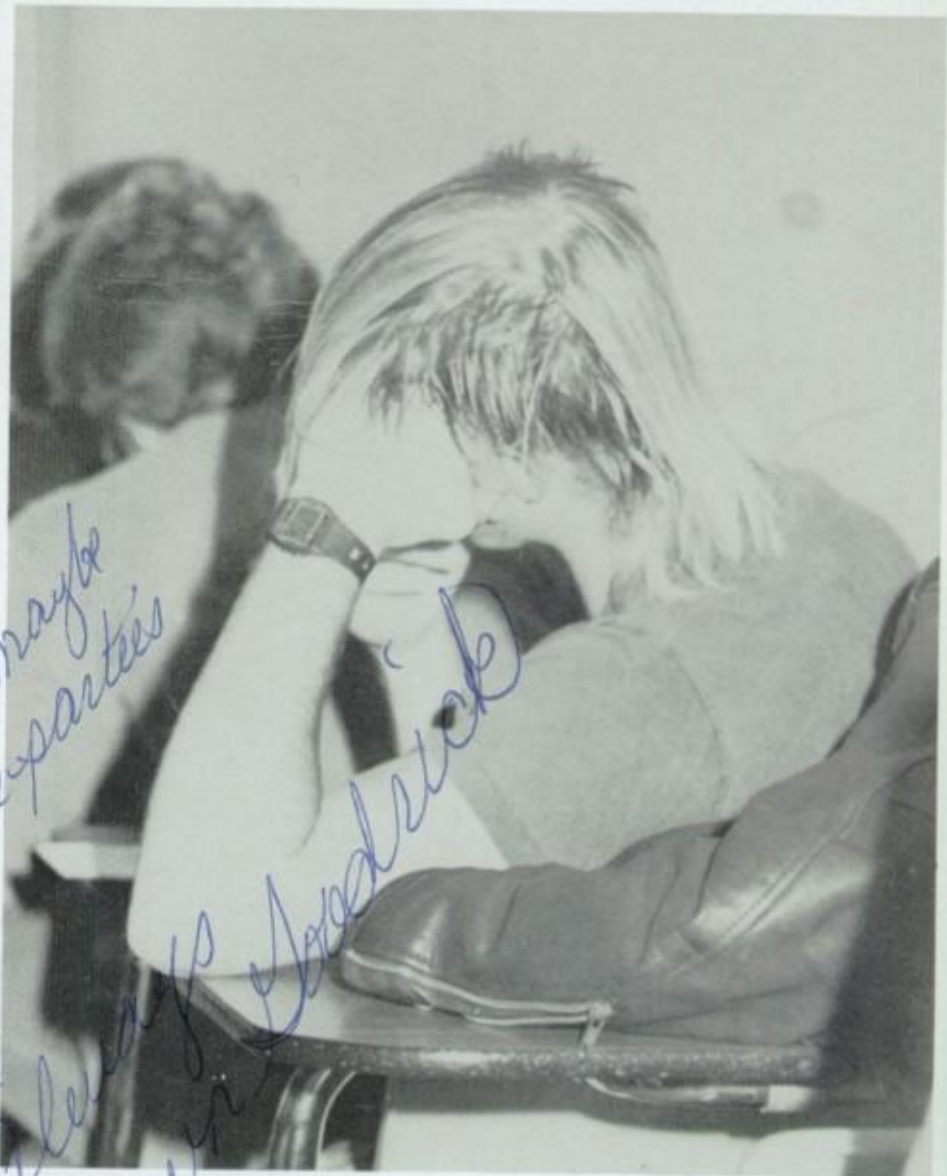

John Mykkanen, a 1984 graduate, participated in the 1984 Summer Olympics in Los Angeles. John won a silver medal in the 400 meter freestyle with a time of 3:51.49. John was the youngest member of the United States' men's Olympic swim team, being only seventeen. In addition, John set an American record of 7:58.24 in the 800 meter freestyle. John ranks as the third fastest high schooler in history with his 1983 time of 4:19.46 in the 500 yard freestyle, his personal record. John wishes to thank all of the teachers and students for their support.

The El Dorado Ailment

The year before caught it, the year after will catch it, and the 1985 Senior Class didn't escape it. What is it? Senior-itis, of course. The malady at El Dorado has grown, as it has at every other high school, but that is not always bad. When senior-itis hits it starts to work on your brain, effecting the social part of your life. From there it goes to work on the physical part of your life, changing the iron in your blood to lead in your buns. Last of all, it sets you up for a rude awakening to the real world outside of high school. For most people, senior-itis is just something of an excuse for laziness, but watch out. This ailment, most likely, will continue to plague students for years to come.

The Agony Of Defeat

It was a long, hard struggle for varsity football. After hours and hours of exhausting, hot summer practices, the Hawks pulled together to show team spirit and determination. The team put alot of hard work into this year and despite having a record of two wins and five losses, they still had what it takes to be true winners. "The team was close and we all believe that we should have had a much better record," commented senior linebacker Scott Fairfield. "The only thing we lacked was enthusiasm throughout the entire game."

Hawk Pride Shines Through

The Hawks were led by head coach Carl Sweet. The team felt the coaching staff did an excellent job. "Mr. Sweet was very organized," commented quarterback Frank Ricco. "He knew how to coach a football team and how to handle players." Other coaches were Joe Jacobs, Steve Leavitt, and Jeff Reitz. "The coaching staff did a really good job this year," stated junior Jeff Petredes. "The entire team felt that we were capable of having a better record. We just didn't execute as a team at the right place and in the right time."

The members of the team that made all-league were linebacker Scott Fairfield and runningback Todd Holt. These two made first team. All-league second team were offensive tackle Jeff Petredes, linebacker Doug Sipple, and defensive end Scott Shultz.

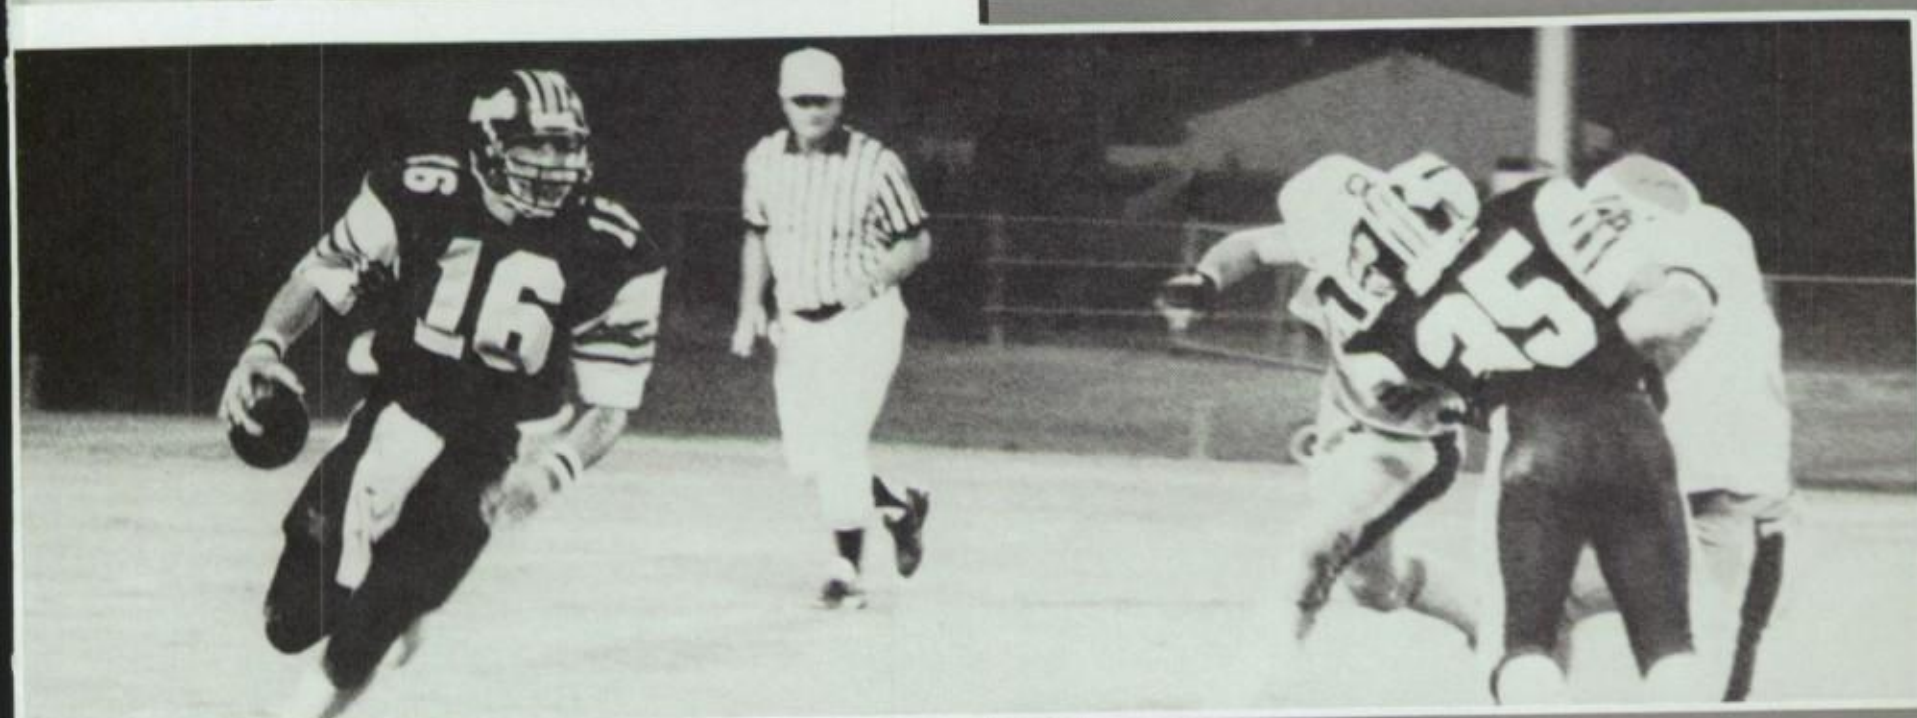

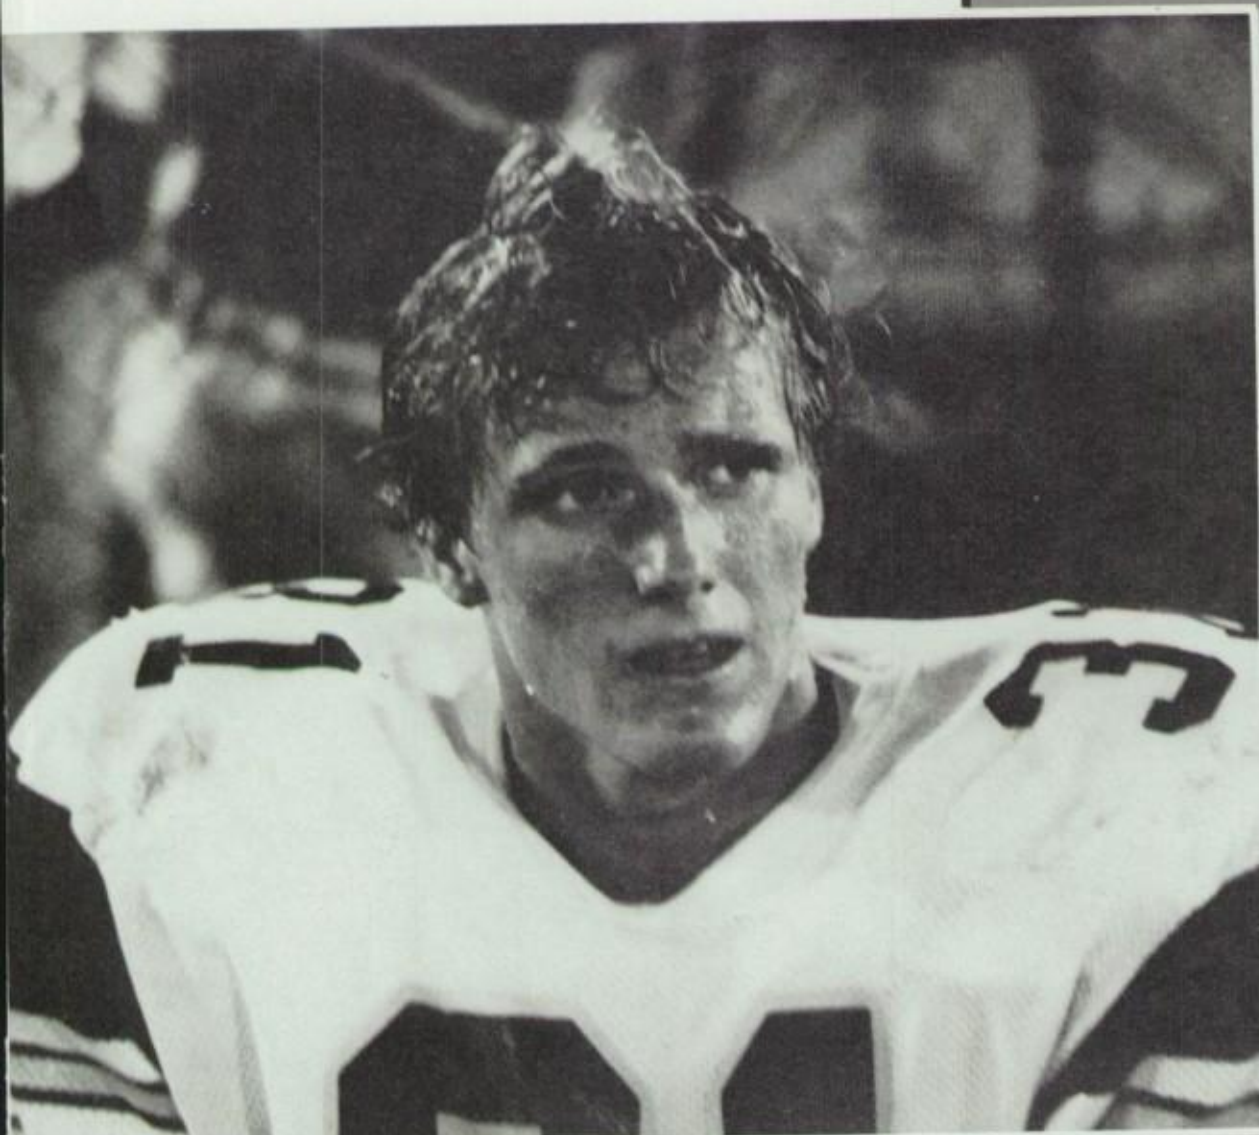

"Come on ref, that's not the right call!" thinks Coach Carl Sweet as he looks onto the field with amazement.

Dedication And Determination At It's Finest

Finishing the season with a record of six wins and three losses, the Sophomore football team displayed great talent. Hard work, practice, dedication and a great coaching staff helped earn a 4th place position in the Empire League. "We had a good team but other teams were just better," stated Glen Greenberg. Defensive Player of the year. Heading the team through the season was head coach Terry Conley. Helping Coach Conley were defensive coordinator Scott Orloff and offensive back coordinator Dave Pinckney. "The coaches did an excellent job. They worked well with each person individually and with the team as a whole." Quarterback Doug Yates commented. Rick Bowen, Doug Yates and Mike O'Higgins. "We could have done better. We just had to reduce the number of our mistakes," replied fullback Todd Wunsch.

Freshmen Maintain The Winning Spirit

The Freshmen football team once again finished their season with an outstanding record. Tied for 1st place in the Empire League, the Freshmen won eight of their nine games. Besides a lot of hard work and practice, the coaching staff played a major role in the Freshmen's winning season. "They made us want to win because of their positive attitudes," commented wide receiver John Cribari. The team was led by head coach Steve Gullotti. Coach Gullotti had help from Frank Gonzales, who was the offensive and defensive line coordinator, while Mark Foy was the defensive back and wide receiver coordinator. "All of the coaches were great! They really got close to the team," stated wide receiver Chris Fascione. Being only Freshmen, these players have three more years to continue to play football. When asked what he was most looking forward to, Steve Caron, fullback, replied, "I'm looking forward to playing CIF football when I'm on Varsity."

"We practiced a lot, played tough, and it paid off," replied Joan Pesi about the Girls Varsity Volleyball team. The team placed 3rd in league and made it to the first round of CIF playoffs.

The team participated in a summer league to gain experience and give them an extra advantage over their opponents.

Two of the girls on the team were chosen for the All Empire League team. They were senior Shelley Gallagher and junior Jill Matyuch. Both girls were returning varsity starters.

"The turning point in our season was in the second round of league, when we lost to Esperanza by only four points," said senior Holly Piper.

"Overall the season went smoothly because the team got along great and played well together," replied Shelley Gallagher.

Unity Brings Victory

"All for one and one for all. On the volleyball court, we're the six musketeers. We played with a team concept not individuals doing their own thing," said Co-Captain Sherri Orr. This resulted in a 9-5 season and a second place finish in league.

At the beginning of every game, however, it took awhile for all to start playing as one. "We were a comeback team," said Wendi Malone. "Not until we found ourselves behind in the second game after having already lost the first did we pull ourselves together."

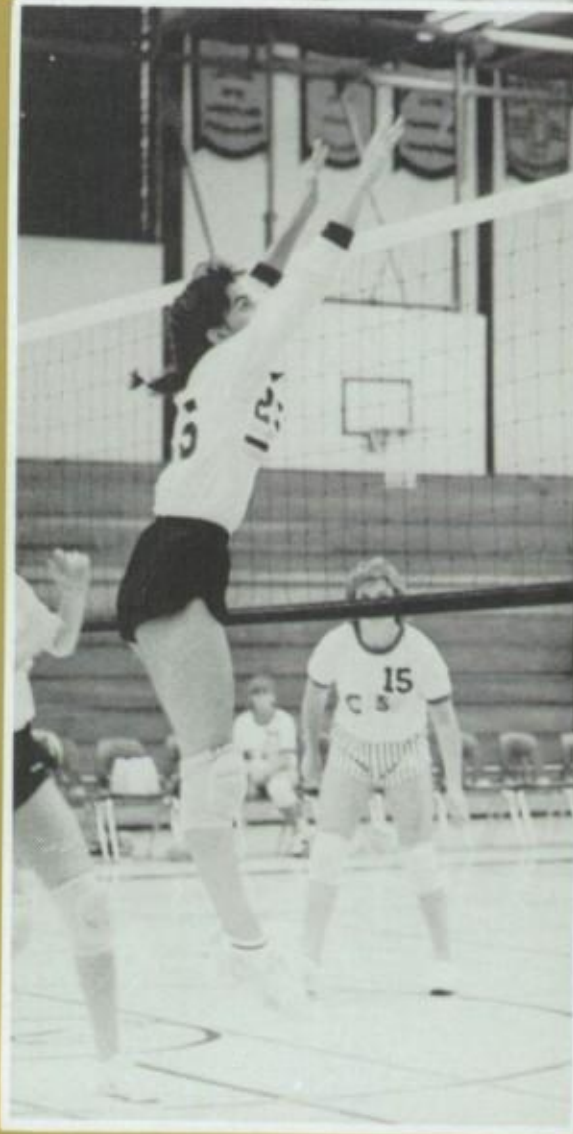

The peak of the year came in the mid-season Los Amigos Tournament. "That is when we played our best," said Tammy Harris. The team won 4 games, lost 2, missing the playoffs by three points.

Sherri, Wendi, and Tammy all felt "The season was fun, we learned a lot and it was a great preparation for Varsity."

Frosh/Soph Struggle Through

Success. Something that has to be measured by oneself. Although the Freshmen team only managed six victories, the season had positive aspects.

"We improved our skills," said Gina Susaeta, most valuable player of the team. "We did better as the season progressed and got to know each other better."

"Everybody got a chance to play, making the game fun," said Shari Anderson. Improvement comes with playing time. Playing gives one a feel for the game and its pressures.

The morale of the team was never hindered by their record. It is easy to start pointing fingers during a losing season. The Frosh-Soph players realized blaming each other for losses only creates a longer season. "We never had that problem, the team got along," commented Shari Anderson.

Meredith Cline said, "I had higher expectations at the start of the year but I feel the season was a good learning experience."

They're Champions Anyway

The winning tradition continued as water polo were the Empire League champions and were ranked number one in C.I.F. the entire season. They made it to the C.I.F. finals but were upset in overtime. They finished with a record of 21 wins and 7 losses.

The varsity team had six seniors who provided leadership for the younger players. Chris Ames, John Bell, David Evans, Rick Hawkins, John Kwilman, and Steve Walker and though they didn't win it all they felt it was all still worth it. "The season was fulfilling and we accomplished everything but one goal," stated Chris Ames. John Bell agrees, "It was all worth it, we played together as a team and had fun."

The whole starting team was selected to the all-league teams. The most valuable player was John Kwilman who commented, "The season was long but our coaching staff made it worthwhile." Chris Ames and Rick Hawkins made first team all C.I.F. while John Bell, David Evans, John Kwilman, and Craig and Mike Tillman made second and third teams respectively. Junior starter Greg Clark was an honorable mention to the C.I.F. team also. "My senior year was great and though we didn't win, it was still successful," concluded senior Rick Hawkins. It was successful and with attitudes like that it will always be successful.

They Finally Earned Respect

A successful season usually means abundant publicity. The El Dorado Varsity Waterpolo team received ample supply of it this year. Their winning season was recognized throughout Orange County and the student body. This was obvious when over 1,000 spectators from El Dorado alone watched the C.I.F. final match. "I like watching waterpolo because it has a lot of action," stated senior Carrie Cline.

The waterpolo players themselves enjoyed having all the publicity. "I enjoyed having the publicity and all the excitement helped us during playoff time," commented John Evans. Goalie David Evans agrees, "The publicity was great and really appreciated." The players hope this attention will continue into the future because the waterpolo team will always be winners.

Winning Tradition Continues

Another year has gone by for Frosh/Soph water polo and the teams seem to get better. This years team was no exception. "Combining good coaching along with unity among the team, that was the combination that made this year a successful year," stated sophomore Most Valuable Player Mike Maclear.

Continuing the winning tradition here demands a lot of hard work as well as dedication, and this team had both. When asked what helped the success, Sophomore Steve Froning said, "being able to practice with varsity gave us confidence."

The Frosh/Soph team went undefeated in league and only lost one game in twenty outings. Team captain Greg Stout commented, "Never giving up when down in a trench, thanks to great coaching from Mr. Bowman." "This was the main ingredient for a successful season," added Sophomore Sean Connelly.

Inspirational . . .

The start of a new season brought on many changes for the cross-country team. The biggest change was the addition of a new coach, Dan Henshall, who commented, "We got off to a late start." That late start produced other changes. The first time in seven years the boys varsity did not win the League Championship or qualify for CIF. Even though these changes took place, Coach Henshall stated, "Because I was late, I still feel successful for what had happened."

The most inspiring point of this season was for runner, Craig Olson. Craig out kicked Katella's fourth man enabling the team to win the meet by one point. Craig commented, "It takes a lot out of you and requires much patience. And I love it."

"Scott Moore was the most valuable runner this season and Ron Lee was the most inspirational and most improved," commented Coach Henshall.

Coming around the bend is runner Steve Rogers. This is Steve's first year running with the cross-country team.

The Frosh-Soph team showed a lot of potential this season as they ran to a co-championship with Cyprus High School. Trung Nguyen, Brian Corona, and Roy Garner led the team, but depth is what hurled the team to victory. "We couldn't have done it without teamwork." Comments Roy Garner on the first place victory at league finals. "We can anticipate a talented varsity squad next year." Stated Head Coach Henshall.

"We couldn't have done better with the young and inexperienced team we had this year," Henshall said, "We're a growing team and next year we'll be even stronger."

Sophomores Julie Cooper and Beth Rosipajla led the girls to a second place finish in league as the two took first and second respectively at finals, and thirteenth and fourteenth in the state. Though their overall record did not show it, the girls varsity tennis team was still successful. They were young, having only four seniors (Robin Jimmerson, Donna Alexander, Julie Lee, Kim Loyd) to provide leadership. "I feel the season was successful because even though we didn't win a lot we all improved," commented senior Kim Loyd. Junior Katrina Yee agrees, "We worked as a team and learned in the process."

This learning came in the form of the coach Ms. Brennan. Coach Brennan was a favorite among the players, as a person and as a coach. "Ms. Brennan cares about each individual and she really helped us out," stated junior Angie Hanson. Kim Loyd agrees, "She was an inspirational factor and helped us play well."

Since the girls finished sixth in league they really didn't experience winning a whole lot but they had the experience of being part of a team. "I played tennis to have school spirit and I like working on a team to get results," commented Katrina Yee. Angie Hanson feels the same way. "Playing tennis gave me experience and I got to meet new people and make new friends." With attitudes like that the girls tennis team will always be successful, no matter if they win or not.

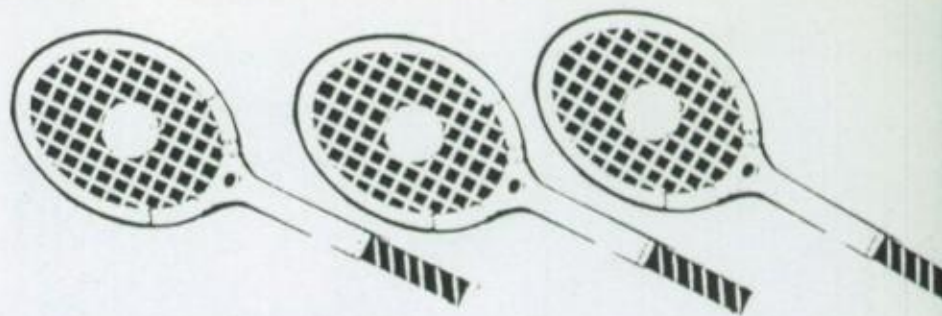

Set

Laying out and improving your tan makes a relaxing summer. However, the girls J.V. tennis team, for three weeks of the summer practiced four hours a day. The practice included two hours of conditioning. The hard work brought a 6-8, fifth place finish in league and a 7-9 overall record.

"Our record didn't matter because we were out there to have fun," said doubles player Lisa Ignacek. "It taught me about self-discipline because the pressure was on me."

"The season was a learning experience," said number one seeded singles player Karen Hill. "It was a chance for everyone to get court time." Racheal Simonton typified that. She started at #10 seed and improved to where she was challenging the #1 player. She was named most improved from both J.V. and Varsity.

Six of the eleven players on the team were freshmen. This makes for a lot of people returning next year. Elenor Chen replied, "Next year we'll have a strong team."

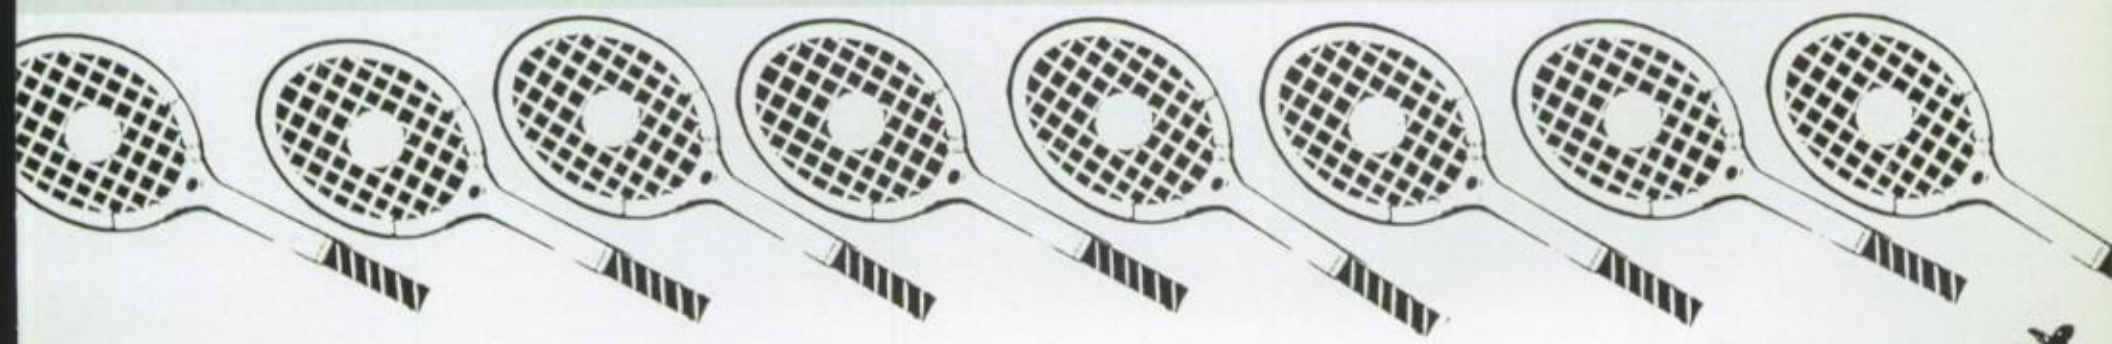

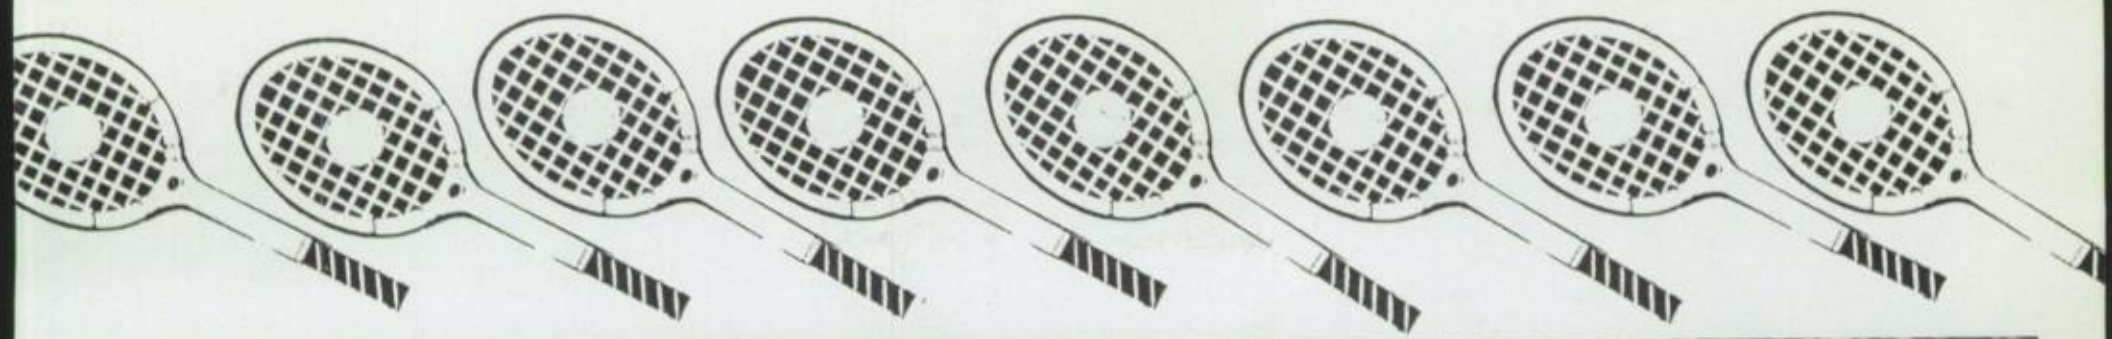

The girls Varsity and Junior Varsity tennis teams get it all together.

Nothing Less than the Best

Throughout the season, the varsity wrestlers succeeded in keeping up their winning tradition.

Some outstanding wrestlers who contributed to the winning spirit were Steve Lawson, Chuck Cauwel, Todd Tomazic, Doug Ash, and Kyle Iwanaga.

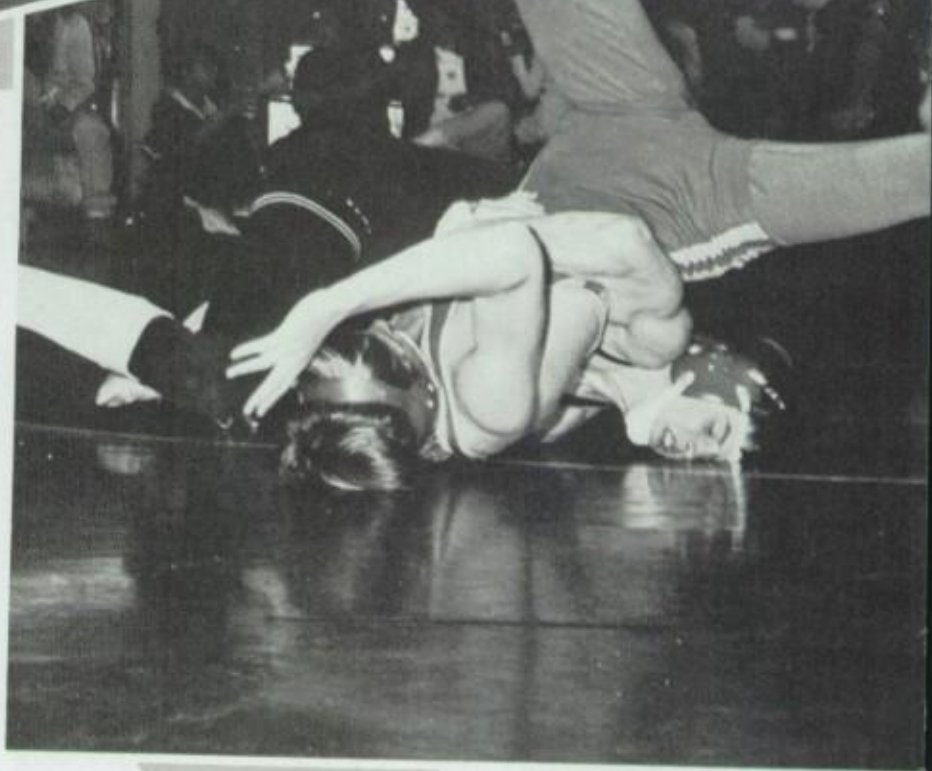

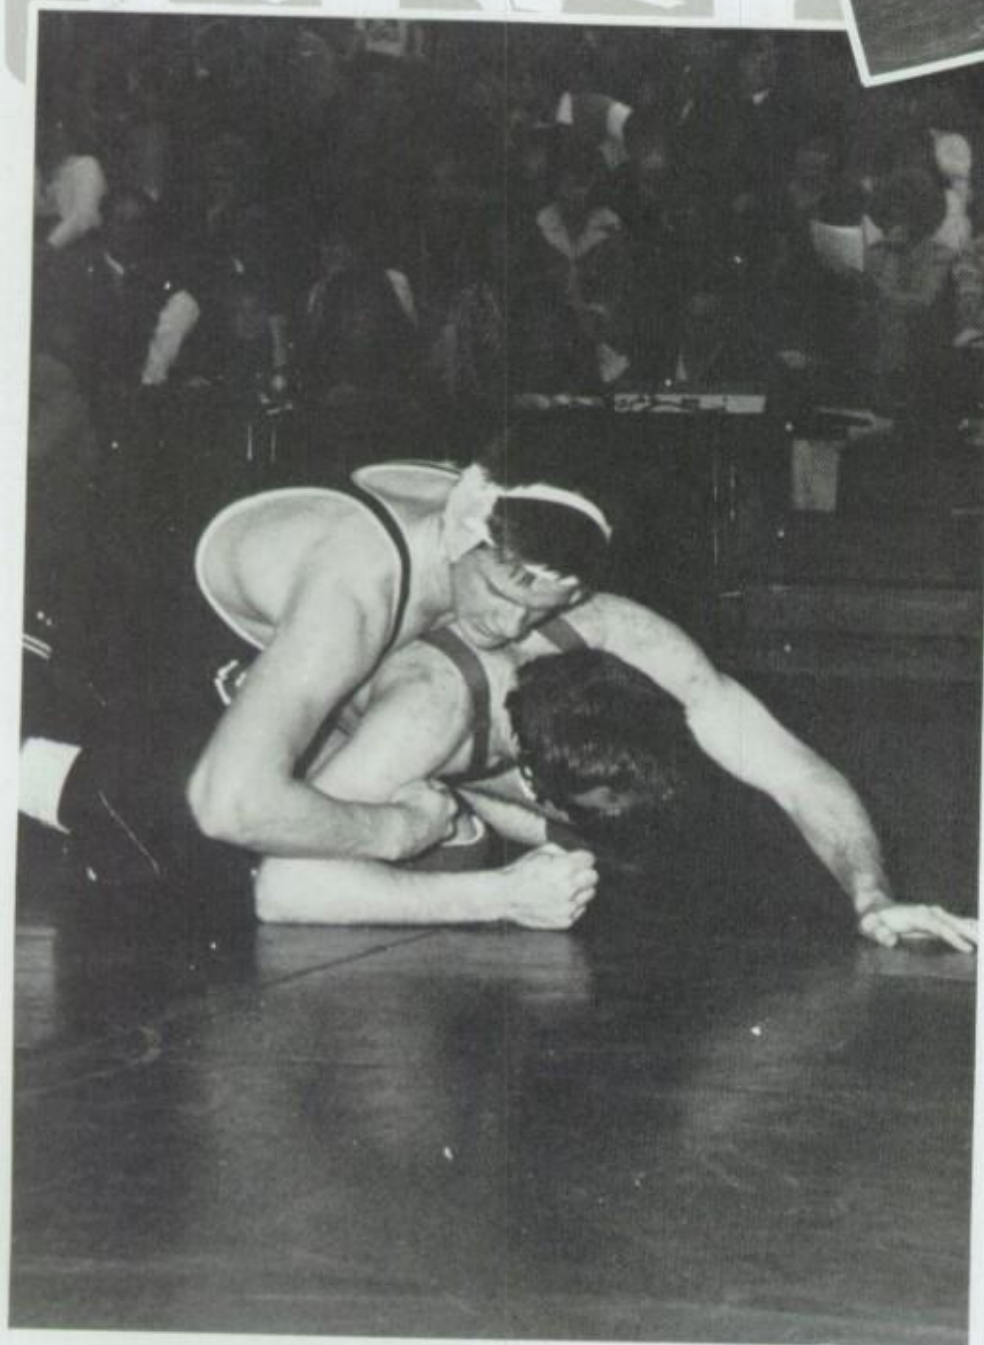

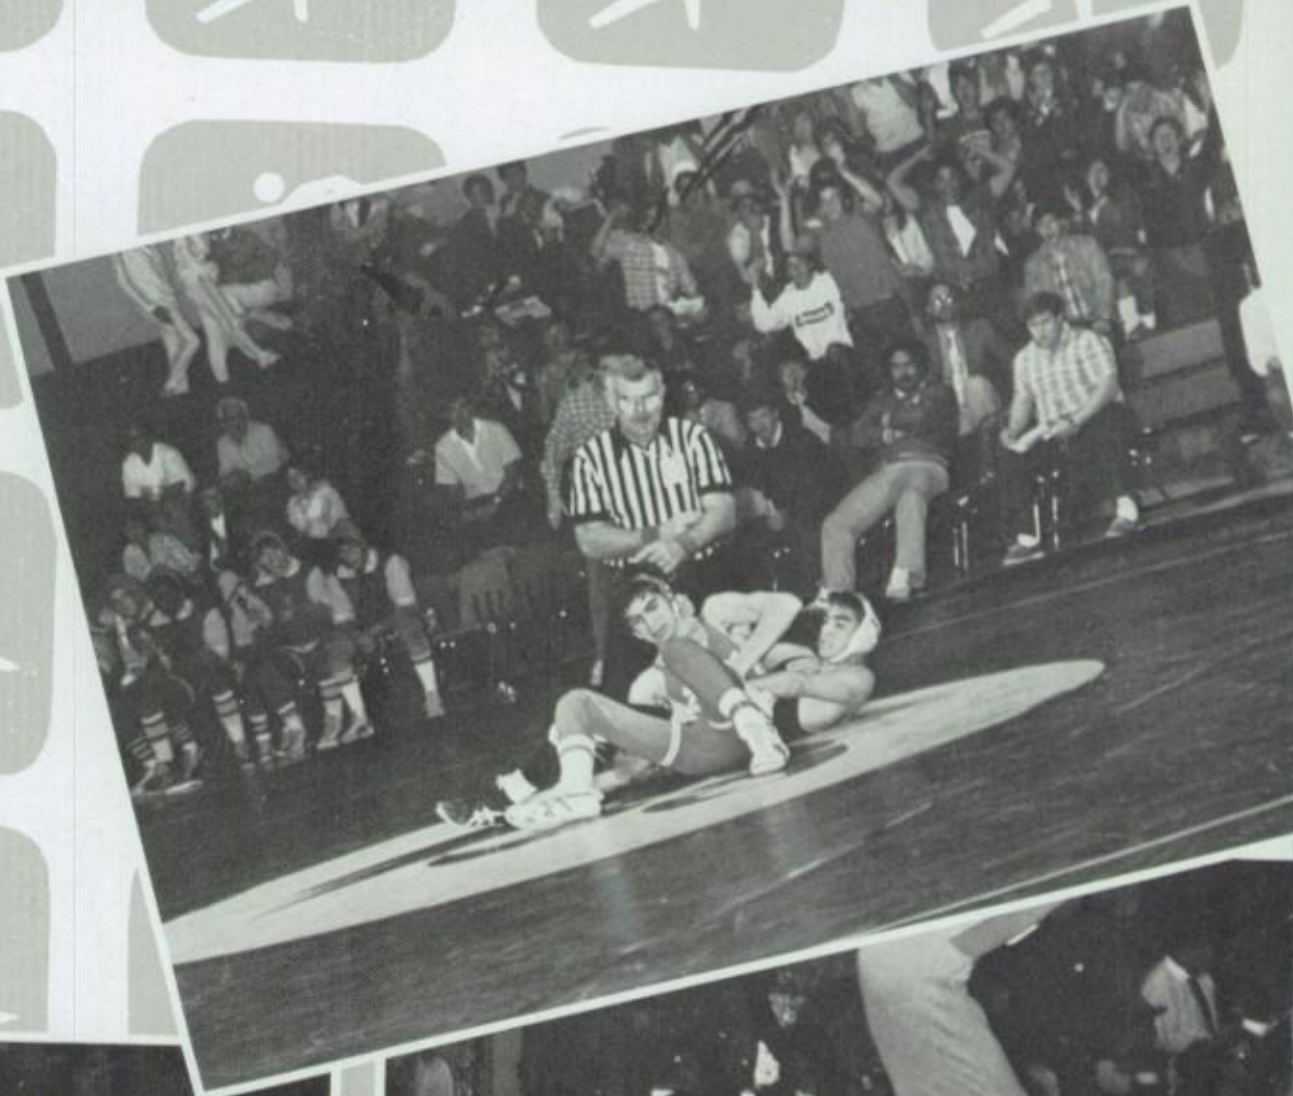

The team finished as league champs in the Empire League as well as sending Steve Lawson to state championships this year.

The team was fortunate enough to have an excellent, supportive coaching staff headed by Frank Gonzales. "Our coaching staff was the best possible anywhere," commented Steve Lawson.

To sum everything up, Chuck Cauwel said, "Being on the wrestling team was a great experience. I wish I could do it all over again."

High expectations are held by all returning wrestlers for next year's season. Jim Jackman predicts, "Most everyone is returning. We're going to do very well next year."

And if tradition holds out, we can expect another championship wrestling team next year to add to El Dorado's winning success.

Doug Ash bears down and uses all his strength to pin his competitor. Doug wrestled consistently for the varsity team and finished with a successful season.

Looking Back

When asked what he liked most about his season this year, Jim Jackman said, "Being League champs in the Empire League for my first time." Being a sophomore, Jim will have two more years to excel and reach his own personal best in the sport if he chooses to continue.

This year, Steve Lawson, a junior on the varsity team, went to the State Championships in Stockton California. Steve successfully finished 3rd in the state and says, "It was a great experience that I won't ever forget." And when asked about his expectations for next year, Steve thinks that, "the team and myself have the potential to win state championships next year." With that positive attitude, they will go far.

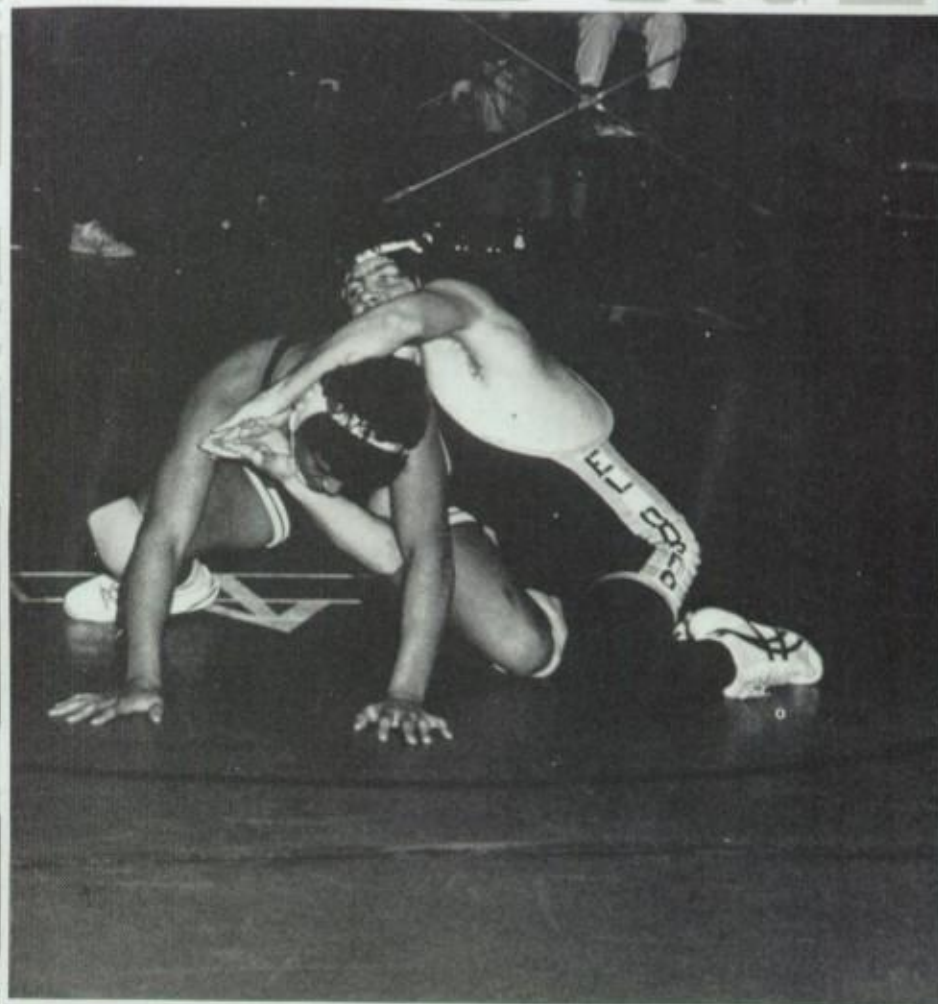

Duel matches were a favorite for senior Chuck Cauwel. "It was real exciting knowing that everyone was watching. Everyone on our team would get really up for the matches." With this show of support, Chuck won many matches and had a lot of fun.

Getting along with the other members on the team is very important for everyone. They can offer their support as well as being great friends. Senior Brian Ueno commented that he got along with the others and "at least they stopped beating me up."

Another match is won by Steve Lawson as the referee raises his arm in victory. Steve went on to finish 3rd at the state championships this year.

"To go out and wrestle every match offensively and to try our hardest," said junior John Robinson, was the main goal of each match.

Having that in mind the J.V. team finished first in league, with a perfect 7-0 record.

Winning such tournaments as the Edison 8-Way, Buena Park, and El Dorado tournaments this team has a bright future ahead of them.

"Great coaching, which created talent among us, was the key ingredient that made this year a success," commented freshman George Singleton.

The team was led by John Robinson, Mike Morris, Mike O'Higgins and George Singleton. Each won league in their own weight division.

Working Hard

Hard work and dedication led the Frosh/Soph wrestling team to a successful year. The whole team practiced hard having 2-3 hour practices everyday, sometimes even on weekends. During practice they worked hard to perfect their moves and techniques.

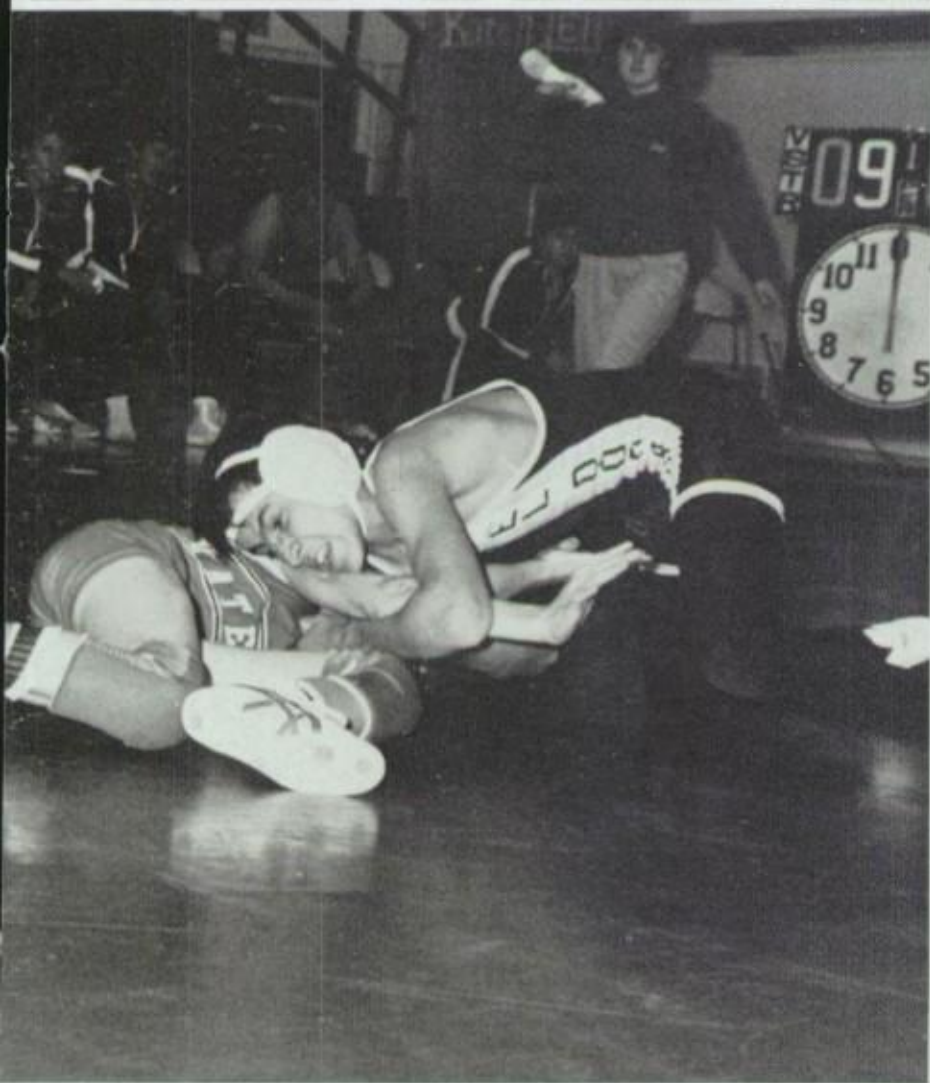

The team learned quickly thanks to the Hawks new coach Mr. Bishop. "Mr. Bishop was a great coach. He explained everything well and he really knows his wrestling," commented Mike Modika.

The team did well in tournament matches, winning one of the biggest tournaments of the year, the Valencia 8-Way.

The team was led by, Brian Robertson, Mike Modika, Bob Lancy, and Justin Sweet.

Maintaining his advantage over the Katella wrestler, Joey Ochoa works hard for a victory.

Sticking Together

"With some key injuries, things didn't go as planned," stated junior Jeff Boucher.

This year's varsity soccer team knew what it meant when the saying "injuries can kill you" came up. With injuries to such players as Jeff Boucher, Bob Bunce, Rich Yarger and Gene Tjoa the group tried to but could not overcome these obstacles.

Playing such powerhouse teams as Esperanza, Cypress, and Brea Olinda, the team had their share of bad breaks.

"The season starting off with a bang and entering league play with an unblemished record is when things fell apart," commented junior Vic Irwin.

The season ended with a record of 4 wins 9 losses and 6 ties which placed them a respectable fifth in league.

"The most important thing is to have fun and we did that, but it would have been nice to win a couple more games," concluded junior Darren Mathews.

J.V. Soccer Undergoes Frustrating Season

Although ending the season with a 7-4-2 record, the boys JV soccer team underwent a frustrating time. Under first year coach Jeff Herrera, there were a few team problems and rough edges.

"We had good team spirit but alot of players didn't get along with each other. This caused some problems in a few of our games," stated Mark Chaput. "Also, our practices were unorganized and more fun than work," commented Jamie Lynch who continued, "It was hard sticking out the season with a team of only 4 juniors and the rest underclassmen."

Despite the downfalls, the team members did have fun. "The coach was fun to joke around with and I really enjoyed the team. We just never seemed to get a decent break," explained Nick Cruz.

A Year To Remember

By working together as a team and playing every game hard the boys frosh/soph soccer team was successful. They compiled a record of 11 wins, 1 loss, and 2 ties, finishing second in league play, a half game behind the winners, Los Alamitos. The team was strong and though there were some individual standouts, every member of the team contributed to its success.

The team was coached by former El Dorado soccer star Todd Waterman. According to his players he was the perfect coach. "Todd was a good coach and he really helped us with our skills," commented sophomore P.J. Bunce. Freshmen Darin Hicks agreed, "He was very knowledgeable about the game and really contributed to our success."

They played their best game against Los Alamitos and beat them by a score of 4-0 but they lost the league championship the last game of the season by tying Kennedy.

Since all the players will be returning next year the team will virtually be the same. According to Darin Hicks "We will dominate next year."

So Close But Yet So Far

The saying "so close but yet so far" could be applied to the girls Varsity soccer team. Their final record was 5 wins, 7 losses and 4 ties. Though seven games were lost the scores were very close. The team tied Pacifica, which was the first place team, and according to junior Denise Hicks "We played excellent."

The team had six seniors, Carrie Black, Shannon Emrick, Donna Era, Libby Kingseed, Colleen O'Higgins, and Tracy Tastad. "The season," stated senior Shannon Emrick, "was better than the last two years because the coaching was better. Even though we finished 5th in league, we played much better."

The varsity team was coached by Ms. Lelia McLaughlin and Mrs. Carolyn Walter. "The coaches stuck up for us," stated Denise Hicks. What Denise was referring was a game that the girls played under protest because of a bad judgement call by the referee. Shannon Emrick agreed, "They were very supportive and helped us a lot."

Though the season was disappointing for the players the enthusiasm was not lost. "We played well together and everybody got along great," commented Denise Hicks. At the awards banquet junior Megan Nelson was voted the best offensive player, senior Libby Kingseed was voted the best defensive player, and senior Shannon Emrick was voted the most inspirational player.

The girls Varsity soccer team: A. Hanson, S. Sawyer, S. Emrick, T. Tastad, N. Alex, K. Glomboske, J. Malloy, M. Nelson, Ms. McLaughlin, Mrs. Walter, K. Weirich, S. Bradach, W. Nelson, D. Hicks, S. Piper, D. Era, C. Black, L. Kingseed, C. O'Higgins.

The players celebrate after a goal is scored. Teamwork and good efforts like this made the girls season worthwhile.

It's A Kick!

Teamwork was the key to winning for the girls J.V. soccer team. They kicked their way to first place with an overall record of 11-0-3. Their season included 9 shut outs and only one team, Los Alamitos, was able to score more than one goal against them. "Our best game was at Katella when the goalie, Gina Suseata, was switched to forward and she scored 3 goals," commented Debbie Pliska. This along with 4 other goals scored by her team members resulted in a 7-0 shut out.

The year started off a little rough and it took a little while for the team to develop a sense of unity. "It was hard in the beginning, but we quickly came together as a team in order to win," stated freshman Renee Peck.

The team consisted mostly of freshmen, two of which were Chris Fauchey and Karyn Ontiveros. Debbie Pliska said, "Chris and Karyn were outstanding contributors to the team. Their energy and enthusiasm provided a motivation for the entire team."

Old Time Basketball's Back

Crowds roared as the Hawks drove past all their competition this past year. Every gym they played in was packed. The fans really showed their support at the last league game against Kennedy, when the Hawks walked away with the title of co-league champs.

"We brought the kind of basketball back to E.D. that people like to see," commented Tim Green. The Hawks were known for their fast-break style of play. This was proven when the Hawks broke the record for the most points scored in the Brea Tournament, when they defeated Schurr High School 104-102.

The season was like a reunion for all the seniors on the team. They finally got to play together again. It hasn't happened since their days at Tuffree. "As a team we played good together, and the timing was almost always there," replied Damon Cooke.

Over the season, the Hawks demonstrated their own brand of showmanship play. Fancy playing came as easy to them as it does to the world famous Harlem Globetrotters.

Juniors Dan Bailey and Jim Sammon get in the way of an oncoming opponent. The team worked hard on their defensive game.

It's Showtime

The Hawks may have been noted for three main-players; Bart Hakeman, Jim Mansfield and Jim Sammon, but the whole team contributed to its successful season.

"We were a good team, but it was hard to get pumped up for every game," commented Bart Hakeman. "For the important games, especially the Kennedy games, we were motivated, that's why we wore those green sweatbands," said junior Jim Sammon.

Crowds followed the Hawks all over Orange County to watch a team that knew how to put on a show. Their famous three-corner play always left people on the edge of their seats. "People should remember that at one time during the season we were ranked third in the County and first in CIF," stated Jim Mansfield.

The season ended on a sad note when the Hawks lost to Ganesha in the second round of CIF. "I really thought we could have gone all the way to the Long Beach Arena," commented Damon Cooke. That thought will continue to linger on in the minds of the players after the great season that they had.

Senior Roger Behle fakes out his opponent to find his open teammate, Barry Dahmen. The Hawks were well noted for their offense.

An Aztec gets in Rob Hanna's way, so he decides to pass the ball. This was Rob's second year on the varsity team.

Driving past a Kennedy player, Jim Mansfield goes for one of his many layups. Jim was the second leading scorer on the team.

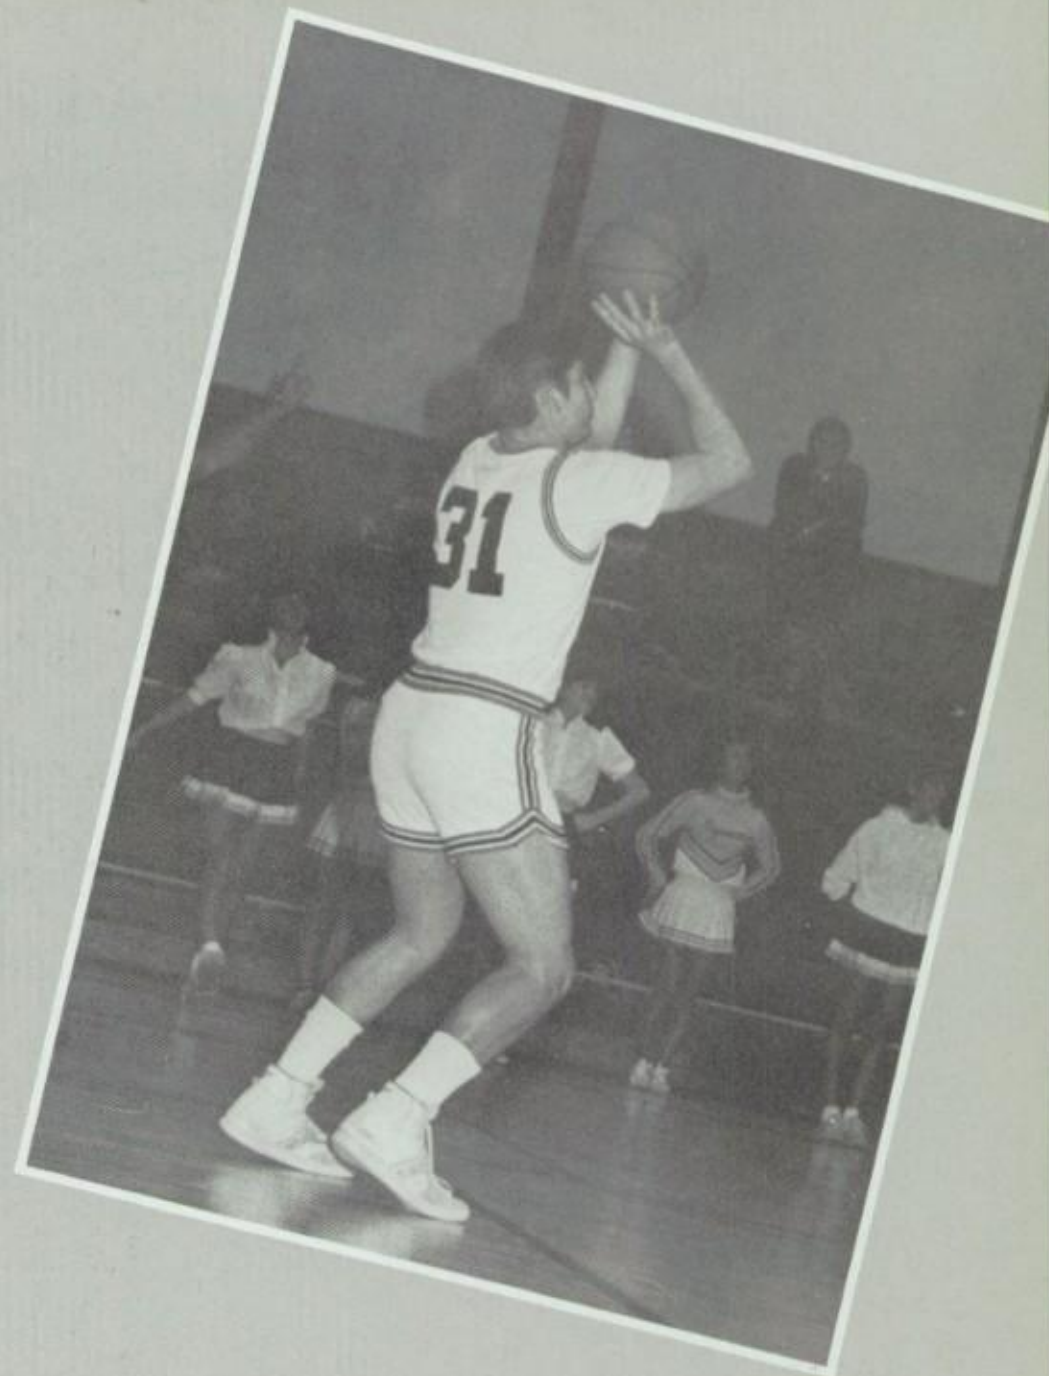

Forward Bart Hakeman pulls the ball out as the Hawks run their 3-corner play. Guard Rob Ramos waits for the pass from Bart.

Crowd pleaser, Barry Dahmen prepares to sink a freethrow. Barry is one of the seven returning varsity players.

Katella's defense is no match for the Hawk's leading scorer, Bart Hakeman. Jim Sammon watches his teammates score another easy basket.

Striving Ahead

"The highlight of our season was our last game against Kennedy. We were undefeated. The whole team was really intense both on offense and defense. We came out ready to win and that's exactly what we did!" Freshman Chris Facione commented on what he thought was the greatest moment for the freshman basketball team this year.

That wasn't the only good thing about the team this year. They had five excellent starting players who led the team to a record of 8 and 6. These players included: Scott Tomko, Chris Facione, Cameron Carter, Eddie Keller, and Michael Hanna. The team also felt that the coaching staff, led by Tom Hays and Mel Hudson, did an excellent job. "They were great," stated Cameron Carter. "They were more like friends than coaches."

The team learned alot this year about working together and playing as a team. They also have much to look forward to in the future. Freshman Scott Tomko commented, "I look forward to playing varsity and winning a league championship."

Reaching Goals

At the end of a disappointing season, the boys Sophomore basketball team posted a record of 3-11 in league and 6-15 overall. Although feelings among players were mixed, they agreed that the season as an entirety was a let down.

"We were beaten by 40 points at least 5 times. I think if we would have played with more intensity, we could have at least been a .500 team," commented Chuck Newvine. "It was frustrating not being able to win as many games as we had hoped," added Todd Stitt.

Also, the Sophomore team acquired two new coaches this season, Gary Raya and Dave Pickney. This may have contributed a small part to the team's misfortune.

"Even though our record was below our expectations, we still had a very good team. Hopefully, a lot of the guys will continue to play because there was a lot of talent on our team. Offensively, we were led by Dave Pierce and Charlie Stevens. Defensively, Rob Carrington gave us a lot of key steals and forced a good amount of turnovers," concluded Stitt.

Looking Toward The Future

Beginning the season with a slow start was one thing that temporarily held back the JV basketball team this year. As freshmen, the team went undefeated, so losing their first game was a dissappointing setback that caused the team's record to be 2 and 5 at the start. Through much determination, hard work, and alot of practice, the team made and outstanding comeback to win the last 5 out of 7 games. "The team started off slow," commented sophomore Curt Behle, "we expected too much because of our record last year." Another asset to help the team was their ability to work well together. "At first everyone wanted to be a superstar and we didn't work well with each other, but at the end of the season we came together," stated sophomore James Byers.

All of the players have a positive attitude and have many goals for the next seasons. Sophomore Sean Shedlock commented "I look forward to making varsity and winning CIF". The team this year was led by coach Johnny Johnson and assistant coach Marvin Therman. "Our coach related to us well and we love him", added Behle, "we were one bonzai team!"

At The Buzzer

10, 9 . . . Jill Matyuch drives the lane with the Hawks down by a point to Katella. 8, 7 . . . Her shot misses but she draws the foul. 6 seconds remain on the clock as she goes to the line. Jill sinks both free-throws and the girls' varsity basketball team holds on to win by 1. Clutch playing by Jill Matyuch led the team to a 12-10 overall record. Their 9-5 finish in league tied them for third.

If a basket was needed, Jill Matyuch was looked upon. Three times, twice against Katella and once against Alta Loma, she scored the game winning basket. "I play my best in close situations", replied Jill. Her big plays and all around performances won her Empire League's most valuable player award. Kathy Newvine, the starting center, was also named to the all Empire League team.

Strength was added to the team by Joanne Popata, an exchange student from New Zealand. "My role was to take people out," said Joanne. Her rough style always put her in foul trouble. "I think the referees here (in America) are ticky-tacky," she said. "The adjustment was hard because I had to learn new teammates and plays, plus the competition here (in U.S.A.) is tougher."

Injuries are the most dreaded aspect of sports. All the hard work put into a season can go for not. Such bad luck befell point guard Laurie Abernethy. She went down with a knee injury in the Esperanza game. "It hurt us a lot," said Jill Matyuch. "Laurie controlled the flow of the game. At mid-season, we had to change all of our offense positioning".

The team started slow losing 4 of their first 6 games. "Things turned around when we learned how each other played and started playing together," said Joan Pesl. "We always kept a positive attitude. We played hard to prove ourselves and to have others take notice."

A Team With Unity

Finishing the season with a record of 6 wins and 8 losses, the girls JV Basketball team grasped a fourth place victory in the Empire League. Eleanore Chen, a guard and a forward, stated that their season was rather "disappointing." The team was young and the bench was small, six members to be exact. "We did rather well considering the circumstances," stated Chen. As a first year coach, Lisa Spicer did a great job. She made practices fun and she got close to each team member. One advantage the team had was that they were friends on and off the court. Since they were so close, it helped improve their games on the court.

As the Hawks offense moves in for another two points, Laurie Schoner shoots for the basket.

With Kennedy's defense putting the pressure on, Shannon Pualson calmly shoots for a basket.

Hard Work Leads To CIF Blue

"I believe our year was successful because of our superior dedication," stated senior swimmer Steve Walker. The Varsity swim team captured league for the third straight year. A combination of hard work and good coaching helped the swimmers win CIF 143½ to 140½ over Loyola.

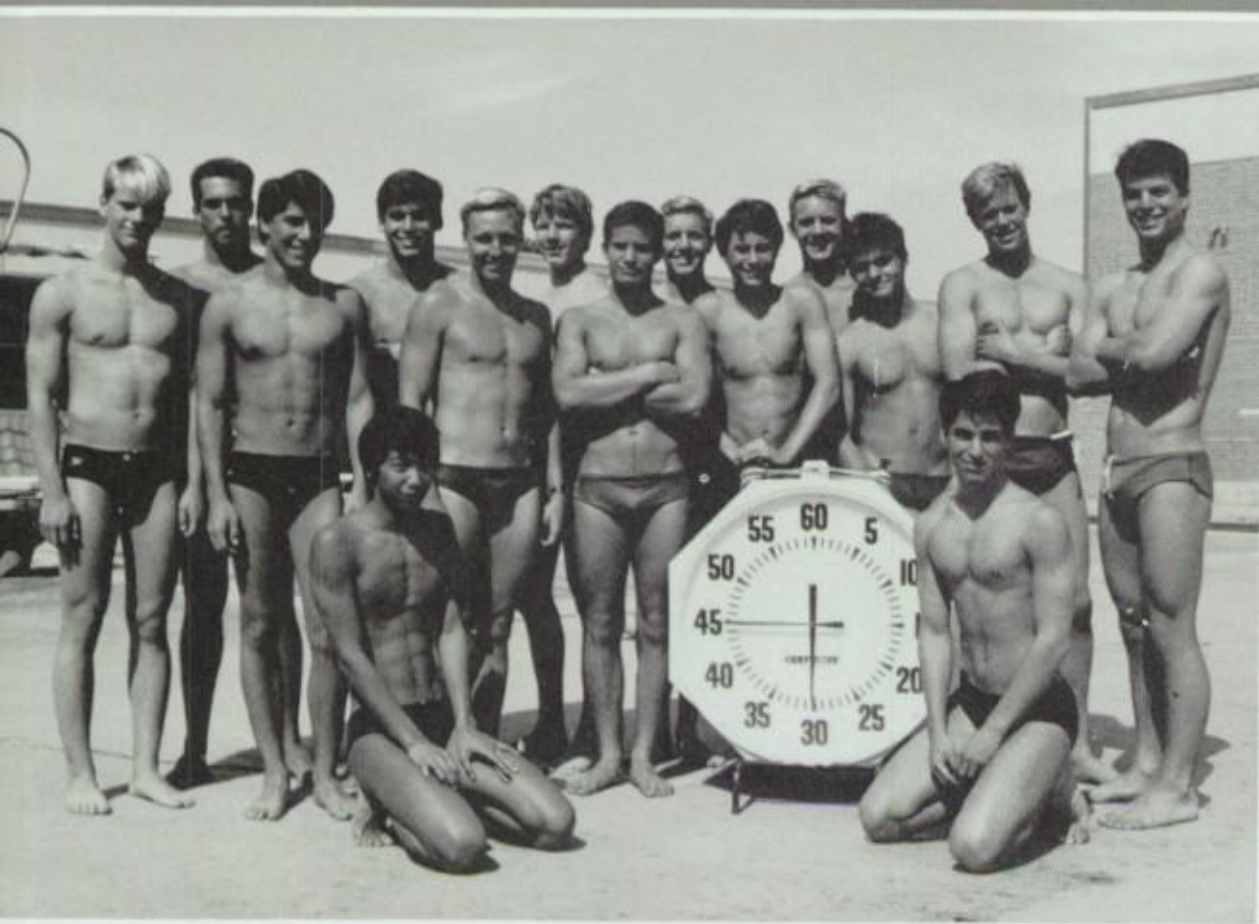

With the loss of Olympic silver-medalist John Mykkanen the team had to function together as a unit more. "We have more depth but no greatness," stated junior Mike Fairchild. Junior Greg Clark agreed, "We were united more as a group and therefore our team was better."

The team won all but one of its league meets by over 100 points with the exception being Los Alamitos. The standout swimmers included, Chris Ames, Mike Fairchild, John Evans, Rick Hawkins, Steve Walker, Craig Tillman and Mike Tillman.

The swimmers were coached by Tom Milich, whose teams have not lost a league swim meet in the three years he has been at El Dorado. He got nothing but praise from his swimmers. "Mr. Milich is the best coach in C.I.F.," stated sophomore Mike Tillman. Steve Walker agreed, "He takes time to help and he cares about us."

Continuing The Tradition

The Frosh/Soph team cruised through the league teams one after another. With the exception of Los Alamitos, El Dorado defeated it's opponents by an average of 89 points. "Our toughest meet was against Los Alamitos, which was for the league championship" commented sophomore Bob Williams.

Sounds of splashing water and tired guys breathing hard can be heard before and after school. "The rewards in the end were worth every minute of the work," stated sophomore Mark Palmer.

"Having coaches who were able to blend hard work with some fun created a good atmosphere for the team," stated Steve Froning.

"Before every meet Mr. Bowman was there giving us inspiration to go out and try our hardest. If we won the race that was great, but he was also striving for improvement," said Devon Ames. Second year coach John Bowman led the team to it's second straight league title. He also taught there is more to swimming than just winning.

Young Fish Come On Strong

The girls frosh/soph swim team had another successful season. The team was the biggest ever, with 25 swimmers. According to freshman Elisabeth Evanshine "Because we have a lot of swimmers we have a lot of depth, so we fill all the races." With this depth comes some standout swimmers. These swimmers include, Michele Burgess, Michele Shanks, Elisabeth Evanshine and Shannon Heathershaw.

They had a perfect record in league. Their toughest competition came from Los Alamitos but the girls pulled it out in the end. The teams coach was Mr. Bowman, who was given nothing but high compliments by his swimmers. According to Elisabeth DeMaggio "He's cool." Sophomore Sherri Orr agrees, "He tries to make us think he's mean but he's really not, he's one of the best."

For most of the girls this was their first experience with school athletics. "It gives me a chance to be with my friends and its good exercise," stated Elisabeth DeMaggio. Sherri Orr says she swims because "It gives me the satisfaction of winning races," and Elisabeth Evanshine swims because "Its good discipline and you really feel good about yourself."

Girls Varsity Swimming

Lacking experience, the girls' varsity swim team had it tough this year but managed to place second in league. "We had three people in every race, but most of the swimmers experienced their first competition on the varsity level," stated sophomore Jill Mykkanen.

During the season, they had the maximum number of swimmers in each race. "We had our share of first places in meets, but most of the time we had more people in each race which helped score us ahead of most of our opponents," stated sophomore Patti Nixon.

Finishing second in league behind powerhouse Los Alamitos and sixth out of 20 teams, in the reputable Foothill Invitational gives these swimmers plenty to be proud of.

Brett Boone races around third base trying to score on a hit by Todd Holt. Brett is one of the two sophomores that made the varsity team.

Steve Wholley and the rest of the team await Rob Sporrer at home plate after Rob hit a home run. The home run was Rob's second game winning home run in as many games.

Baseball Has Slow Start, Fast Finish

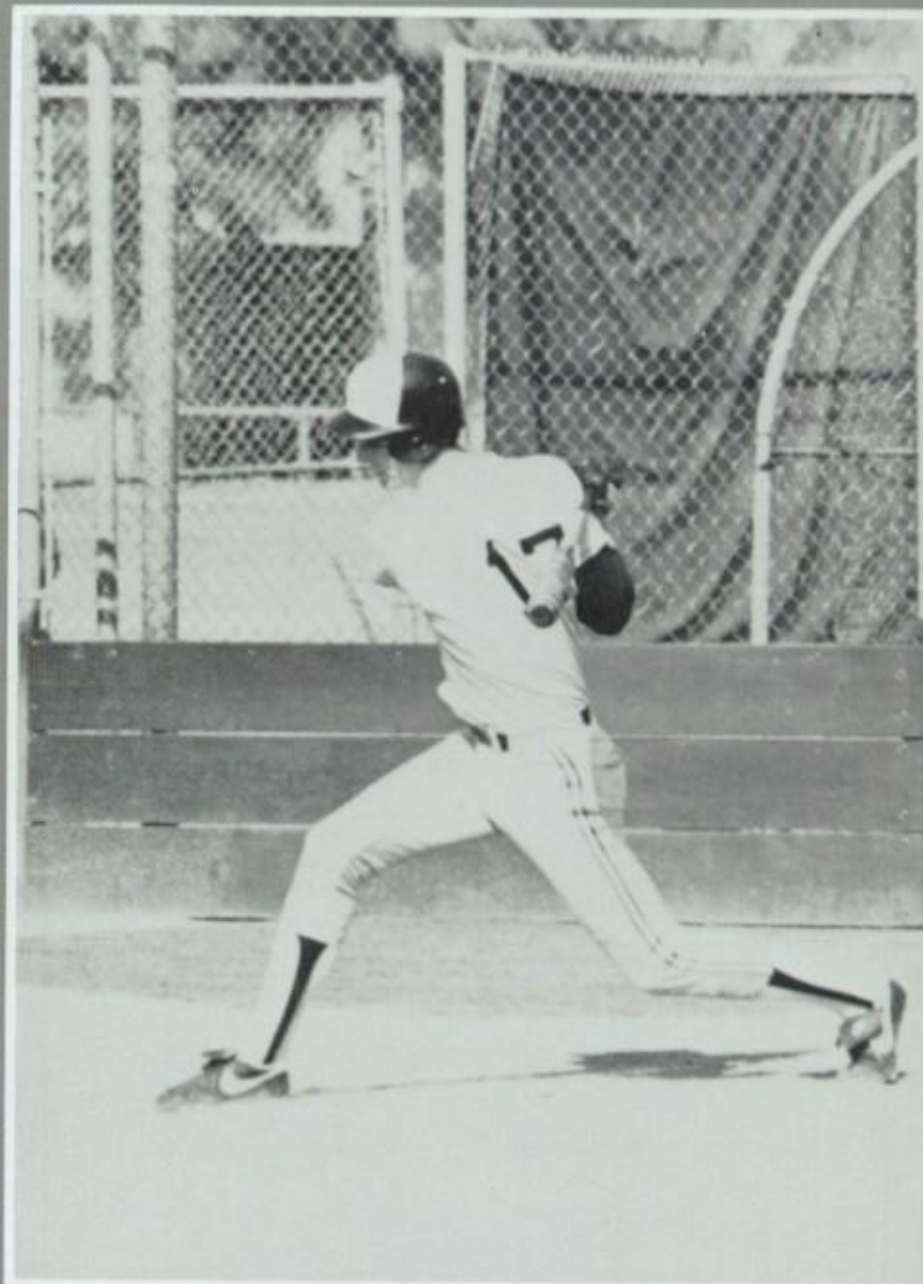

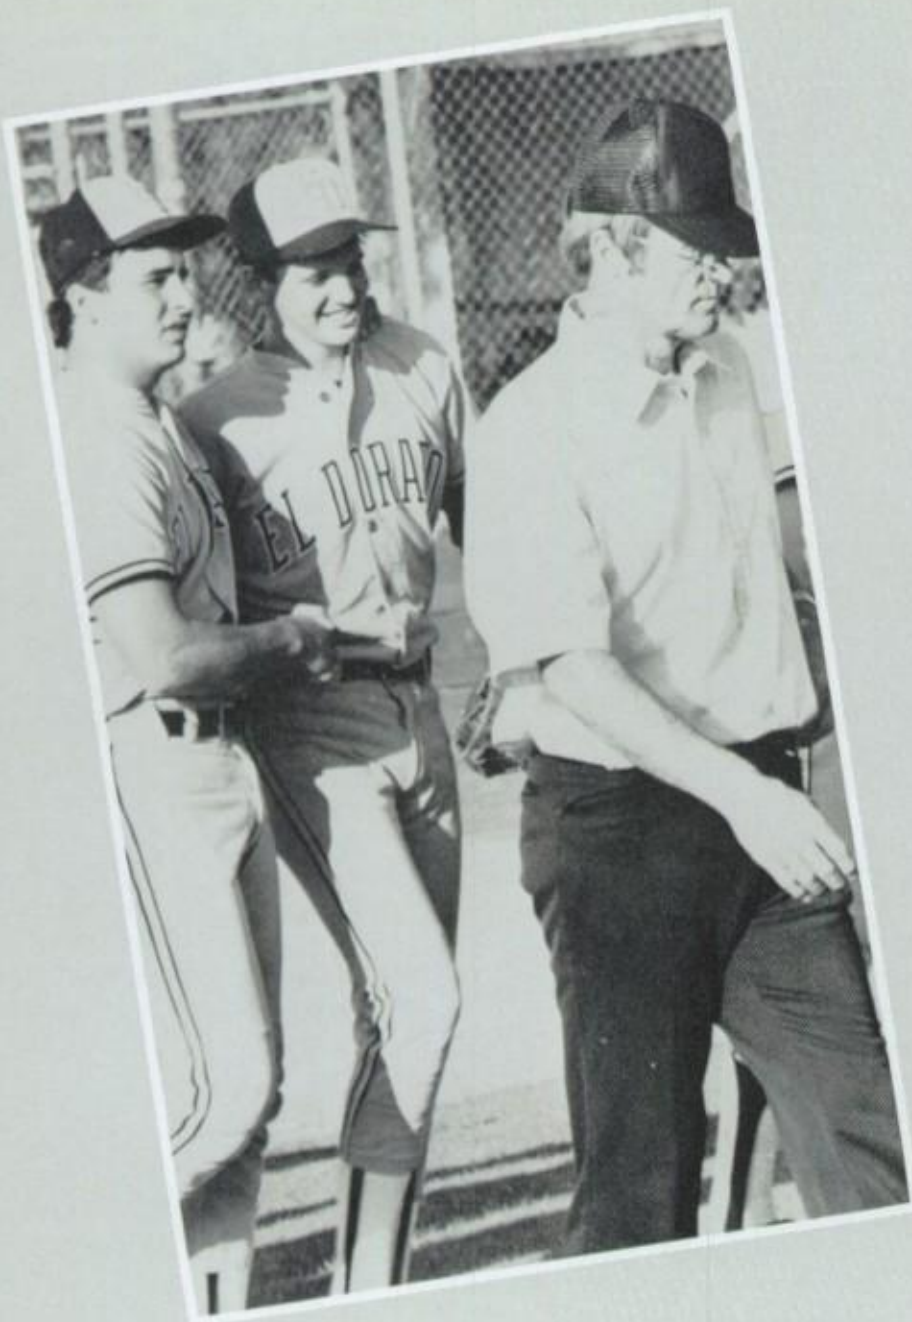

You only improve when you play someone better than you. Unfortunately, this has meant a long season for the guy's Varsity baseball team. They possessed a .500 record of 11-8 overall but a 3-6 league record. The Empire League was filled with quality opponents, three of which were ranked in the top ten in Orange County.

"This season was a good learning experience because it taught me how to handle frustration," said centerfielder Steve Whooley. "We had bad breaks and weren't able to put everything together at once."

The season had its positive aspects. "The team's strength was our defense," replied Brett Boone. Brett was one of only two sophomores to make the Varsity Team. Also he earned himself the starting position at second base. "We always kept a good attitude and never gave up," he added.

On The Mound

Like Nolan Ryan, Dave Rice's best pitch is his fastball. "My curve is also good when it works," said Dave. Dave is one of the members of the Varsity pitching staff. He has played baseball all four years at El Dorado. He culminated his years as a Hawk pitcher on the starting rotation.

"The biggest game for me came against Servite," replied Dave. "Three pitchers were competing for the #2 spot on the rotation. I had a lot of luck on my side that day and got the #2 job."

"This year our team has had some tough luck. We find ourselves in one of the most difficult leagues in the county. As for myself, I have improved about 80% in my pitching, and still improving, but I still have to work on my hitting."

Todd Holt puts on the brakes on command of Coach Gullotti. Todd in his first season on the varsity team started in left field.

Doug Sipple beats the throw into second base. Doug was a good defensive player behind the plate.

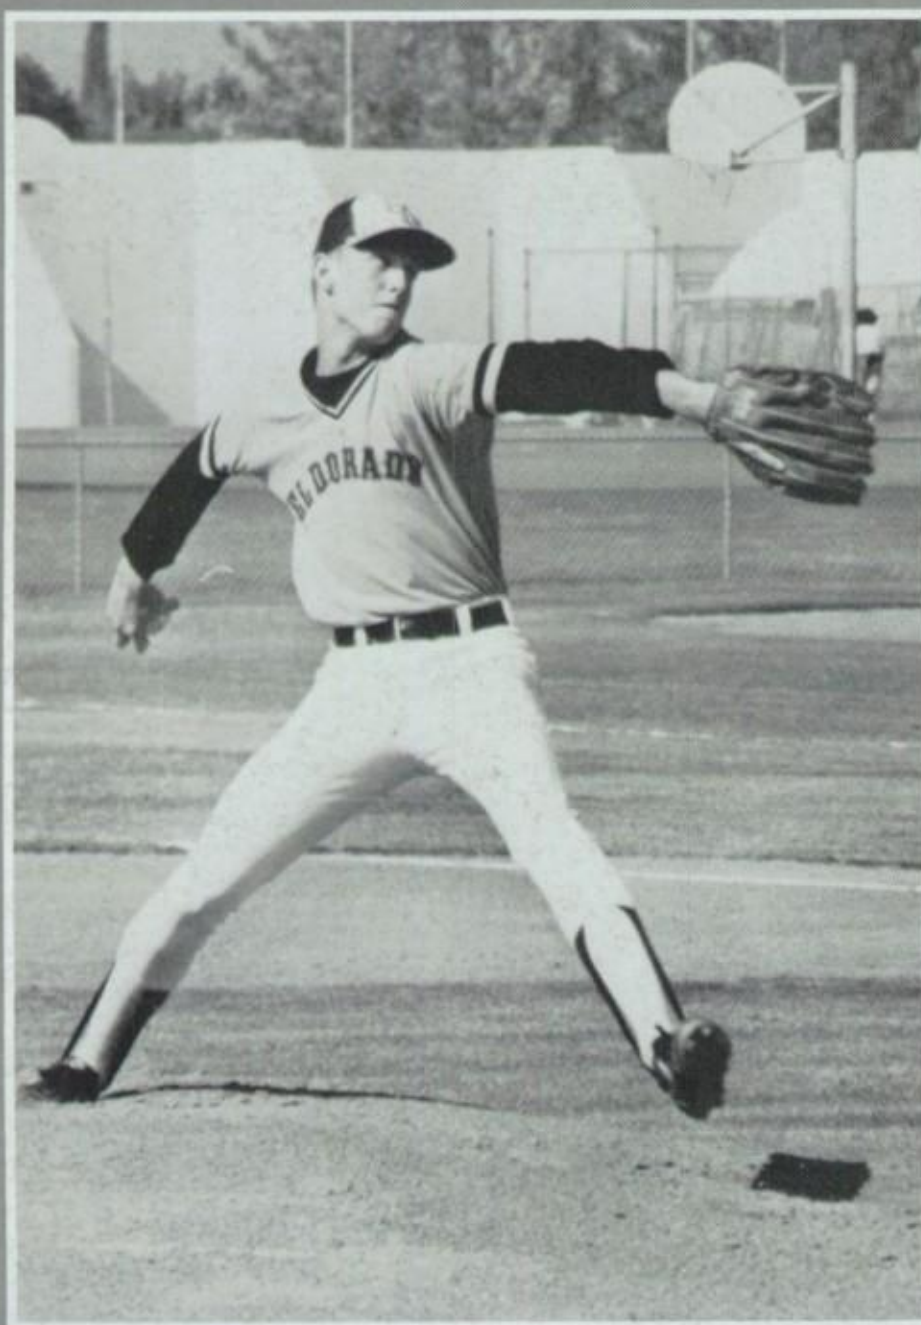

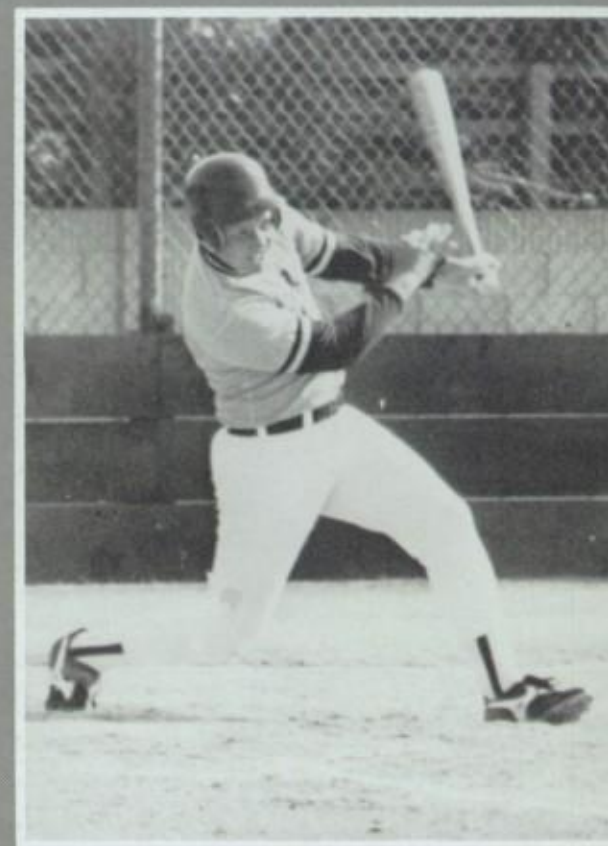

7th Inning Stretch

Yes we can. This motto carried the California Angels to a winning season and also the playoffs. The boys J.V. baseball team kept such a positive attitude. The result was a 10-5 overall record and a 3-4 mark in league.

"I learned how to treat each game with a positive attitude," said centerfielder Rick Bowen. "Plus I managed to cope with slumps."

"The team did O.K.," said shortstop Richard Medina. "It was good for me because I got more practice and improved."

"The team never reached its potential. I know we were capable of playing better," said pitcher Steve Gill. However this didn't keep the team from maintaining a loose atmosphere. "It seemed someone was always putting Bengay on Mike Modika's hat."

Transition Period

"The High School level is much tougher than little league," said first baseman Charlie Stevens. The Frosh-Soph baseball team had to make the jump to high school competition. The result was a 3-2-2 record in league. Benefit of the rule that one tie goes to the win column and the other to the loss, the team possessed a 4-3 mark.

"Our hitting and fielding were our team's strengths. The problem was we couldn't put both together for one game," said Chris Facione. "Throughout the year, we had a good attitude towards the coaching and everyone helped each other out."

What goes through your mind when you come up to bat? "If I have men on base I'm batting to score or advance them," replied Charlie Stevens. "I don't worry about being hit. If I do get hit, I get the base and it only hurts for a minute."

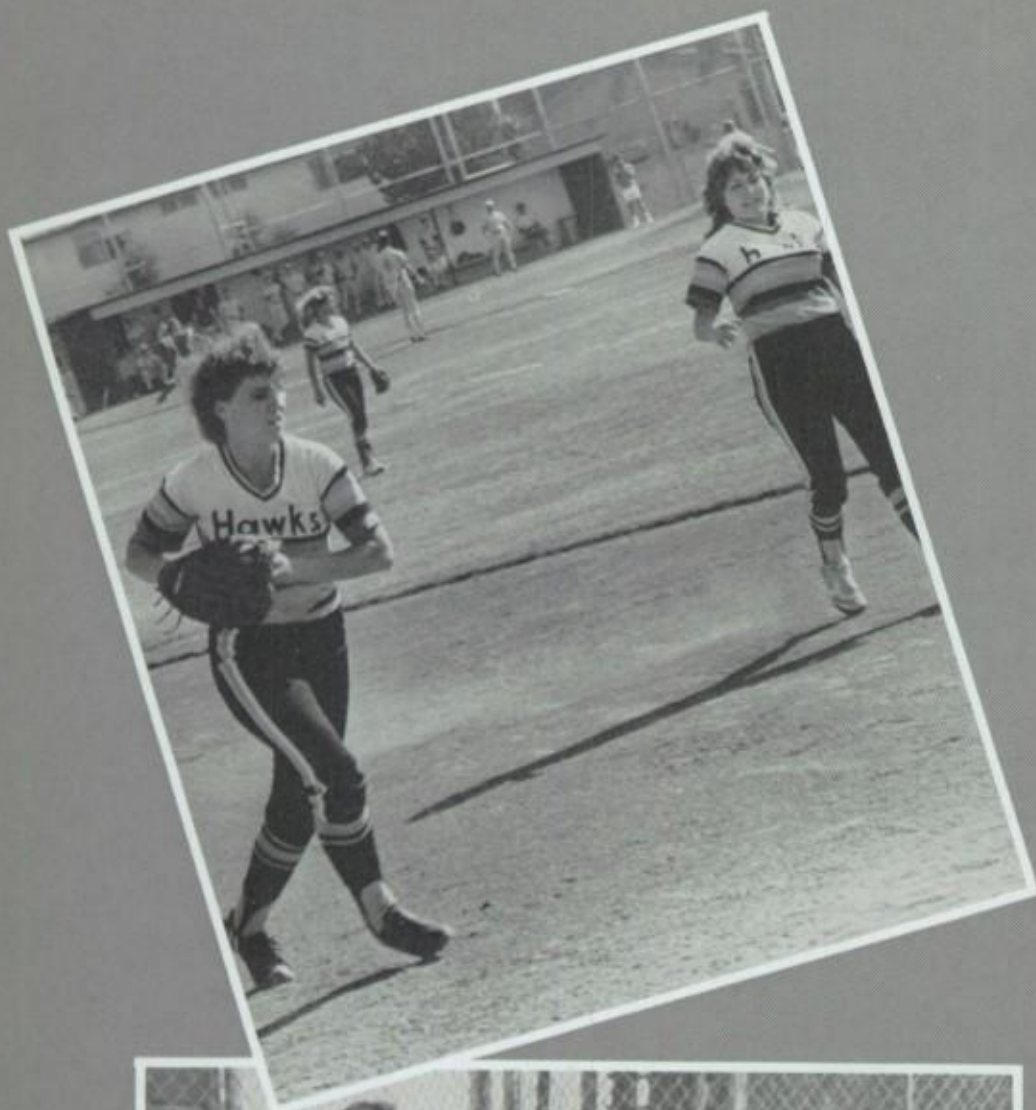

Chris Facione swings level and punches through a basehit. He watches to see if it has any extra base potential.

Makin' It Work

Thirteen very skilled girls and two willing coaches made up the E.D. varsity softball team. Their talent showed up when the lady Hawks took second place in the Woodbridge softball tournament over spring vacation. "One of our best games was against Woodbridge in the tournament. We displayed teamwork and a positive attitude," commented pitcher Suzi Bradach.

The team worked long and hard to make themselves the best. It was up to three juniors and two seniors to cover the infield and keep their opponents from taking a trip around the bases. "It was Holly who kept our team on the ball with her constant cheerleading," remarked short-stop Jill Matyuch.

Doing her part to help her team, Kris Glomboske stops a ball. Kris also helped her team with her great batting.

Shortstop Jill Matyuch comes home to score a run. The Hawks defeated Katella with some help from Jill.

Thinking Back

Some of the seniors had a few comments about their playing days as an E.D. softball player and what their teammates meant to them.

"I've had my share of injuries and I'm just glad that I was able to play again during my last year," said outfielder Liesel Smoyer. "With all the hard work I've put into softball, it finally paid off for me. I would never have made it if it hadn't been for all my special friends on the team," stated third baseman Stephanie Richards. "Softball was the biggest and the best part of my life at E.D. I wouldn't have been able to do it without my parents and friends to support me," replied pitcher Tammy Moore. "I'm just glad that I had my friends there to help me through it all. I'll really miss them," commented outfielder Shelley Gallagher.

Shelley Gallagher takes a hard swing at her turn at bat. Shelley has been on varsity for 3 years.

With some coaching from Coach Brennan, Jill Matyuch rounds third base on her way to home plate.

"Keeping the bench warm was my most important job. I was the best cheerleader out there," said Shannon Emrick.

The Come Back Team

The "Come Back Team" was the nickname given to the El Dorado Junior Varsity softball team this year. After watching one of their games for the first few innings you may begin to worry, but none to fear. This powerhouse continued to explode during the closing innings of almost every game.

The girls new style of leading off bases combined with great fielding and hitting made the $4-85 J.V. softball team something to watch. "We had a strong team this year," comments Jenni Bishop, "but Wendi Malone stood out among the rest."

The team had the opportunity of playing in the Woodbridge Tournament and came away with the fifth place award of "consolation champs" out of 17 other schools.

Their goal was to be in good shape and win League Championships. Although they practice hard every Monday, Wednesday and Friday for 2½ hours, these girls love what they do and they do it so well. "This years team has a lot of talent and will go far," said Wendy Hakeman and we all believe her.

Love Means Nothing To A Tennis Player

The tension mounts as the last point is awarded. It's another victory for the El Dorado Boys Varsity tennis team. Why does the team perform so well as a whole? "I think it's because everyone on the team encourages each other. We're all good kids and everyone is friendly," stated Palo D'Alo.

The Varsity team consists of 8 players and all of them considers each an equal, none better than the others.

Coach Johnson helped his team to victory by stressing that the players practice on their own and improve individually.

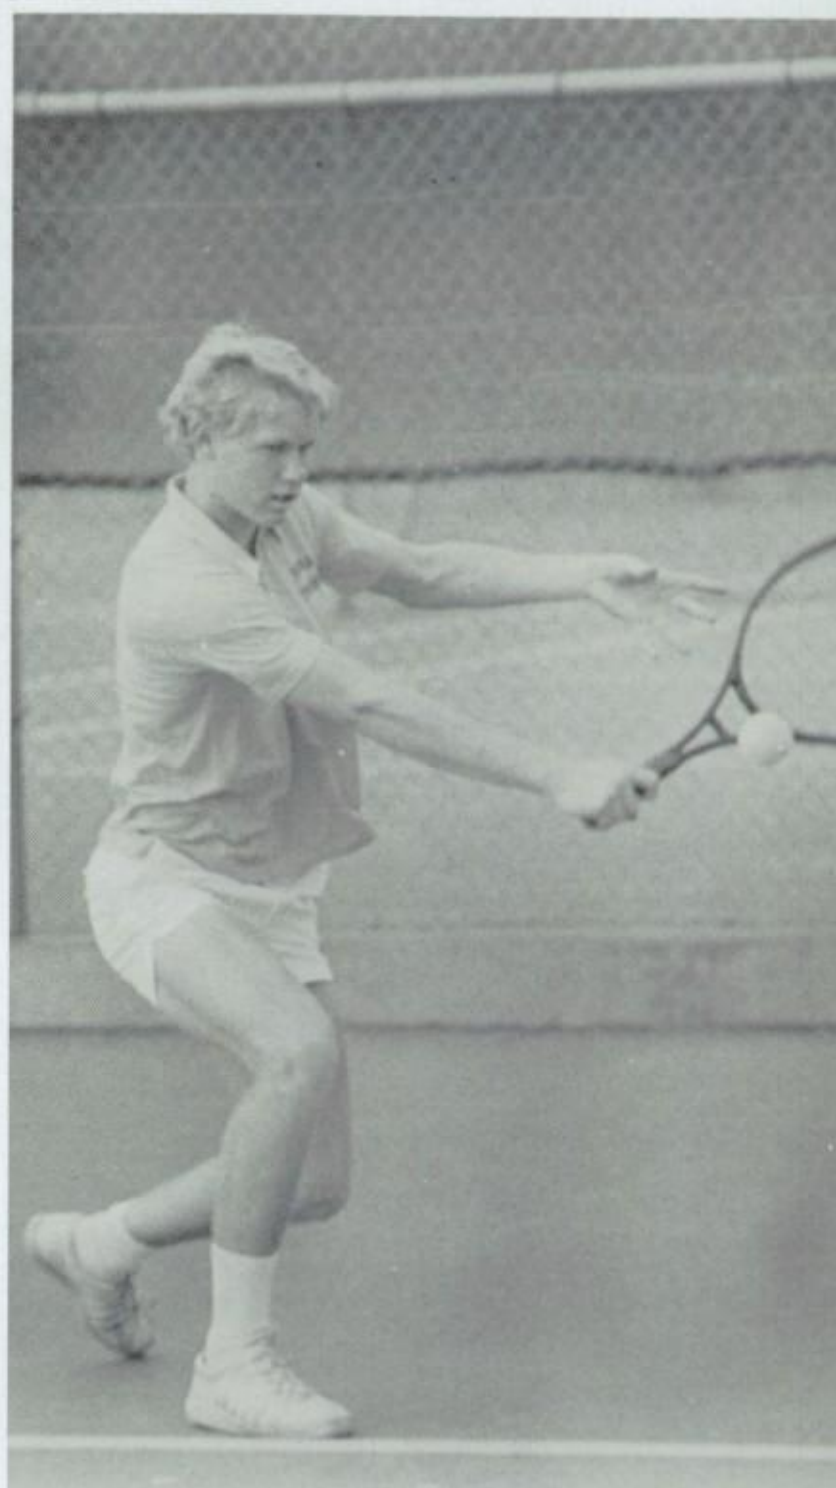

When asked what the hardest part of the sport is, Casey Marshall replied, "Playing in the wind because you can't control the ball." Tactics is also a big part of El Dorado's secret. Learning special tactics in and out of practice is what makes this team different than the rest. Good job guys and congrats on a great season.

"We were always the underdog and we always tried to surprise the rest of the teams by beating them. We had a good attitude and tried our hardest." Sophomore Bob Botha describes what he thought was the best thing about being on the JV tennis team this year. The overall team record was not as good as they hoped, but they were able to learn about working as a team, and striving forth as individuals. The coach this year was Don Smith. Sophomore Darin Hicks commented, "I felt it was kind of disorganized at the start, but everything seemed to really come together during the season."

Tennis coach Don Smith pursues his favorite pastime, the sport of fishing.

John Yarter reaches up for an easy backhand.

"Ready, aim, fire!" exclaims Herb Kraft as he creeps up on an unsuspecting ball.

Personal Best

Being on a track team offers something that no other sports team does. It offers choices. A variety of events make it possible for individuals to strive, not only for themselves, but for the entire team. Senior Brian Galvin commented, "I love track, but I don't like the physical abuse. My favorite thing is being able to participate in CIF as an individual." But winning as an individual is only half; being in track means that you are on a team. Senior Steve Beard, team MVP, added, "It is alot of team effort. When the team works well, everyone wins the meet."

Junior Mike Genera, in his second year of track as a pole vaulter, stated, "It is an intense sport. It requires complete unification of body and mind." High Jumper, Mitsuo Meada commented, "I like high jumping because it enables you to feel free, to set different goals for yourself and to excel."

On the team this year, there are as many different coaches, as there are events, the coaches include Mr. Titus, Mr. Leonard, Mr. Henshall, Mr. Bishop, Mr. Morning, and Eric Olson.

Leaping over the hurdles with great speed, Jason Sweet set a new school record in the 330 yard intermediate hurdles. His time was 39.6 seconds.

Running the 330 LH, Kristen Donath shows her ability of leaping over hurdles. Kristen has been a team member for three years.

Arching over the bar in the high jump event is Amy Kinnear. This is Amy's first year with the team.

Discus thrower, Tracey Tastad, gets ready to throw with skill. Tracey has been a team member for the past four years.

Determined Excellence

The team was young this season, but they all worked to be number one. Throughout the season, everybody helped each other in order to improve their skills. "The practices are hard but they were always fun," commented shot put and discus thrower, Tracey Tastad.

The runners had their hard times with injuries this season. Michelle Banks added, "At the Esperanza meet this year I pulled my hamstring muscle running the last leg of the 440 yard relay." The injury did not setback the recovery. "A temporary setback doesn't have to be completely debilitating if you keep the proper attitude," Michelle concluded.

Audra Weaser a high jumper for four years added "Throughout my career, I've met the goals I put forth. I tried to contribute the most possible points for the team." That is what track is all about, setting goals, meeting them and winning points for the team.

Lynnette Ignacek concludes, "The past four years have been a great experience. I've always considered the track team to be a huge family. I would just like to say thanks for all the good times and good memories."

During a 440 relay handoff, Whitney Nelson and Sheryl Utter both show technique. Whitney and Sheryl are known to be "Spirit stars of the Future."

Golfers Enjoy Unexpected Success

During the practice matches of this season, the team's vision of league play was blurred. With only one senior, two juniors, and four sophomores not much was expected from these players. The coach, Dennis Hakeman definitely felt as if this year would be a stepping stone for next year. He was given a pleasant surprise. With only two losses the team captured an unpredicted second place in the Empire League.

When asked about the impressive standing, Mr. Hakeman felt that the players and their willingness to be competitive made the difference. He explained that their success had to do with the improvement of Dan Cozzo, the transfer of Jimmy Lloyd from Brea, and the consistent play of Mark Rylance, Chris Sanatar, and Rodney Tarlton.

Most of the players have known Mr. Hakeman for more than one year. "Mr. Hakeman takes responsibility for the team and manages it well," stated junior Chris Sanatar.

The team had already been assured of a spot in the CIF team play, and hopes to send some team members to the CIF individuals. "Mark Rylance and Chris Sanatar are most likely to reach the CIF individuals," stated sophomore Dan Cozzo.

These golfers are obviously ready for the playoffs, and definitely a coach's dream for the next couple of years.

Chris Sanatar prepares for approach to the green. Deafness in this aspect is essential to a complete game.

Steve Prancevic displays great form on the tee. Proper weight is one of the keys to Steve's success.

Birdie putts are no problem for Mark Rylance. His firm stroke and steady nerves combine for consistent low scoring.

Rodney Tarlton shows what "keeping your eye on the ball" really means. Good body turn and follow through are basics to good driving.

Being long off the tee helps Jamie Lynch bring any course down to size.

Long lag putts are no challenge to Dan Cozzo. Tom Watson and Johnny Miller also favor upright stances.

After a long tee shot Todd Pakulski hits a short iron to the par-4 green. Quite often, birdies and pars are a result of short irons to the green.

Putting for a two, Scott Schweitzer is in deep concentration. While the ball rolls towards the hole, he is automatically thinking birdie.

As Kevin Biller finishes his swing he prepares to see the ball fly long and straight.

Moving Upward And Onward

With the help of Coach Carl Sweet the junior varsity golfers are learning what has to be done to play varsity golf. Hard work and a skill for the game are two factors needed to become good players.

Junior varsity golf programs have been dismissed from some Empire League schools as well as other schools throughout California. For some reason it's been a hard program to budget, but El Dorado has successfully continued to have two golf teams. "Being a sophomore and not able to make the varsity team, I appreciate the opportunity to be able to play," stated Scott Schweitzer.

The team had 16 matches against non-league and league schools. They ranked second in league behind Esperanza. "The strongest team in our league was definitely Esperanza," explained John Marsh, "because they have guys playing junior varsity that could make varsity at other schools."

The key players on this team were Scott Schweitzer, Kevin Biller, and Eric Reynolds. Other team members included John Marsh, Todd Pakulski, Steven Mitchell, and John Overland.

The nicest part of the junior varsity program is most of these play varsity golf with top players in Southern California.

With a good chip and putt, John Marsh will save par. Getting up and down is a necessity in the game of golf.

Showing perfect backhand form, Jim Sammons tries to outsmart his opponent. Jim was an outstanding doubles player.

In the CIF finals, Chris Ames sets up for the score. The water polo team took a tough loss to Newport Harbor in the finals.

Jim Mansfield watches as he puts two more points on the scoreboard. The basketball team was co-champions of the Empire League.

Playing all out as usual, Gene Tjoa ends up on the ground. Gene's hard work enabled him to lead the team in goals scored.

A Participant

"When I was in third grade, I had an aunt who taught. I really looked up to her, so I decided that is what I would do." Mrs. Crays has been teaching for six years. She has just finished her 3rd year at El Dorado, where she had classes in general math, computer programming I and II and Algebra II which happens to be her favorite subject to teach.

"I really enjoyed high school so I guess that is why I like teaching high school. Most of all, I like getting to know the students. I like the interaction with people, not just sitting at a desk." Because of this, Mrs. Crays became very involved with the school. This was her first year as the advisor to the National Honor Society whom she feels "are a very special group of students." Mrs. Crays could also be found supporting the sports teams at their games.

For 20 years, Mr. Woy has been teaching students math. He has taught from pre-algebra to algebra II. Mr. Woy prefers to teach any class but freshmen, and he likes to get to know each of his students even though he never seems to have enough time. When asked what he likes most about teaching, Mr. Woy put it simply, "the summers."

In his spare time, Mr. Woy likes to ski, dive, and travel. Mr. Woy has been to over 50 countries and he says, "there's too many interesting places to pick a favorite." This summer, Mr. Woy and his family will travel the South Pacific: Tahiti, New Zealand, Australia, Fiji, and Hawaii.

A Man Of Many Talents

Dr. Morris earned his PhD. in science education at Florida State University. Following that, he taught at the university and also did research to improve science teaching. He later worked at a medical school as the assistant dean. In addition, Dr. Morris taught high school in northern California.

Before Dr. Morris came to El Dorado, he owned a business that dealt with new inventions in the field of technology. He made enough money in his business that he could afford to return to teaching. According to Dr. Morris, "My business was not as much fun as education."

Dr. Morris has authored and co-authored thirty-six books. The topics are diverse and include medicine, computer education, bio-chemistry, and travel. He enjoys books and averages three hours a day of reading.

Dr. Morris raises horses on his ranch which is located in the Black Hills of South Dakota just outside of Rapid City. His nearest neighbor is several miles away. He enjoys the quietness and privacy of the area.

Being a pilot, Dr. Morris has owned two different planes. He has flown across the United States, into Canada, and also in the Grand Canyon.

"Working with people who want to learn is the most fun that I've ever had," stated Dr. Morris. The things that Dr. Morris most enjoys about teaching are the constant interaction with people and the challenges that teaching presents.

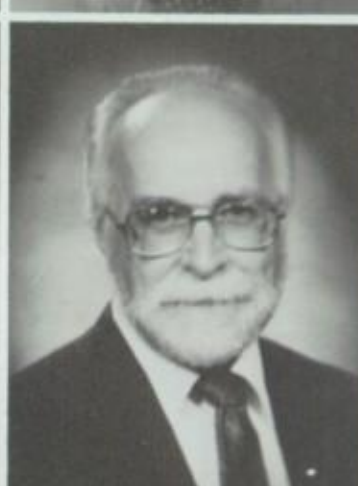

New to El Dorado, math and science teacher Dr. Morris prefers to teach. "My business was not as much fun as education."

Teachers Are People Too

Mr. Disbennett has been a social studies teacher at El Dorado for the past nine years. He is currently serving as the Social Studies Department Chairman.

In his spare time, Mr. Disbennett enjoys attending athletic events, playing his drums, and listening to music. He likes all types of music and has all of the Beatles and Rolling Stones albums. Mr. Disbennett also plays basketball, runs, and fishes.

Mr. Disbennett considers teaching to be acting. In other words, he is playing the role of teacher. In addition, he believes that a teacher must be outgoing to be effective. Although Mr. Disbennett enjoys his job, he becomes frustrated when he has students that he can't reach. Mr. Disbennett stated that most students do not consider their teachers to be people. He concluded, "Most students feel that their teachers crawl up in their desks and sleep at night."

Mr. Jim Disbennett arrives at the school via chauffeured limousine. Disbennett was named Teacher of the Year.

White lace and promises,
A kiss for luck and we're on our way,

Changes

By the time the last bell of the 84-85 school year had rung, trailers no longer stood outside because they were replaced by new offices and a new program no longer existed. The hands of the clocks had begun to keep time and the announcements were again heard each morning. A new teacher appreciation day was seen, Mrs. Test left us and Mrs. Gerisimu joined us.

The year was filled with new events. Freshmen lived through the times they were called "FRESHMEN", sophomores finally held their driver's licenses, juniors ultimately got the coveted title of "SENIOR" and caught the dreaded "SENIORITIS" and the seniors become freshmen in life once again. Throughout the year, we have seen the changes that will be forever engraved in our minds. Now we look to the yet to come.

Changes

During the ASB elections, students hang campaign posters across the campus. This year 28 students ran for ASB offices.

Reading the morning announcements are Rob Ramos and Susan Geer. Different student council members read the announcements each day.

Mrs. Gerasimou is a new addition to the school. She is now part of the El Dorado counseling staff.

Jenni White gives Mr. Tiner an apple on Teacher Appreciation Day. Each teacher was presented with an apple.

Walking to their classrooms on Teacher Appreciation Day was a pleasant surprise for the teachers as they were greeted by the R.O.T.C., the cheerleaders, and many students.

Standing in front of the school is the new marquee. It posts all upcoming events and past accomplishments.
